GREAT BRITAIN WILL RECOGNIZE SOVIET RUSSIA

Labor Regime Opens Negotiations.

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—One of the first acts of the new Labor government has been to cable the announcement to all the dominion governments of the British empire that Great Britain intends to resume diplomatic relations with soviet Russia in the near future. This was officially confirmed tonight.

Political observers believe the Labor ministry's move will receive sufficient support from Conservative and Liberal members of parliament to assure approval of British diplomatic relations with Moscow.

It has long been known that the Labor party was in favor of renewing the diplomatic and trade relations with Russia broken off by the raid on Arcos house, London, headquarters of the Russian commercial mission, made by the late Conservative government in May, 1927.

Seeks Dominions' Coöperation.

Although the British government is not technically dependent on approval of its new Russian policy by the dominions, the coöperation of other parts of the British empire is ardently desired in London.

Well informed persons think that resumption of relations with Russia will be proposed in the king's speech from the throne July 2.

It is thought the government may count on support from both opposition parties, since the leaders of the Liberal party severely criticized the Baldwin government for its break with Russia. Among many young members of the Conservative party there is strong sentiment for getting on normal terms with Russia.

TALK OF DISARMAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25. — Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, accompanied by Hugh Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, who had been ordered to London to confer with Gen. Dawes on the progress of disarmament negotiations, called on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald this afternoon. They had nearly an hour's conversation with him, during which, it was learned, the whole question of disarmament was discussed.

According to reliable authority, Mr. Gibson's visit to London must not be taken as an indication that President Hoover favors using the machinery of the league of nations for the disarmament conference. However's America's mind is open as to the procedure.

Next Move Is Europe's.

The next step is some one else's move. It must come preferably from a European nation, and aim at a meeting of either experts or statesmen. America will probably prefer that the experts meet separately, and hand the results of their deliberations over to the statesmen of their respective nations for reconciliation.

In a speech at a labor reception tonight Mr. MacDonald said he hoped to announce within a few days full plans for the proposed naval reduction conference.

"I am not a prophet and am not going to pose as one able to prophesy, but from my conversations today with Gen. Dawes and Mr. Gibson I am hopeful," Mr. MacDonald said. "I will put it no higher than that. I am convinced of this, that the obstacles in the way of an understanding have been created by a lack of understanding each other."

The great thing wanted in the world today, said the prime minister, was the capacity of different peoples and different races and nations to put themselves in each other's shoes. "That will be one of the things we shall try to do in conducting these negotiations," he added.

Dawes Addresses British Veterans.

Gen. Dawes was a guest tonight at a banquet at the Hotel Cecil given by the British Empire Service league, at which the prince of Wales presided. Gen. Dawes was entertained not as the American ambassador, but as a representative of America's soldiers in the American Legion. The prince, in introducing Gen. Dawes, called him "a regular fellow."

"When Gen. Home and Capt. Simms of your organization called on me at the embassy the other day they left with me a copy of your constitution, and I found in it, named as one of the fundamental objects for its formation, a statement of purpose which I think is uppermost today in the hearts and consciences of the peoples of the

FALTERS IN HER DRAMATIC TALE OF ENGAGEMENT

Tells of Hardinge's Ardor as Fiance.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Ann Livingston brought the story of her shattered romance to a climax yesterday—her third day on the witness stand—when she told how her consent to marriage was won by the fervid wooing of Franklin S. Hardinge, 62 year old oil burner manufacturer, whom she is suing for $250,000 for breach of promise. The third chapter of her story, as she related it before a jury in Judge Charles S. Miller's crowded courtroom in the county building, was made up of a swift narrative of ardent wooing, plots, and intrigue, which kept the spectators in a hush of gaping interest.

Big Scene in Trial.

High points of what was indisputably the big scene of the trial to date painted Hardinge as a man of four loves—his first wife, his second, his housekeeper, and Ann. Then there were intimations that some one in the Hardinge household had attempted a poison plot against Ann, now suing Hardinge for $250,000 for breach of promise. During the day John H. Bussian, defense attorney and long time friend of Hardinge, was cast by Ann in the rôle of the villain who wrecked the romance.

At one point in her narrative—when she told of Hardinge's ardor on her first inspection of his household after they became engaged—Ann's self-possession deserted her before the crowded courtroom, and she faltered out the details under the peremptory orders of the attorneys.

Long before court convened at either the morning or the afternoon session the S. R. O. sign had to be hung out. Reinforcements were called to help the battery of bailiffs stand guard at the doors. Even so, the crowd in the courtroom was larger than at any previous hearing, and even standing room was at a premium.

The Story So Far.

In two days on the stand prior to yesterday Miss Livingston had told to the jury the story of her encounter with the millionaire manufacturer on a train between Kansas City and Denver in June of 1927; how the friendship flourished when he visited her the following September at Tulsa, where he proposed marriage and urged her to come back to Chicago with him as his bride. She told of begging for time to make up her mind, finally coming to Chicago to visit him, expecting to make her decision after meeting his family.

More than two dozen love letters Ann received from Hardinge after their first meeting and before her Chicago trip had been read to the jury by her attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich.

Housekeeper Enters Story.

As soon as she began the recital of her Chicago adventures the first intimation of a rift with Josephine Brand, Mr. Hardinge's housekeeper, entered the narrative. Miss Livingston, clad in the same black and orange frock she wore on Monday, had returned to the stand to continue direct examination by Attorney Ehrlich.

Q.—Did you come to Chicago, Miss Livingston? A.—Yes, I did, on Nov. 21, 1927.

Q.—Who met you at the train? A.—Mr. Hardinge. He was alone.

Q.—Where did you go or what did you say? A.—He drove me to a hotel on the north side—the Cluxton—where he said he had made arrangements for me to stay. While we were driving there he said to me, "Ann, you know I told you about Josephine. She is very much upset at your coming up here—you know she's just out of the hospital and she isn't well. She thinks I ought to marry her, and so I fixed it for you to stay at this hotel."

Denies Marriage Proposal.

Q.—What did you say? A.—I asked him: "Mr. Hardinge, why does Josephine think you ought to marry her? Did you ever promise to, or did you ever ask her to marry you?" He said: "No, I never have. But just because she's been with us so long and seems like one of us, she has always rather thought when I married again I would marry her."

Q.—What else was said? A.—Well, I told him that perhaps I ought to go back home, that perhaps he did owe it to Josephine to marry her. And he

H. P. Fletcher Quits Post as Envoy to Italy

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 25.—American Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher announced today that his resignation, submitted to President Herbert Hoover some weeks ago, has been accepted.

Mr. Fletcher, will leave Rome on Aug. 3 on the steamer Augustus after five years of service in Italy, and thirty-one years of service in the American diplomatic service.

"I left the rough riders in 1898 to enter the diplomatic service," he said, "and since that I have lived abroad. I am now anxious to get back home and enjoy complete freedom from all worries again. On the other hand, I shall be sorry to leave Rome in many ways, for I have spent five pleasant years here."

Notifies Italian King.

Mr. Fletcher has already announced his resignation to King Victor Emmanuel and the foreign office, who expressed the deepest regret to see him leave. In a few days he will go to Montecatini for a two weeks' rest and then return to Rome to wind up his business here and have a final leave taking with Premier Mussolini.

Mr. Fletcher's resignation will actually become effective some weeks hence, so that he will leave here and arrive home as an ambassador. The ambassador said he had no immediate plans.

To Rest At Old Home.

"I shall go back to my home in Greencastle, Pa., and spend some months there," he said, "but for the present I have no other ideas for the future."

With the acceptance of his resignation, Mr. Fletcher received a telegram in appreciation of his services from President Hoover.

Mr. Fletcher has been very popular in diplomatic and Italian circles during his five years here, where his spirit of fairness and his objectivity, while maintaining the American viewpoint, have been especially valuable and appreciated.

Negroes Threaten One of Race Who Attacked Girl

Paris, Ill., June 25.—(AP)—Extra guards tonight were placed around the county jail when a crowd of Negroes assembled and threatened violence to William H. McAmy, 24, Negro, of Chicago, who had been arrested for an alleged attack upon a Negro schoolgirl,

ADMITS SLAYING BOYHOOD PAL OVER $35 DEBT

Lawrence Downey and Charles Carroll were raised together in the old 19th ward. They were always pals. Downey's father, William Downey, was once an alderman. Yesterday Downey, in company with his father, surrendered to the police and confessed that he shot and killed Carroll in an argument over $35.

The shooting occurred Saturday night in front of the Marmora Inn, a roadhouse near Chicago Ridge. Downey is part owner of the café. He said that he borrowed $50 from Carroll six months ago. Carroll came to the inn with three men and demanded the rest of the money. Downey said that in the argument he shot and killed Carroll in self-defense.

Highway Police Chief William Collins said it was a deliberate murder. He pointed out that Carroll was shot three times in the back. Downey was charged with murder. Carroll lived at 5233 South Honore street.

County Orders Arrest of 'Line Straddlers' on Roads

Lindberghs in Ohio on Aerial Honeymoon

Columbus, O., June 25.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by his bride, the former Anne Morrow, pulled a typical Lindbergh arrival on Columbus tonight when he came down out of the air after a nonstop flight from New York.

An hour later, the colonel, in his open Curtis Falcon biplane, attempted to throw his admirers off his trail. He was scheduled to land at Norton field, the army field near Columbus, but instead he landed at Port Columbus, the eastern air terminal of the Transcontinental Air Transport company.

Crowd Caught in Jam.

Lindbergh circled Norton field first, however, then headed for Port Columbus. The crowd gathered at Norton field started after him. Circling Port Columbus several times, he turned back to Norton field.

The crowd was caught between the two fields in one of the worst traffic jams ever noted here. The crafty colonel then landed at Port Columbus.

May Camp in Fields.

From Columbus Lindbergh intends to fly to Indianapolis and then on across the continent to inspect airports along the transcontinental air-rail route.

Camping equipment is stowed away in the plane, and Lindbergh and his wife may stop in farm fields and pitch their tent. His itinerary, however, calls for stops at St. Louis, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo.; Wichita, Kas.; Waynoka, Okla.; Clovis, N. M.; Albuquerque, N. M.; Winslow, Ariz.; Wingman, Ariz., and Los Angeles, Cal.

Lindbergh laid his lateness in reaching Columbus to fog which he encountered over the mountains. He and his wife were in the air approximately six hours.

"How does your wife feel about your flying so much?" he was asked. "That's my business," he answered.

Aged Victim Routs Three Bandits from His Office

Three youths were put to flight yesterday afternoon by John Lussem, an 82 year old real estate man, after they had assulted and robbed him of $20 in his office at 1056 West Harrison street. Two of the bandits held Lussem while the other rifled the cash register. When they attempted to beat him he resisted and frustrated their attempts to open a safe, after which they became frightened and fled.

Seven Injured as Two Buses Crash Head-on

Two motor buses operated by the surface lines collided head-on yesterday evening at Diversey and Kilpatrick avenues, injuring seven people. W. J. Newman, driver of the eastbound bus, said he swerved over onto the north side of Diversey avenue because his bus was struck by a northbound automobile driven by Leo Dorfmann, 6151 Winthrop avenue, and that his car was then struck by the westbound bus driven by L. J. Schoenfeld, 2439 61st avenue, Cicero.

Near Panic Among Women.

The injured were taken to St. Anne's hospital. Police said there were six passengers on the eastbound coach and twenty-two in the other.

Passengers in the crowded westbound bus were in a semi-panic after the crash. They fought to get to the front of the bus, the only exit. Women were screaming and the men climbed out broken windows. Finally several men from the outside broke down the door and the women scrambled out. The two bus drivers and Dorfman were held by the Cragin police.

Crushed Between Street Cars.

Mrs. Alma Budoff, 41 years old, 4830 Bloomingdale avenue, and her 17 year old daughter, Edna, escaped with minor injuries when an automobile driven by the girl was crushed between an east and a west bound street car in Madison street, west of Racine avenue. The girl's father, O. N. Budoff, is a supervisor for the surface lines.

The street car tracks being under repair at the point of the accident, Miss Budoff was compelled to drive on the left side of the street. She was crossing back to the right side when the automobile was caught between the street cars.

County's Toll Reaches 380.

With one death reported in Cook county, the 1929 auto toll mounted to 380.

Joseph Mallec, 38 years old, chef at the Columbian Country club on Milwaukee avenue northwest of Wheeling, was killed when he was struck by a speeding automobile on Milwaukee avenue as he was walking to the club early this morning. The automobile did not stop. County highway police are seeking the address of his family in Chicago.

Paul Solon, 8 years old, 525 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park, died in St Anthony's hospital of injuries received ten days ago when he struck his head against the side of an automobile in which he was riding from Dallas, Tex., to Chicago with his parents.

Alexander Moll, 6502 Drexel avenue, was killed near Belle Plaine, Minn., Monday night when he crashed into a ditch after the wheels of his automobile locked as he applied the brakes.

New Evanston Cops to Be Taught Jiu-Jitsu

County to Save $25,000 by Locking Light Bulbs

The county board yesterday voted to install electric light bulbs which lock into sockets. The action was taken when County Efficiency Expert J. L. Jacobs estimated that the county loses $25,000 annually in replacing stolen bulbs.

INQUIRY TO HIT BUILDING DEPT. AND PAVING RING

Prosecutor Selects Special Lawyer.

A comprehensive investigation of practically every city hall department is to be conducted soon by State's Attorney John A. Swanson as a result of the recent complaint by Ald. Arthur Albert, who charged that the office of Corporation Counsel Ettelson was usurping the powers of the city council. This announcement was made yesterday by the prosecutor as he prepared for a conference this morning with the aldermen.

Prosecutor Swanson, it was reported yesterday, has already secured the services of a well known attorney to carry on the investigation, which will reach into such departments as the corporation counsel's office, the building commissioner, board of local improvements, civil service commission and also touch on contracts let by other departments such as that of public works.

Report Quiz Under Way.

It was reported yesterday that a preliminary inquiry on which the subsequent grand jury investigation is to be predicated has been quietly conducted under the supervision of First Assistant State's Attorney John Northup.

Prosecutor Swanson refused to discuss the contemplated inquiry other than to admit one will be made by his staff. The fear that the statue of limitations of 18 months for conspiracy is fast approaching is said to have spurred him to activity, despite the coming vacation period of the courts. It is generally admitted that any evidence obtainable must come mostly from the period prior to the election in November of the present prosecutor.

Rumors of Many Things.

Rumors of pay roll padding, of so-called splitting of the profits in the letting of contracts, of the granting of certain concessions in return for political favors, have all reached the prosecutor.

At the state's attorney's office it was said that the lawyer selected to lead the big inquiry is winding up his personal affairs at the present time and that State's Attorney Swanson will turn him loose with a special grand jury at his command within a month or six weeks. Some witnesses, it was reported, have already been turned over to the special attorney by the state's attorneys' office and, under the guidance of First Assistant State's Attorney Northrup, have been questioned in the special lawyer's private office.

Building Department Under Fire.

The building department, of which Chris Paschen is the head, has been the target of several injunction suits lately. Charges of manipulation of the city's building code to favor certain builders have been made in the suits and these charges will also come in for investigation. Rumors of favortism in behalf of contractors "politically right" with the city administration have also reached the prosecutor.

Charges that under the Thompson administration a paving ring with the coöperation of city hall officials has controlled paving contracts so that competitive bidding has ceased to exist and that the jobs of asphalting the city streets have been split up among members of the ring, will come in for close scrutiny by the prosecutor, it was reported. The board of local improvements which handles most of the paving contracts is in charge of Michael J. Faherty, president of the board.

A wholesale raid on the city hall for records and documents by means of the subpœna duces tecum is expected to develop as soon as the inquiry is started, within the next few weeks.

Loesch Evidence Available.

Much evidence gathered by Attorney Frank J. Loesch when he conducted his fight against the alliance of crime and politics will be available for the new inquiry. This is particularly true of the pay roll padding charges in the corporation counsel's office.

Ald. Albert, who last week was told to return with such evidence as he could gather to substantiate his charges, is expected to be at the state's attorney's office this morning. He originally asked that the manner of the operation of the corporation counsel's office, particularly in reference to public utilities controlled by Samuel Insull, be made the basis of grand jury inquiry.

When Ald. Albert first demanded an inquiry he charged that Corporation Counsel Ettelson is "the real boss of the city hall," and that "he has supplanted the city council in control of the administration."

Irregularities were found in the Ettelson pay rolls soon after Swanson took office, according to Ald. Albert, and he added that he believed a thorough investigation would disclose that relatives of the corporation counsel and "America First" workers are being retained with no work and good pay. He also indicated that some aldermen are being given jobs in return for votes on administration measures.

Brunker Behind Quiz.

One of those actively behind the investigation is Albert R. Brunker, head of the Civic Safety commission, who organized business men for Swanson in his campaign for state's attorney. Mr. Brunker, admitting that he has urged the inquiry, described the city hall yesterday as "a cesspool of graft and corruption."

"The whole crowd, especially Etteltelson and Faherty, need to be investigated,' he said. "And more than that, the present mayor should be ousted and some one else put in his place for the next two years.

"During his campaign Mr. Swanson made solemn pledges to clean up the public bodies in Chicago and the place to start is in the city hall. The only way to go about it is through a grand jury, and I am frank to say I think the state's attorney should put every ounce of energy into a drastic cleanup."

BOGOSLOWSKI IS HELD AS FORGER DESPITE BROTHER

CRIMINAL COURT.

Carl Tosch, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary; Willie Jones, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge G. Fred Bush.

Peter Wegzyn, contributing to delinquency, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; John Phillipoulas, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Marcus Kavanagh.

Despite his brother's threat to sue for a writ of habeas corpus unless Morris Bogoslowski was released from police custody, Morris was locked up in the county jail last night on a capias naming him as a member of a forgery ring, of which Aaron Moshiek is charged with being the leader. Moshiek is due to go on trial today in Criminal court.

Bogoslowski's brother, who calls himself Benjamin Bogeaus and is the owner of several hotels, was himself in custody Monday night and early yesterday while the police investigated a suspected frameup in a $30,000 jewel robbery, reported early Monday by Bogeaus' wife, the former Ethelind Terry, musical comedy star.

Deputy Commissioner Stege had meanwhile involved Bogoslowski, an ex-convict, in the operations of Moshiek's forgery ring through the statement of Albert Guillanio, a prisoner returned here from Detroit. Guillanio asserted that Bogoslowski had spirited him away to Detroit some time ago to prevent him from appearing for the state at Moshiek's trial. The prosecutors also determined to present Bogoslowski in a showup before victims in the recent robberies of the Garrick and Oriental theaters.

EXPECTS TO GET INDICTMENTS IN DOG TRACK QUIZ

First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup announced yesterday that he expects that indictments against at least some of the dog track owners will be returned before the chief justice of the Criminal court tomorrow morning. The prosecutor, however, said that he did not believe at this time that he would be able to hook up George [Bugs] Moran with the Fairview track or Al Capone with the Hawthorne track.

The prosecutor was working yesterday on a cross-bill to be filed before Judge Harry Fisher, who granted the temporary injunctions under which the tracks are now operating. He said he hopes to get a hearing on the injunction suits before vacation time of the courts.

Admit Passing Counterfeit Money; Sent to Prison

Benjamin Delano, 32 years old, 7210 South Fairfield avenue, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of passing counterfeit money and was sentenced to serve ten years in Leavenworth penitentiary. Miss Edna Lyons, 30 years old, 3000 South Michigan avenue, admitted that she aided in the scheme and was given a year in the women's reformatory at Alderson, W. Va. According to Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan of the United States secret service the two passed many false five and twenty dollar bills in Peru and La Salle, Ill.

Hold Two Girls Found on Jaunt in Boxcar

Juvenile authorities last night were holding two girls, step-sisters, of Bay City. Ia., who were found earlier in the evening in a freight car in the North Western railroad yards near Fulton and Rockwell streets. The girls, Carolyn Miller, 16 years old, and Goldie Shadwell, 17 years old, clad in overalls and begrimed with the dirt of their travels, said they were "bumming it" to the home of their grandfather in Effingham, Ill. An effort will be made to communicate with their parents.

Police Efficiency Doubled by W-G-N: Evanston Chief

Radio broadcasting is a thoroughly tested method of police communication and has doubled the Evanston department's efficiency since it was inaugurated by W-G-N, Chief William O. Freeman of the suburb declared last night at a dinner meeting of the North Shore Police Chiefs' association at a Wilmette inn. About twenty police chiefs of villages and towns in Cook and Lake counties attended the meeting. Entertainment was provided by staff artists from W-G-N.

INQUIRY SOUGHT ON HIGH COST OF EVANSTON GAS

Rate Above Other Cities, Is Complaint.

Why residents of Evanston and other suburbs pay a higher rate for gas than their neighbors in Chicago, and a considerably higher rate than is in effect in numerous other cities, became the concern yesterday of Ald. Edward B. Davidson of Evanston.

Anderson Pace, head of an advertising and sales service, asked the alderman to determine why the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois is enabled to maintain its high rates. Mr. Pace asked whether the city of Evanston is in a position to exercise any control over the gas rates, and what could be done to lower rates.

Asks for Investigation.

"I believe some definite inquiry, extensive enough to get the facts, should be made so that the taxpayers and householders of the community may be freed from a burden of excessive rates paid to the gas company in Evanston," Mr. Pace wrote to the alderman.

"It may be presumed that the business of the Public Service company is dependent upon a franchise which, theoretically, is given by the people of Evanston, so it would seem that some attention might be given to the interests of the community from which the Public Service company makes its profits."

Shows Comparative Rates.

A comparative list showing what various cities pay per thousand cubic feet for household gas, based on the family consumption of 3,000 cubic feet per month, was supplied by Mr. Pace. It is as follows:

Detroit	$ .79	Omaha	1.00
Milwaukee	.82	St. Louis	1.00
Baltimore	.85	Chicago	1.02
St. Paul	.90	Boston	1.18
Denver	.90	Memphis	1.20
Minneapolis	.94	Evanston	1.21½
Indianapolis	.95

The figures, he declared, were taken from the Statistical Abstract of the United States. The rate in Evanston, Mr. Pace showed, is $1.35 per thousand cubic feet per month, for the first thousand cubic feet, $1.30 for the next two thousand cubic feet, and a lower graduated scale according to greater usage. There is a 10 per cent discount on these rates for prompt payment of bills.

SCIENTIST SAYS HE TAKES POISON OUT OF DRUGS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 25.—"Drugs such as morphine, coffee and tobacco may be made innocuous while they preserve their full medicinal qualities," Dr. Hans Much of Hamburg University institute for tuberculosis and immunity research said today.

"Morphine I take merely as a typical vegetable poison," the scientist added. "The process is applicable as well to other similar drugs to which thousands of men and women are slaves. The process consists of the addition of small quantities of lipoid, a neutralizing wax or fat containing matter which is present in many animal and vegetable bodies. Take coffee, for instance. Some people are unable to sleep after drinking strong coffee. The addition of two drops of lipoid to the strongest coffee suffices to obliterate entirely the noxious effects of the coffee, while preserving the nutritive and momentarily sustaining effects."

MEET FRIDAY TO FIX ROUTE OF PROPOSED WEST SIDE HIGHWAY

Col. A. A. Sprague, chairman of the subcommittee on west side streets of the Chicago plan commission, has announced that his committee will meet on Friday to consider the routing of the proposed elevated highway, a referendum which has been approved by the legislature.

Col. Sprague said that so far as he knew no preference of route had been pressed by members of his committee and that the purpose of the meeting on Friday would be to determine one. More than 1,200 studies of streets requiring improvement have been made, he said, but no action had yet been taken.

DAWES HAS SET PRECEDENT WITH A DRY EMBASSY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Ambassador Charles G. Dawes did not endear himself with career diplomats and local state department personnel when he announced yesterday that the American embassy in London would be dry while he remained at the court of St. James.

In many quarters there is apprehension that agitation raised by the drying up of the American embassy in London may cause all American diplomatic missions abroad to follow the Dawes example. These fears are felt in spite of the fact Mr. Dawes is carrying out the rule which prevailed in his home long before prohibition. He was not guided by prohibition theory or propaganda and, incidentally, he has been quoted as having said he is not a teetotaler.

Protested by Missionaries.

Protests have been registered at the state department on several occasions by missionaries who objected to the wetness of certain American diplomats abroad. American missionaries in China protested some years ago, and Charles Evans Hughes, then secretary of state, replied that he would look into the matter.

According to the state department, American diplomatic officials serving outside the United States have been allowed to use their own judgment in the matter of serving liquor. While it was admitted that an order issued by the department probably would dry up the missions, despite the fact that the Volstead act does not cover this situation, officials said the department had never interfered with this phase of diplomatic domestic life.

With few exceptions, according to career men now in Washington, the American diplomatic set abroad serve liquor at state functions. The state department, however, has refused to allow liquor bills to be included in "expenses" charged up to entertainment of foreign officials by members of its diplomatic service.

White House officials declined to discuss the Dawes announcement today. Reports that the President had suggested that this country's largest embassy abroad should set a good example to the smaller missions could not be confirmed.

No Change at Vienna Legation.

VIENNA, June 25.—[U.P.]—Liquor is served socially at the United States legation in Vienna, the United Press learned today. "We have no knowledge of the Dawes statement," the legation spokesman told the United Press. "No change is contemplated in this regard at the Vienna legation."

FAILS IN EFFORT TO END LIFE.

SEES BIRTH RATE IN EUROPE AS NEW WORLD PROBLEM

Italian Fears Population Pressure Blow-up.

Birth rates present a world problem, according to Prof. Corrado Gini of the University of Rome, who lectured yesterday at the University of Chicago. He had declared that the disparity between the birth rates of northern and western Europe and those of southern and eastern Europe "throws a shadow threateningly across the future of civilization."

Prof. Gini said his studies show that the population of the countries of western and northern Europe is already at a standstill, if immigration increases be eliminated, while the Slavs and other southern and eastern races are increasing at a vigorous rate.

Fears Population Pressure.

"Will the countries of northern and western Europe throw open their doors in due time to the immigration of the less senescent populations which surround them and thus share in their demographic evolution?" the Italian professor asked the conference.

His calculations from the number of living people of a reproductive age show that the population is already declining, in England, Wales, Scotland, Finland, Esthonia, Latvia, Sweden, Norway, France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland and probably Ireland and Hungary. If the birth rate of the countries of southern and eastern Europe also declines, the future disparity will no longer be between the several populations of the European races but between the European races and the Hindu, Malayan and yellow races, he asserted. In this he sees danger.

Sees Hope in Immigration.

"If the present tendency continues," he said, "the population of northern and western Europe will, if isolated, die out in the course of time; but if no political barriers or psychological disinclinations were to hinder the free circulation of natives and foreigners, immigration would provide for the levelling out of those differences in the pressure of population as between those countries and their neighboring peoples."

SUES CITY FOR FARM GIVEN BY D. A. GAGE TO COVER HIS SHORTAGE

A lawsuit redolent of Chicago politics in the seventies and calculated to recover valuable land near the Speedway hospital for the widow of David A. Gage, city treasurer in 1869-73, is on file in the United States District court. The suite was brought in behalf of Mrs. Clara Gage Clark of Kansas City by former State Senator Herbert S. Hicks of Rockford.

In it Mrs. Clark asks the return of a 254 acre farm turned over by her late husband in lieu of part payment on a $507,700 deficit noted in his accounts just after his defeat for reëlection in 1873. The money, it was claimed at the time, had been lost during the Chicago bank failures early in 1873. When his books were turned over to his successor, instead of the $965,780 which should have been in the city treasury, but $458,080 remained.

The farm near Maywood was the largest single piece of property which Gage turned over in part cancellation of the debt. Worth thousands then, it is now estimated to be worth millions. Mrs. Clark holds in her suit that the city has no right to the property, and asks that it be given back to her. The city opened bids for the sale of the land this week.

FIELD MUSEUM EXPEDITION AT NAIROBI, AFRICA

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, June 25.—(AP)—Under the leadership of Capt. Harold White, New York hunter and explorer, the members of the expedition of the Field Museum of Natural History of Chicago arrived here yesterday all safe and well. There were seven members in the party.

The party left Addis Ababa on Dec. 11, being the first explorers to obtain permission to travel through the country without restrictions. They explored the Arussi, Stephanio and Rudolf districts and many regions hitherto unexplored.

Among the discoveries were many sub species of fauna obtained for a water hole group in the museum. It was found that there was no rain for eight years in the Stephani area. An excellent giraffe group also was collected.

ATLANTIC GIVES NO CLEW TO LOST SPANISH FLYERS

Four Nations Aid Search for Big Plane.

MADRID, June 25.—[U.P.]—The Atlantic ocean from Portugal to the Azores was searched in vain again today for a trace of the big Spanish seaplane in which Maj. Ramon Franco and his three companions left the Alcazares base Friday afternoon on a projected flight to New York.

Four nations—Spain, Great Britain, Portugal and Italy—participated in the search for the Dornier-Wal craft which officials hoped might be found floating on the water somewhere off the Azores islands. As the fruitless search progressed, hope for the safety of the flyers decreased hourly in view of the danger of rough waters breaking up the seaplane and the fact that the four men had only a small food and water supply.

More Rumors of Wreckage.

Rumors of sighting wreckage at sea still filtered in to the ministry of war and marine, but the squadron leader of the searching cruisers announced by radio this afternoon that he had arrived 100 miles off the Azores, where one rumor placed the wreckage, without finding any trace of an abandoned seaplane.

The ministry of marine received another radio message—relayed from the fishing boat Juan Mariuno—which heard a Portuguese station reporting that an abandoned seaplane had been sighted off the Azores. This report, however, indicated that it was merely a rebroadcast of earlier rumors of sighting of wreckage.

British Send Aircraft Carrier.

The British admiralty ordered the aircraft carrier Eagle to proceed to that section of the Atlantic where Maj. Franco supposedly disappeared. The Eagle will launch seaplanes to scour a wide section of the ocean.

Premier Mussolini of Italy ordered Admiral Conz to dispatch the Italian destroyers Panthere and Bari from the Tagus river in Portugal, to aid in the search from Cape San Vincente to the Azores. Three seaplanes, two of them Spanish and one Italian, will leave Lisbon tomorrow to cover a large area over the ocean.

CHICAGO & ALTON SALE FORECAST IN COURT ACTION

$40,000,000 Mortgages Foreclosure Urged.

The eventual sale and reorganization of the Chicago and Alton railroad was brought yesterday when Federal Judge George A. Carpenter took under advisement a report by Master in Chancery Herbert A. Lundahl, recommending the foreclosure of two heavy mortgages, totaling $40,000,000, one of which has received no interest payment for seven years and the other since it was placed on the road in 1912.

The foreclosure recommendation recalled to veteran railroad lawyers the purchase of the road by E. H. Harriman, New York financier, in 1899, when it was called "the cleanest road, financially" in the country, having paid 8 per cent dividends for many years. Harriman immediately loaded it with a $45,000,000 mortgage, which, however, is not concerned directly in the current proceedings, its interest of 3 per cent having been paid regularly since it was applied.

Receiver Named in 1922.

The subsequent mortgages were put on the property in 1900 and 1912, the first for $22,000,000 at 3½ per cent and the last for $18,000,000 at 6 per cent. It is these which will likely be foreclosed.

The railroad was involuntarily brought into the hands of receivers on Aug. 30, 1922, a circumstance which, it was then claimed, was partly forced by the coal mine and railway strikes. William G. Bierd, for many years president of the road, and Attorney W. W. Wheelock were appointed receivers and are still serving in that capacity.

The current litigation centered in the claims of the holders of the last two mortgages as to which has the right to a first lien on the rolling stock of the road since the consolidation of [illegible], a combination of the Chicago and Alton Railroad company and the Chicago and Alton Railway company.

Would Give Prior Lien to First.

Mr. Lundahl was appointed several years ago by Judge Carpenter to hear the evidence in the controversy. Attorneys for the holders of the $22,000,000 mortgage, which is under the trusteeship of the Farmer's Loan and Trust company of New York, claimed priority of their claims by the date of the mortgage. The United States Mortgage and Trust company of New York, trustees for the $18,000,000 mortgage holders, pointed through their attorneys to the fact that no interest payment has been made. Lundahl's report recommended that the $22,000,000 mortgage holders have the bona fide claims to the first lien.

For the last two days attorneys have been arguing objections to the report, and it is now up to Judge Carpenter to decide the advisability of following the recommendation. He indicated, in taking the matter under advisement, that he would give his decision in a few days.

Whatever decision is made will doubtless be taken to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, with a request for a rehearing, attorneys said last night. The sale of the road would thus be deferred until late fall, it being impossible to have the case heard by the higher court before the October term. In that event a decision would not be likely before November or December.

Col. House Makes Marked Recovery from Illness

Manchester, Mass., June 25.—(AP)— Marked improvement in the general condition of Col. Edward M. House, advisor to the late President Wilson, was reported at his summer home here today. Col. House blamed his refusal to answer telephone calls or see reporters for reports that he was seriously ill, and said: "I have noted a decided improvement since coming here two weeks ago and feel that I can report a complete recovery in the next two weeks." Col. House underwent two major operations in April.

RETIREMENT OF LITTLE LAID TO MARITAL BREAK

Ann Arbor Divorce Suit Thought Sequel.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 25.—Close friends of Dr. Clarence C. Little, retiring president of the University of Michigan, stated today that his resignation was influenced by domestic trouble, trouble which led to his filing a divorce suit here last Thursday.

The difficulty, it is said, on good authority, originated with the decision of Dr. Little to come to the middle west in 1925. It was generally understood that incompatability of temperament will be the grounds set forth by Dr. Little at the divorce hearing, which has been set for Aug. 20 before Circuit Judge George W. Sample.

Terms Reported Arranged.

It is understood that Mrs. Little will not contest the action. A settlement has been agreed upon, it is said, by which Dr. Little pays Mrs. Little $9,000 a year for her support. It has not been learned what settlement has been made as regards the three children; Louise, a student at University High school here, and Robert D. and Edward R., who have been attending a school near Boston.

Mrs. Little has been seen in public with Dr. Little on but a few occasions since their arrival here. On May 23, when students tendered the couple a farewell banquet, she sent her apologies, with the excuse that she was confined at home by a toothache. Dr. Little was the main speaker at that event.

Hinted at "Surprise."

Dr. Little is understood to have told a few intimate friends before his departure from here last Saturday that announcement might be made within a few weeks that would cause considerable surprise. Dr. Little went direct to Mount Desert Island, Me., where he will conduct cancer research work. Mrs. Little left for Boston by train several days before her husband's departure.

TWO FIRES DRAW CROWD.

Two noon fires yesterday, one at 201 North Michigan avenue and the other at Wabash avenue and Monroe street attracted shoppers and office workers and blocked traffic in front of each place.

Burns Is Optimistic

Robert Elliot Burns, magazine editor and real estate promoter who escaped from a Georgia convict chain gang seven years ago, left yesterday for that state to lead his final fight for freedom. His return is voluntary. It is made so that his attorneys may ask executive clemency, which plea necessitates his being in custody.

Burns will not rejoin the chain gang. He is to be sent to the prison farm at Milledgeville, Ga., where he will do clerical work. During his confinement Attorneys Morris I. Kaplan and Cameron Latter will present his case to Gov. L. G. Hardman in an effort to win a pardon. He may not be released until April, 1930.

Burns is accompanied by Vivien Stanley, member of the Georgia parole board, although he is not in custody. The bond of $5,000 set by Superior Judge Joseph B. David during habeas corpus proceedings in his behalf, remains in force until his arrival in Georgia. Burns was optimistic and predicted that he will return shortly to resume work on his magazine.

BERNADINE SZOLD WEDS IN CHINA; IS EX-CHICAGOAN

Miss Bernadine Szold, former Chicago and New York newspaper woman and ex-wife of Otto E. Liveright, author's representative of New York, was married in the American consulate at Dairen, China, on June 16 to Chester Fritz, an Englishman and a silver broker stationed in Manchuria. The announcement was made last night by her sister, Mrs. Herbert A. Byfield, 1725 East 53d street, wife of the president of the White City amusement park.

Miss Szold obtained a divorce four years ago. She has lived in Paris the last couple of years. She met Mr. Fritz, her sister related, while traveling in the orient with the family of Henry L. Stimson, secretary of state.

SHOW MUST GO ON! GIRL DANCES AS HEART BREAKS

New York Gangster Shots Stalk London Stage.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—Tragedy stalked the stage of the ancient Drury Lane theater tonight, while the audience roared with laughter and broke into storms of applause as the musical show "The New Moon" was unrolled to the accompaniment of the gayest of gay music.

The audience saw only the glittering pageant, which brightens the stage of London's largest theater, and failed to catch a glimpse of the pain hidden behind it as pretty Dolores Farris, dancing one of the show's chief rôles, went through her part bravely, while a cablegram, announcing the murder of her sweetheart, Frank Marlow, New York gangster, was lying on her dressing room table. The audience only wondered why the favorite dancer did not appear with the rest of the principals for the final ensemble.

Breaks Down as Show Ends.

While her comrades were bowing to the final strains of the orchestra, Dolores, breaking down under the strain of the news, which had been hidden from the audience under her mask of gayety, was helped out of the theater by friends and hurried away.

Where she is tonight is a mystery. She is not at her hotel and it is supposed that she just disappeared to avoid questioning. Even her most sympathetic friends at the theater, and she has many of them for she is a popular member of the cast, are ignorant of the refuge she has chosen for the night.

Sir Alfred Butt, Drury Lane impresario, hurried to the theater when the news was telephoned him to express his sympathy and suggest that an understudy finish tonight's show. But Dolores has the blood of show folks in her, and she went on as usual.

MURDER A MYSTERY.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]— The slaying of Frank Marlow, well known in Broadway night life as a prizefighter manager, night club owner, gambler, and general racketeer, seemed likely tonight to remain as much a mystery as that of his friend, Arnold Rothstein. The police were unable to establish a motive for Marlow's slaying or to obtain a clew to his murderers.

One lead was furnished by Mrs. Minnie Curto, widow of the slain man. She said that her husband two weeks before had made a hurried trip to Boston, the purpose of which she did not know.

The second came from Betty Farley, 19 years old, formerly of Philadelphia, and Mrs. Myrtle Burke, 19, of Scranton, Pa., both of whom told of meeting a man known to them, they said, only as "Jimmy" in the Hotel Victoria where Marlow had a room.

The young women were questioned for almost two hours in police headquarters, after which detectives were sent out in automobiles to tour the white light district in the hope of obtaining a clew to the whereabouts of "Jimmy."

Smoking During Meals Rouses Wrath of Chefs

FINDS WOMEN LIARS, UNFAIR, REAL PURSUERS

Peers at 'Em for Six Years and Learns.

New York, June 25.—[U. P.]— Lovely woman would be shocked to know how she appears to Magistrate Alexander Brough, who has been peering at her with judicial and unbiased mind during six years he has presided over the New York family court.

Magistrate Brough learned about women in court and he tells some of the things he said he learned, though he makes the statement that he does not mean all the women. He's talking of the type of women that come into court. Here are some of his conclusions:

Women are liars.

They have no sense of law and order.

Finds Them Unfair, Too.

They have no consideration of fairness toward their husbands.

Instead of being the pursued, they are the pursuers, often seeking a wedding ring simply to avoid the social stigma (among women) of appearing undesirable.

They marry a $25 a week man and yell because they can't live on a $60 a week scale.

Given $15 a week as the maximum for the family budget, they will blow $10 on a permanent wave.

They are so lacking in sentiment that they don't remember their own wedding day. They say, "I was married three or four years ago," and that does them nicely.

Slaps Husband in Court.

"Why, a woman was in court yesterday wanting me to increase the payments her husband was making for her support," said the judge.

"Our social workers investigated and found he couldn't pay her any more. When I denied her request, she got so angry she slapped her husband right there in court. What can you do to her? You can't send a mother to jail for contempt and let her children go without care.

"Another woman wanted more money and said she wasn't working. Our investigator knew she was.

"'Oh, well,' she admitted, 'I knew I'd get more money if you thought I was dependent on him.'

"And when I threatened her with prosecution for perjury she just laughed and said, 'I don't care.'

All Have Some Old Clothes.

"They've all got old clothes to wear in court. They all dress to look seedy when asking money. Usually they accuse the husband of going around with other women. I figure the absolute minimum for a man to live on alone is $2 a day. And when he is paying $15 to her out of $30 wages, there isn't much left for other women.

"Usually they try to say the husband's wages are much higher than they really are.

"They feel that the courts must give them everything they want. They know all about their rights, but they recognize no responsibilities."

The Woman Out of Court.

Having relieved himself of these views, Magistrate Brough expressed some of his ideas of what he thinks of the woman who does not get into court.

He still likes to believe that they are ladies riding behind their knights on milk white palfreys, eager to be rescued from dragons and grateful if they are.

2,000 Ukrainians Riot at Service for Slain Students

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Poland, June 25.—Two thousand Ukrainians gathered at a cemetery in Linow on the anniversary of the killing of students in Ukrainian disorders. The police tried to confiscate wreaths with ribbons bearing legends inimical to the government. The mob stoned the police. Reserves dispersed the crowd and arrested seventeen.

SCOTLAND YARD RECORD CRIME SOLVER RETIRES

LONDON, June 25.—(AP)—Frederick Wensley, sometimes called here the "greatest detective of all times," today announced his resignation as chief of the criminal intelligence division of Scotland Yard. During his long career he was credited with solving more murder mysteries than any living man.

Wensley reached 64, the age limit for chief constables, and decided to retire, although a special five year extension was offered him because of his remarkable record.

His career started in 1887 and a year later he worked on the famous "Jack the Ripper" case, whose murders threw Whitechapel into a panic. He took part in the Sydney street siege which was quelled by a battalion of Scots Guards.

A laundry mark and the words "Blodie Belgium" were the only clews he had in another murder.

CHIEF'S POLITICS DIFFER, BUT GIRL SPEEDER FREED

"Are you Democratic or Republican," Miss Belle Korshak, 16 years old, wanted to know when Patrolman Fred Eichler brought her before Chief William O. Freeman in the Evanston police headquarters yesterday.

"Young lady, what has that question to do with your driving 32 miles an hour in the Evanston city limits," Chief Freeman asked.

"Well, my father, Max Korshak, is master in chancery for Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher and a good Democrat," the girl announced. "If you're a good Democrat, you might be lenient."

The chief confessed he was not of Master Korshak's political faith, but dismissed the girl anyway. She promised not to speed again in Evanston and told the chief some Republicans weren't so bad.

BLAZE ROUTS WORKMEN.

Sixty workmen fled from the fourth floor of the Armour & Co. tin shop in the Union stockyards yesterday when fire broke out on the floor above. The blaze was extinguished with $10,000 loss.

ANN IN DRAMATIC CLIMAX TELLS OF PLOTS AND LOVE

said: "Ann, I wouldn't marry Josephine if you did go back. I wouldn't marry her if she were the last woman on earth." That was all.

Q.—Did you meet Josephine? A.—Yes. We were going to the opera that night, and I had no evening wrap, only a shawl. We stopped by the Hardinge home [1432 Fargo avenue, Rogers Park], where Mr. Hardinge told me he would get me an evening wrap his wife used to wear. He went in and I met Josephine. She was very friendly, and said: "I'm going to call you Ann, because I've heard so much about you. When Mr. Hardinge came back from his western trip I heard nothing but the Tulsa girl. I had the Tulsa girl for breakfast, dinner, and supper."

Q.—She was friendly to you? A.—Yes, very friendly then, and I thought she was very pretty and cultured.

Social Events and a Long Ride.

Josephine's cordiality did not last long, as Ann related the tale, despite a gift of a beaded bag which Ann told of buying in a loop shop. Then the story swung to a luncheon with Hardinge and to various club functions and social events and of a long drive they took along the north shore shortly after her arrival.

Hardinge, she asserted, was elated at having her in Chicago, and told her that she would never guess what he had done, namely, made reservations for two on his projected honeymoon cruise after the holidays.

"I was so sure you had come to Chicago to marry me," she quoted him as saying to her, "that I have already got our tickets for the cruise. We'll go to the West Indies and touch the coast of South America. Then we'll come back for three weeks in Bermuda, and after that we'll go to Florida and visit the Bussians, for they have invited us to their house there.

"Since you've never been to California, we might go on to there, and come back by way of Florida, and then return to Chicago about May or June. And I'm already planning a trip around the world for us for next year, for I've wanted to travel and I want some one with me that I can love and adore. So hurry and give me your answer."

WHEN ANN SAID "YES"

Ann was unwilling, however, she stated, to pledge her word that she would become his wife, and told him she wanted to meet his daughter and son first. He urged that his son was at school and would not be home until Christmas, and that his daughter was on a visit with her husband's family in Ohio, and that he could not wait for her decision until they returned.

Under the questions of Attorney Ehrlich, Ann then told of her decision to marry Hardinge. She said she finally informed Hardinge that she would become his bride after telling him she had been advised to do so by her mother, her employer, and a couple of friends.

Q.—Where did this conversation take place? A.—We were in a restaurant in Rogers Park. Mr. Hardinge grabbed my hand and jumped up, leaned across the table, and kissed me. He said, "Ann, you've made me the happiest man in the world. I don't want you ever to be worried about anything again. I'm so happy I want to dash out and tell everybody. I can't hardly wait till I get home to tell Josephine. I could get up right now and dance on the table for joy."

Episode Causes Smiles.

A smile went the rounds of the courtroom at the mental vision of the gray haired, shortish man in the light summer suit, sitting almost at the feet of the witness with his hand cupped about one ear, doing a dance on a restaurant table. Only the defendant remained serious.

Q.—What happened after that? A.—Well, we were together quite late that night. The next morning Mr. Hardinge called me up and said he wanted me to come over and see Josephine. He said: "She kept me up until three o'clock this morning crying about our engagement, and she is quite desperate. She feels that she soon will have no home and nowhere to go. I wish you'd come over and see her and talk to her as a woman would. She wants me to pay her $50,000 and let her go away and never come back again." I asked him what he had said to that, and he said: "I told her that I didn't have $50,000 to hand over to her, but that she would always be provided for as before."

Finds Josephine in Tears.

Q.—Did you go over? A.—Yes, I went. I found Josephine still in bed, having some tea. When I came into the room she burst into tears and said: "Ann, come here and put your arms around me and tell me that I'm not going to be turned out in the world without a home." So I did. I kissed her and told her things would be just the same as they had been after Mr. Hardinge and I were married; that she would go on as before.

Q.—Was that all? A.—Then she told me that she had had a sweetheart, a Jim Irwin, in Kansas City for years, but that he had an invalid wife he couldn't divorce, so they'd been waiting for the wife to die so they could get married. But Jim went on a trip up north the summer before, and was drowned. And that she had always rather expected Mr. Hardinge to marry her, since she's been with Mrs. Hardinge so long and knew all his ways. We got real friendly after our talk.

Buys Evening Gown.

Here followed a recital of the various social activities of Ann and her elderly sweetheart, for one of which occasions he insisted, she said, that she purchase another evening gown to supplement her one and only formal outfit.

She described a trip with Miss Brand, at Hardinge's suggestion, to a department store where the first Mrs. Hardinge had had an account, and related how the saleswoman, who had waited on her predecessor, was told by Josephine that Miss Livingston was to marry Mr. Hardinge, and the purchase was to be charged to him.

Q.—You picked out an evening gown? A.—Yes, Josephine helped to select it. It was charged to F. Hardinge. The price, if I remember correctly, was $125.

Q.—Go ahead and tell about what happened on the 19th of November. Did anything happen?

Here the witness got completely out of step with her lawyer. She said quickly: "But I wanted to tell about him buying me a fur coat," she proffered.

Court Warns Witness.

Immediately defense attorney Bussian was on his feet and objecting strenuously. When the objection had been sustained by Judge Miller, the witness was gravely warned by his honor that she must confine her testimony to replies to the queries of her attorney. She nodded meekly, but she had carried her point, for Ehrlich reverted to the topic and permitted her to tell about the fur coat.

It cost $600, it was admitted by the defense as the story went on, and was selected by Mr. Hardinge and the furrier. She had preferred, she said, one that cost but $550 but was overruled in her choice.

Later that day, in view of her ill health and the rigorous climate of Chicago after Tulsa, they purchased woolen underwear and woolen hose which Hardinge requested that she wear under her silk hose, she said.

A HOUSEHOLD INSPECTION

Then Ann came in her narrative to Nov. 19. She described their trip of inspection through the Hardinge home, which she had never seen completely. She told of a trip to the basement where Hardinge exhibited his extensive stock of pre-war beverages, for which he had had vaults built, the door in front of each lot properly labeled "champagne" or what-not.

Attorney Brussian was on his feet again, recording another of his frequent and emphatic objections. He was overruled.

Ann went on to tell of inspecting the much discussed oil burner from which Hardinge's wealth was obtained, and of kidding him about its operation.

"I thought you told me," she quoted herself, "that it was a noiseless burner. I think it rattles a lot."

This Hardinge found extremely funny, she declared, telling her that if she had seen other makes in operation, should would find it noiseless.

From there they went through the rooms, he telling the value and history of various pieces, Oriental rugs, expensive lamps, vases, paintings, and one Japanese print that he stated was worth $1,000. Eventually they arrived at Josephine's room, which he told her would be their room when they were married.

Ann Hesitates at Details.

Here Miss Livingston reached a part of her story which she evidently found difficult to tell. She could hardly go on, even under the promptings of her attorney. Long pauses indicated that she was groping for words and intensely aware of the crowded courtroom, which was exceedingly quiet.

Q.—What happened then? The jury cannot read your mind, Miss Livingston. A.—Why, we were sitting on the bed, and spooning—

Another objection by Bussian, who insisted on details of the conversation. He got them, haltingly. Ann told in a low voice of her fiancé's attempt to become offensively familiar, and of her objections. Then he argued they were soon to be married, and of her settling the matter by stating they were not yet wed, and of walking out of the room.

Q.—What happened next? A.—Well, that evening Mr. Hardinge came to take me to dinner, and he was very apologetic, and said it had only happened because he cared so much for me, and wouldn't I forgive him. So I did.

Brings Her Beautiful Gem.

Q.—Anthing else? A.—Why, the next morning he called me early, and said he wanted to come over at once if I was up, that he had something for me. I told him to come ahead. He had a little box with him, and he showed me a diamond—an unmounted stone—that weighed three and three-quarters carats, according to the figures he had marked on the paper. I have the paper yet.

Q.—What did you say? A.—Well, of course I was simply jumping up and down. It was the most gorgeous stone I had ever seen—looked as big as my head. And I thanked him as well as I could.

Ann went on, telling how they had gone to a jeweler in the loop and selected a mounting for the ring, Hardinge informing the jeweler it was the pledge of their betrothal.

Finds Daughter Unfriendly.

About Thanksgiving day it became apparent that Hardinge's daughter, Helen, had become actively unfriendly to her, Ann related. She spent the day at Hardinge's home, and Josephine seemed also to have grown bitter toward her, insisting that Hardinge drive her to visit some friends of hers, though he had made an engagement with Ann. They drove to visit the friends.

Next came Ann's story of the wedding band with which Hardinge presented her during a brief illness. It was, she said, a circlet of diamonds mounted to match the engagement ring. The former she had kept in its box after getting it from the jeweler, she said, until Hardinge could put it on her finger himself, whereupon he kissed her and asked:

"Do you know how sacred this is, and what it means to us?"

Suspicion of Poison.

The wedding ring, Miss Livingston said, was presented to her during an illness of several days. She told of having dinner at the Hardinge home each night, and for four nights running of becoming violently nauseated after each evening meal.

"We were riding the fourth night," she added, "and I told Mr. Hardinge that I wondered whether Josephine could possibly be putting something in my food. He said that was beyond belief—that he had known Josephine so long, and that of course she was jealous and hurt, but that he was sure she wouldn't do anything like that. I consulted Dr. Little, and he said if it happened again he would give me an examination and find out what was the matter."

DIVORCE SPECTER ARISES

One morning she was at Hardinge's home when a call came from Bussian's office and his partner, E. I. Debolt, began to question her about her divorce from Robert J. Puderbaugh in Oklahoma.

"I asked why he wanted to know," she testified, "and he said he had had men looking it up, and that there was no divorce on record. So I told him his men must have made a mistake, and he said his men didn't make mistakes. I told him I would get in touch with my former husband and get a copy of the decree. He said 'Very well.'

"Then I asked Mr. Hardinge why they were investigating the divorce, and he said they—Mr. Bussian and Mr. Debolt—had told him it would be necessary before we got our marriage license. I was hurt that he hadn't consulted me, but he said I had been sick and needn't be worried about it."

Finds Growing Opposition.

From this point on Miss Livingston's testimony brought in almost all the close friends of Hardinge and his family as allied against her, with the exception of Franklin Jr., who apparently was an enthusiastic friend of his father's fiancée. Josephine, the housekeeper; Helen, the daughter; Bussian, the business associate and personal attorney; and Debolt, his partner, all came into the picture.

"Mr. Hardinge asked me once if I would drive down with him to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bussian, on the south side," she testified. "I said that I didn't care to go, as Mr. Bussian had said he wouldn't recognize me socially until certain things had been attended to."

Another objection from Bussian, after which the "certain things" referred to were designated as her divorce.

At this point a copy of the decree awarded by default to Robert J. Puderbaugh was read into the record, showing that the divorcee did not appear in court and the decree was granted her husband on a charge of cruelty and gross neglect. A stormy few moments between counsel followed Ann's interjection into her story of a statement that she and her first husband parted by mutual consent.

The New Year's Episode.

New Year's eve of 1928 marked the party which Bussian mentioned in his opening statement to the jury, at which he declared Miss Livingston toasted Charles Nax of St. Louis in the absence of Hardinge, who was ill. Ann was questioned about the incident by her attorney.

Q.—What about the arrangements made for New Year's? A.—Mr. Hardinge had made reservations for four at the Lake Shore Athletic club for Mr. and Mrs. Morton and ourselves. Later he came and said Josephine insisted on going and that he had made another reservation for her. But he was sick that night so I told him I wouldn't go either, but would keep him company at his home.

Q.—What else? A.—I was sitting beside his bed after having my hair dressed, when Josephine came in and sat down on the bed, leaned over and kissed him. He ordered her never to do that again. She grew quite indignant and began making remarks about my head, sweeping her fingers across it as she passed me. "Its such a funny shape," she said. I told her that was news to me, and Mr. Hardinge said he thought it was a shapely and exquisite head.

Josephine Ordered Out.

Q.—Go ahead, Miss Livingston. A.—So then Josephine started on my nails. I was putting liquid polish on them as Mr. Hardinge, who insisted I go to the party, had asked me to take care of them while I sat beside him. Josephine told me it was very vulgar and that I would have to learn better than that in the society in which I expected to move. Then Mr. Hardinge asked her please to leave the room, as she was making him nervous and me irritable.

Q.—You went to the party? A.—Yes, with Josephine and the Mortons. While the two ladies were visiting at other tables, Mr. Morton was very nice to me, danced with me, and he told me that his wife was on Josephine's side, because they were old friends, but that he was for me. We got home quite late, and I went upstairs to talk to Mr. Hardinge a little before I went home.

This friction quickly brought on more troubles for the Oklahoma girl. She obtained Hardinge's permission to accept an invitation to dinner with a middle aged man who wished her to hear his daughter play the violin, she explained. So they had dinner at a hotel and later danced at the Shoreland before returning to her hotel. As she came upstairs the phone was ringing. She found Hardinge on the wire, violently angry and cursing, and wanting to know where she had been and what she had been doing.

Rebukes Her Fiance.

"I told him I was perfectly willing to tell where I'd been," she recited, "but that he mustn't talk like that on the telephone or some one might be listening in. He said he was paying for it and could say what he wanted. Finally he agreed to come over in the morning and discuss it. He did. He banged on my door quite early, and kicked it, and shouted: 'Open this door or I'll break it down.'"

Q.—What did you say? A.—I asked him to wait a moment till I slipped a robe on, and opened the door. He walked in, kicking chairs out of his way, and the first thing he asked me was where the ring was that I had been wearing, that belonged to his first wife. I gave him that, and he asked for the engagement ring. Then I suggested that he calm down and explain what this was about.

Puts Blame on Josephine.

Q.—What then? A.—We sat down, and he got calmer, and he said that the previous night at his house they had had cocktails, and that Josephine would keep going to the telephone every five minutes to call my room, and would come back and say "Uh-huh, your darling little Ann that you're so crazy about is out with somebody else. Where is she now, and what's she doing?"

Q.—What did you say? A.—I said to him, "Well, Mr. Hardinge, I see the way things are going. I want to know whether you want me to go back to Tulsa, or whether you are going to choose me instead of Josephine, and stand with me or against me." Then he cried, quite a lot, and pulled me down on his lap, and I cried, too.

TELLS OF CONFESSION

At this juncture Bussian loudly asked that the record show the witness was weeping. She was, but her voice remained steady.

Q.—What else happened? A.—I told him I wanted to know why Josephine was so set against me, and he said, "Well, I'll tell you, Ann. Josephine and I have lived as man and wife ever since Mrs. Hardinge died, and even before. I knew she had this Kansas City sweetheart, and I never expected to marry her, but last summer she urged me to. Then I met you."

Q.—What did you say. A.—I said: "Well, if this is true, then Josephine can't live with us. I couldn't stand to have her in the house. You'll have to make other arrangements! He said he would. Then he told me that Helen and Mr. Bussian were waiting for him at his home, and that they insisted I go back to Tulsa and leave him alone, and that he refuse to marry me. He said he was determined not to give in to them, and that he'd go back and tell them so.

Q.—Did he. A.—Yes, and he didn't come back for a long time. Finally I called and he said he was having a hard time but was holding his own. Quite a while later I put on my wraps and went over. They were still there, and greeted me coolly. I acted as if nothing had happened, and we drove Helen home.

Father Warns Daughter.

Q.—What next? A.—On the way her father told her to keep her mouth out of his affairs—that she had been divorced by her first husband, and he still kept her at home. He said he didn't care whether she loved me or not—that he did. And that we were going to be married.

The copy of a wedding announcement, ordered by Hardinge to the number of 300 or 400, Ann said, was exhibited to the jury by Ehrlich. It set the wedding date for Jan. 28, 1928.

But Jan. 28 came and passed, and there was no wedding, and Hardinge took his long awaited tour alone, while the girl who came to Chicago to marry him filed a breach of promise suit instead.

ANN TO COMPLETE STORY OF ROMANCE ON STAND TODAY

Miss Ann Livingston will resume her place on the witness stand this morning in the court of Judge Charles H. Miller in the county building to complete the story of her wrecked romance for which she is suing Franklin S. Hardinge for $250,000. Miss Livingston will tell of the proposed antenuptial agreement which caused Hardinge to cancel the wedding plans after the invitations had been issued. The agreement, which Miss Livingston refused to sign when Hardinge presented it to her, provided that he was to settle $100,000 on her, in return for which she was to waive all other claims to his estate. After her direct testimony, Miss Livingston will face the ordeal of cross examination by Mr. Hardinge's lawyers.

BOY 14 YEARS OLD KILLS FATHER FOR "FUSSING" AT HIM

Pine Bluff, Ark., June 25.—(AP)—A fourteen year old boy, Otis Hankins, tonight was charged with first degree murder for killing his father in their farm home near here. Authorities said the boy admitted he did it because "he fussed at me."

During the coroner's inquest the boy became confused and told conflicting stories, then abruptly asked for a pen and paper, saying "I want to tell the truth."

"He was cursing me and I shot him" the boy wrote. "He was in the room when I did it. I put the gun in my dresser and put a quilt over him. I then went and got Uncle Al Brinkley and told him father shot himself."

Neighbors found Hankins' body sprawled in a pool of blood. They said the boy and his father, who lived alone, quarreled frequently.

Hoover Secretary Yields Blood to Aid Injured Son

Minneapolis, Minn., June 25.—(AP)—John Marshall Newton, 9 years old, whose leg was crushed under a street car last Thursday, underwent a blood transfusion operation today in an effort to build up his strength prior to amputation of the limb. Former Congressman Walter H. Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries and the boy's father, furnished the blood.

BROKER CALLS CANNON DEALS SPECULATIONS

Can't Explain Bishop's $6,000 Easy Credit.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—The trading account which Bishop James Cannon Jr. of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, maintained with the raided stock firm of Kable & Co. was a speculative one, according to Charles W. Kable, one of the partners, who testified today at a bankruptcy hearing conducted by Referee Robert P. Stephenson.

Kable was called by C. Edward Benoit, attorney for Miss Anna [illegible], trustee for the assets of the defunct firm. The young partner, who portrayed himself on the stand as a partner in name but an office boy in fact, is under indictment by a federal grand jury for using the mails to defraud. Harry L. Goldhurst, the real force of Kable & Co., is under indictment on the same charge. Kable, [illegible] years old, thin, dark, and nervous, testified today that Goldhurst had assured him that their indictment would be dismissed.

He Contradicts the Bishop.

Benoit handed the witness photostatic reproductions of the churchman's account, which covered three pages in the firm's ledger. The attorney asked Kable to analyze the entries, with their record of rapid turnovers of stocks, and tell the referee whether it was an investment or a speculative account.

Bishop Cannon, in a statement issued last Thursday in Washington, declared that he had bought stock on a partial payment plan as an investment, and in no sense as a speculation or gamble.

"Was the account of Bishop Cannon a speculative account?" asked Benoit.

"Really," said Kable, "I have no detailed knowledge of it." He was invited to study the photostatic copies and after a pause Benoit said:

"You have seen the ledger account, and don't you see from that account that the stocks were not held, and that it was really a speculative account?"

"Yes," said Kable.

That Lehigh Valley Flyer.

The attorney took up the entry in the ledger which showed that on Nov. 1, 1927, the churchman was the owner of 100 shares of Lehigh Valley stock—"as of Aug. 14." The same sheet showed that that he had not put up a cent of deposit until Sept. 21, of the same year, when he came through with $500. It is Benoit's contention that Bishop Cannon was able to buy $10,000 worth of stock without being called upon for deposit. Goldhurst in his evidence had called the Aug. 14 entry, a bookkeeping mistake.

"Look at the entry," said Benoit to Kable, "and tell us from your knowledge of the practices of the firm what it meant."

"That meant that he had been extended credit," said the witness.

"Were other customers extended credit?" asked Benoit.

"I don't know. But sometimes they were late in making their partial payments—they lived in distant parts of the country."

His Credit Unusually Good.

Kable was asked to tell how much deposit should have been required from the bishop, on the Lehigh Valley transaction.

"He should have had $6,000 up," the witness replied.

The examiner sought to determine why the churchman had had this favored customer status.

"You don't know what the reason was?" he said.

"No," said Kable, who explained that he had little to do with the Cannon account, which had been strictly a Goldhurst matter.

"The bishop's credit must have been very good?" said Benoit.

"Very good," replied the witness.

"Very unusual," agreed Kable.

Kable, when sworn as a witness, said that when he entered Kable & Co. he signed a partnership agreement. He denied that he had ever functioned as such, however.

Kable and the Bishop.

As an example of his status, in so far as the bishop was concerned, Kable cited his contract with the divine on the six or seven times the bishop came to Kable & Co.'s office to confer on stocks.

"Good morning," Kable would say to the bishop.

"Good morning," the bishop would reply, and then ask if Mr. Goldhurst were in, and if so would go directly into conference with him.

"As far as the bishop was concerned," observed Kable, "I was just the office boy."

"How did Goldhurst get customers?" said Benoit.

"Through the mails, by letters he sent out," said Kable.

Goldhurst, the witness said, did not use the name of the bishop as a lure to customers, so far as he knew, but was rather proud of having the bishop as a client.

"I have customers of this caliber," the witness quoted Goldhurst as saying, when he first mentioned the bishop.

A Star Customer.

The first time that the bishop came into the office after Goldhurst had mentioned him as a customer, Kable said, his partner had nudged him and said—"that's Bishop Cannon." Kable said that he had been much impressed by Goldhurst's influence with the churchman.

"He told me," said the witness, "that he could recommend anything to Bishop Cannon and that the bishop would tell him to buy it. He told me about the bishop's trips about the world, organizing branches of the Anti-Saloon league. On one trip, at least, Goldhurst had a list of the places the bishop was to visit, so the bishop would be in touch with the market and his stocks."

Benoit took up the question of 200 shares of Hudson Motors which the bishop's account showed him as having purchased. Goldhurst, on the stand, had refused to answer whether he had had actual possession of the stock when the firm failed and had then explained that under the deferred payment scheme he had not been called upon to get the securities until the final payment. Kable said that he had no knowledge as to whether Goldhurst had the stock.

Kable said that there were other clergymen on the firm's list of customers, but that he did not recall their names. He admitted that he had known of the firm's insolvency six week's before the voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed.

Pinned Under Car, He Dies When Rescuers Set It Afire

Danville, Ill., June 25—(AP)—Caught in the wreckage of a car that turned over on a narrow highway eight miles southeast of here last night, Louis Timm, 52, Danville hotel clerk, died when the automobile took fire after his two companions lighted a match to determine whether he was injured.

DENIES TREASURY BAN ON DRY AGENT GUNS; DEATH QUIZ BLOCKED

Plattsburg, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Two customs border patrolmen today blocked, at least temporarily, a coroner's inquest into the fatal shooting of Arthur Gordon of Plattsburg, alleged liquor smuggler, with the continually repeated phrase "I decline to testify on the ground that I might incriminate myself."

The inquest was adjourned until July 2 after the two patrolmen, W. J. Cheatham and F. L. Coveney, declined to answer questions put to them by B. Loyal O'Connell, district attorney.

Gordon was shot near Mooers and his body brought to a local hospital by two border patrolmen. In a statement issued to the press, Collector Tulloch said the patrolmen were Cheatham and Debeny and that Gordon had been shot accidentally after he failed to halt at their command.

F. D. Henry, a special agent of the treasury department, testified that he had gone to Mooers to investigate the shooting. Asked if he know of a rule against the use of rifles by customs officers, Henry replied:

"No, there isn't any such rule and never was; they can use machine guns if they want to."

Riverside Votes $75,000 for New Library Building

The village of Riverside voted a $75,000 bond issue for a new library building at a special election yesterday. The vote was 124 for the proposition and 77 against it. The library is at present housed in the village hall.

COUNTIES STILL DEADLOCKED IN POISON RUM CASE

Decision on Saturday May Decide Sheriff's Fate.

A series of legal skirmishes yesterday left the jurisdictional dispute over the Mansfield poison liquor case between City Judge Frank E. Shopen of Elgin and Sheriff Grant Minor of Peoria still deadlocked. A decision next Saturday by Circuit Judge John M. Niehaus at Peoria upon the latest writ fight is anticipated as the next chapter.

Should Judge Niehaus sustain this writ, sworn in Sheriff Minor's behalf yesterday by Coroner William B. Elliott of Peoria county, Judge Shopen will be powerless to force Minor into the Shopen bailiwick with the much fought over Mansfield in custody, according to the legal experts.

Action Hinges on Decision.

But should Judge Niehaus choose to dismiss the writ, then it is assumed that Chief Deputy Sheriff George W. Jones of Kane county, awaiting eagerly his chance to carry out Shopen's orders, will forthwith seize Sheriff Minor and Mansfield and hurry with them to Elgin to face the presumably accumulated wrath of the Elgin jurist.

Judge Shopen, last Saturday, issued his warrant commanding that Sheriff Minor, with Morris Mansfield, Peoria bootlegger, held for murder in connection with the poison liquor deaths, be brought before him. Attorney George Sprenger originally brought Shopen into the case in his efforts to have bail set for Mansfield.

Promptly at 10 o'clock yesterday Chief Deputy Jones, armed with the Shopen writ, stepped jauntily into Sheriff Minor's office.

Sheriff Plays His Trump.

"Well, Grant, sorry, but. I guess I'll have to take you along," was his greeting.

"Yes? Well, I guess not," responded Minor. And the sheriff, in his turn, shoved a document into the hands of Deputy Jones. "Better first look that over, George," he cautioned.

The paper was the habeas corpus writ sworn out by Coroner Elliott. It commanded Jones to take Minor before Judge Niehaus. Minor and his legal advisors, George Shurtleff and Assistant State's Attorney Albert Weil, had thought out that scheme to at least temporarily halt the Kane county invasion.

Meanwhile Mansfield, cause of all the furor, sits in his cell at the Peoria county jail and grumbles while the fight wages. "Everybody's forgot me since they've got to fighting amongst themselves," he complained. "Here I've sat since March 3, and yet I never sold a drop of poison hootch in my life. It ain't justice."

Chicagoan Signs Contract with Soviet Coal Company

KHARKOV, Russia, June 25.—(AP)—Robert S. Sheffer of Chicago today signed a contract with the Donetz Coal corporation which it was estimated would yield 3,500,000 tons. Soviet plants will furnish equipment. The American firm will send experts to Russia while the Donetz organization will send three technicians and a representative to Chicago.

Dry Law Propaganda to Be Spread Through U. S. Schools

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—A movement to spread dry propaganda through the nation's school system will be launched shortly by the prohibition bureau of the treasury. According to announcement made today courses of instructions outlining the "benefits of prohibition" have been prepared by the treasury and will be made available to all school authorities desiring them. It was said no attempt to compel schools to include the dry courses in their curriculums would be made.

Reports that the prohibition bureau intended to try to sell prohibition permanently to the country by spreading dry propaganda through the public and high schools of Washington aroused a storm in local school circles today.

Checkmated in Washington.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, denied a report that he had endorsed the dry propaganda proposal for introduction in the local schools. He asserted that in his opinion investigation would disclose such a step to be undesirable.

"I am opposed to any sort of propaganda in the school system," he said.

Following the Ballou pronouncement, the prohibition bureau issued an explanatory statement in which it denied it had intended to use the schools as a propaganda medium. It was admitted, however, that pamphlets outlining the dry arguments in favor of prohibition would be distributed to such schools as wanted a prohibition course in their curriculums.

Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran said the pamphlets would not be forced on any school but would be made available to such authorities as desired them. The propaganda will be financed out of the sum of $50,000 appropriated by the last congress for dissemination of facts with respect to the eighteenth amendment.

Required in Some States.

"Many of the states," Dr. Doran said today, "have laws requiring that the effects of narcotics and alcohol on the human system be taught in the public schools. The bureau has prepared a limited number of pamphlets which contain information on these subjects as well as the economic phases of prohibition and they are available should they be desired. The federal government will not supply any teachers or lecturers."

An attempt to sell the plan to teachers attending the sessions of the National Educational association in Atlanta, Ga., will be made by Miss Anna B. Sutter, chief of the division of statistics and education of the prohibition bureau. Miss Sutter will leave Thursday for the scene of the convention. She will take with her several of the pamphlets dealing with prohibition propaganda.

CZECH SUES U. S. BOOTLEG GANG FOR HIS PROFITS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, June 24.—A real estate owner, Wenzel Straka, filed suit today against an alleged bootlegging syndicate smuggling liquor into the United States. He claims profits on a $3,000 investment made in 1925. The boat, sent to America loaded with booze from Bremen, arrived in the United States, but the bootleggers in America double-crossed the Czecho-Slovakian syndicate.

Although no profits were realized on the first shipment, the investors in the syndicate were requested to invest fifteen per cent of the first investment in order to send a second ship. Straka says he invested $500 the second time, but the syndicate failed to send the ship and kept the money.

The bootlegging syndicate, he says, is composed of prominent citizens of Prague, although only two names were mentioned, Stanislaw Donath of New York, and an alcohol dealer named Schramm from Bohemia.

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—[Special.]—Ten men were arrested and equipment estimated to be worth $125,000 was seized in a raid on a still last night. There were two copper stills twenty feet high. The equipment for making alcohol consisted of a large steam boiler, five 5,500 gallon cement vats, two 1,500 gallon wooden vats, two 1,500 gallon coolers, two 6,000 gallon coolers, and two large electric pumps.

CANADA BACKS POWER COMPANY NIAGARA PLANS

Remains Jealous of Water Diversion at Chicago.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., June 25.—[Special.]—The Canadian government is an eager associate of the Niagara Falls Power company of New York in the project to redistribute the flow over Niagara falls in such manner as to improve the spectacle, retard erosion and permit the doubling of the diversion for power purposes.

The Canadian parliament in May ratified the pending treaty between the United States and Canada authorizing the Niagara Falls Power company and the hydro-electric power commission of Ontario jointly to construct a system of remedial works above the falls to redistribute the flow and to divert an additional 20,000 cubic feet of water per second for power in the winter season for seven years.

Water power is one of the principal natural resources of Canada. The conviction prevails that the industrial future of Canada is linked with a wise exploitation of this natural asset.

Jealous of Rivalry.

For this reason the Canadian government regards with a jealous eye the diversion from the great lakes of water that otherwise would help to drive Canadian turbine wheels. Particularly antagonistic is it to any diversion from the St. Lawrence to the Mississippi watershed at Chicago, notwithstanding evidence that the allocation of 36,000 cubic feet of water per second to Canada at Niagara Falls by the present boundary waters treaty of 1909, while the United States was limited to 20,000, was a tacit approval of the diversion of 10,000 second feet at Chicago.

The Canadian government is determined to fight any diversion at Chicago to the last ditch, whether it be diversion for the sanitation of Chicago or diversion for the navigation of the prospective lakes to the gulf waterway. At present the Dominion government is biding its time while the fight on Chicago is being waged by New York and other lake states which recently won the Supreme court decision ordering the cessation of diversion at Chicago for sanitary purposes.

Ready to Fight Chicago.

So long as the fight on Chicago continued to go its way the Canadian government will remain silent. But if any considerable diversion at Chicago should be allowed by the Supreme court, or later authorized by congress, and should not be effectively opposed by the present complainant lake states, Canada then will take the firing line against Chicago in its own right with a demand that the United States government put an end to the diversion of water from one watershed to another.

In the meantime, Canadian officials express the hope that nobody in Chicago or the central states will oppose the pending Niagara Falls treaty with the notion of striking a bargain on diversion at Chicago. The pending treaty, they contend, should be considered by itself as a measure for preserving Niagara falls and experimenting with additional diversion for seven years. If the project proves successful the question then will arise of amending the present boundary waters treaty so as to authorize a much greater diversion than the 56,000 second feet now allowed. Then will be the time, they assert, for striking a bargain on diversion at Chicago.

Wait On Senate Action.

The engineers of the Ontario hydro-electric power commission say that they are ready to go ahead with the construction of the remedial works in collaboration with the Niagara Falls Power company as soon as the United States senate ratifies the pending treaty. They expect to develop 100,000 horsepower from the experimental 10,000 second feet of additional diversion to be allowed Canada in the winter season for the experimental seven year period. If this power can not be sold in Canada it will be exported to the United States, the commission now exporting 60,000 horsepower which it sells to the Niagara Falls Power company.

The "Hydro," as the commission is commonly called, is one of the largest publicly owned utilities in the world. It is a coöperative municipal ownership enterprise which operates 22 power plants from which it furnishes power at cost to 550 municipalities. The power is retailed to industries and other consumers by the municipalities.

Gives Low Household Rates.

The commission is now furnishing more than 1,000,000 horsepower, 730,000 of this amount being from Niagara falls, and is establishing plants at other places which will increase the total output of energy to 1,400,000 horsepower. About 300 million dollars is invested in the enterprise.

The average household rate for current from the Hydro is far lower than the average in the United States. Its use in the household is correspondingly more extensive. Cooking by electricity is common, as is tank water heating. On the other hand, the rates paid by industries average a little higher than in the United States. The American power companies give industries a rate so low that none of them is tempted to move over to Canada. The much higher rate to American household consumers more than compensates the American power companies for the low rate to industries.

Frankly Admit Huge Diversion.

The Hydro officials down at Toronto, where the commission maintains its headquarters, make no bones of their expectation that the redistribution of the Niagara flow by means of the proposed remedial works will enable diversion for power purposes of more than half the original normal volume of water falling over the cliffs.

Norman R. Gibson, chief engineer of the Niagara Falls Power company, cautiously estimated the contemplated eventual diversion at 100,000 second feet, compared with the present 56,000, but Thomas Hogg, hydraulic engineer of the Hydro, thought it would be possible to take 110,000 second feet without injury to the scenic value of the falls.

A booklet issued by the Hydro significantly states that "the power that could be developed under a head of 300 feet with a diversion of 120,000 cubic feet per second—rather more than half the flow—would be about 3,670,000 horsepower.

Have Home Reserve.

The hydro engineers have another scheme for increasing the volume of power than can be developed at Niagara. This is to turn Lake Nipigon into Lake Superior by means of a connecting canal. But they have no notion of sharing this additional water with the United States.

The Chicago diversion is universally condemned by the Hydro engineers on the ground that it means just that much less power available at Niagara. "Water taken from the lakes should be replaced," one of the Hydro engineers doggedly asserted.

The hydro officials, like the officials of the Niagara Falls Power company, were cold to the plan of the Chicago sanitary board to construct compensating works in the St. Clair and Niagara rivers to offset any diversion at Chicago in slack water seasons. They view that proposition as part of the whole project of diversion at Chicago which will operate to lessen the amount of water available for power at Niagara.

Dominion Officials Share Views.

No less antagonistic to the Chicago diversion and the plan for compensating works are the dominion officials. It is apparent that there will be difficulty in obtaining the consent of Canada to the construction of these compensating works for which the Chicago sanitary board has posted a $1,000,000 bond.

The attitude of the minister left no doubt that Canada is intent upon getting the concession of the seven year experimental diversion of an additional 10,000 second feet, provided for in the pending treaty, without yielding any ground in the controversy over the Chicago diversion.

Even if the experiment with the remedial works should prove successful, and the feasibility of doubling the present diversion demonstrated, the revision of boundary waters treaty would not be attempted for at least seven or eight years.

There is little sentiment in Canada in favor of the canalization of the St. Lawrence. Eastern Canada is extremely cold to the proposition and Quebec province is openly antagonistic. And the Mackenzie King government maintains its majority by votes from Quebec.

The opposition in Quebec centers in the shipping interest, which is satisfied with the supremacy of Montreal as a port of trans-shipment, viewing with alarm the seaway project which would enable ocean ships to penetrate the lakes without halting at Montreal for cargoes or fuel.

St. Clair Not Important.

Mr. Stewart waived aside as of no moment the findings of the joint Canadian-American board of engineers on the St. Lawrence seaway project that Canada, as well as Chicago, is responsible for lowering lake levels. While Chicago was charged with a 6 inch depletion of the levels of Lakes Michigan and Huron, Canada was held responsible for 3.6 inches due to the gravel excavations in the St. Clair river alone. It was American concerns, he said, that got the gravel.

The minister also denied that a diversion of 10,000 second feet at Chicago is implicit in the boundary waters treaty, as Elihu Root once explained. He bases his position on the statement of Root that he kept all consideration of Lake Michigan out of the negotiations because he was unwilling to concede Canadian interest in a lane wholly in the United States.

G. O. P. CONSIDERING GEORGE WOODRUFF AS SUCCESSOR TO WORK

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—George Woodruff, Chicago banker, is being discussed as a possible choice for chairman of the Republican national committee to succeed Hubert Work, whose resignation will take effect in the fall. Mr. Woodruff was associated with Secretary of War James W. Good in the management of the western headquarters of the national committee at Chicago last fall.

Reports are that Mr. Good is lining up votes for him. Mr. Good denied this, although he said he had heard Mr. Woodruff's name suggested.

Mr. Woodruff might be unable to accept because of a provision of the national banking act which prohibits an official of a national bank from serving on a committee which solicits funds from federal office holders.

Others suggested for the chairmanship include Claudius Huston of Tennessee and Raymond Benjamin of California, both friends of President Hoover.

SALE! 32 MILES OF WATERFRONT FOR $20,000,000

Thirty-two miles of waterfront, comprising six thousand acres of land, valued conservatively at $20,000,000, was placed on the market yesterday by the sanitary district. A group of manufacturers inspected the property on a cruise down the drainage canal from Chicago to Joliet and enthusiastically visualized the waterway of the future as a crowded artery of commerce, lined by great factories and warehouses.

Scores of sites capable of industrial development were noted by the manufacturers during the trip. Already, enterprising companies have leased tracts upon which they plan to build factories. Two oil companies have established refineries near Lockport and are shipping oil in barges for distribution throughout the great lakes region at low transportation cost, the observers noted.

Land Idle for 30 Years.

The land which is now for sale is the district's right of way bordering the canal on both sides. The tracts are irregular in size, extending from 100 feet to three quarters of a mile back from the banks. This property has lain idle for thirty years, a liability instead of an asset to the sanitary district, officials pointed out.

Tentative moves have been made in the past towards selling the land, but an intensive campaign to open the eyes of manufacturers to its possibilities is now contemplated, according to A. W. Komarek, manager of the district's real estate department.

The cruise yesterday was a revelation to the business men aboard the sanitary district tug, which traversed the 32 mile stretch in about three hours. They saw in the canal a future Manchester ship canal, the English waterway of approximately the same length, which made Manchester a metropolis and stimulated an immense industrial development.

See Barges in Operation.

Traffic on the canal at present is not negligible, the group noted. A half dozen barges, drawn by puffing tugs, loaded with oil, sand, and stone were passed. One of these vessels was the Material Service company's boat of submarine type, which is so constructed as to pass under bridges and which is self-propelled.

There are nineteen bridges spanning the canal. All are equipped for opening and need only motor power to put them in operation. With this step taken at a comparatively minor cost, large vessels could navigate in its stream, which has a minimum depth of 23 feet throughout the stretch, engineers in the party declared.

Calls Agreement Possible.

Mr. Komarek said that if Chicago manufacturers show an interest in purchasing sites along the canal the sanitary district and the railroads which use most of the bridges probably can come to an early agreement on installing power in the bridges. The only other drawback noted yesterday was the spoil banks along the canal which would have to be removed. This was asserted a minor difficulty.

Business men in the group and the companies they represented were: N. S. Hinman, Commonwealth Edison company; C. C. Kendrick, Met-L-Wood company; W. S. Houston, Dallas Brass and Copper company; O. F. Scudder, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad; H. F. Hughes, International Harvester company; T. J. Wright, Felt & Tarrant company; J. T. Conley, Dickinson Seed company, and John D. Corcoran, Clearing industrial district.

Lieut. Col. W. C. Weeks, federal district engineer; W. B. Sullivan, senior assistant engineer of the sanitary district; Walter Mills, E. V. McNichols, L. A. Dumond, and F. J. Ashley, representing the Chicago Association of Commerce, also participated in the inspection. Members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association will inspect the property next week.

Ask About Transportation.

The manufacturers wanted to know about transportation facilities for bringing building materials and equipment for new plants to the sites and for carrying employés to and from work. They inquired as to railroad connections.

These questions were answered in what was termed a satisfactory manner by Mr. Komarek. He pointed out that several railroad lines, including the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, the Chicago & Alton and the Chicago & Joliet Electric lines are near the canal. Spurs could be run from these roads to the plants, he explained.

When the tug approached Lockport, an amazing scene was presented. A second Whiting, Ind., seemed to be in progress of construction. Great oil tanks were as abundant as mushrooms. Here the Texas Oil company has established a refinery. Oil is pumped from Texas, refined and then shipped, both by rail and water, throughout the middle west. A second company, the Simral Oil company of Cleveland, has also commenced construction of a refinery with a pipe line to the canal. Tank barges are filled at the bank and carry their valuable cargo to the lake at extremely low cost.

Mr. Komarek said he planned a subdivision here for a oil town of large proportions. The site is ideal, he pointed out, with unusually good transportation facilities. He predicted a prosperous city at this site for the future, with a large population turning out products to be shipped down the canal to Chicago and the middle west.

Given "Lift," Pair Stab Insurance Man; Get $15,000

He had been robbed of $15,000 which he said he collected in Cincinnati today. He said two men whom he had given a ride had been his assailants.

[Copyright: Underwood & Underwood.]

Some 200 architects attended the thirty-second annual meeting of the Illinois Society of Architects at the Palmer house last night, at which announcement was made of the officers for the coming year. Alfred Granger of the firm of Granger & Bollenbacher was elected president without opposition.

In the absence of Howard J. White, the retiring president, the meeting was called to order by Vice President George B. Helmle of Springfield. H. B. Wheelock acted as toastmaster.

Besides Mr. Granger the other officers elected were: First vice president, William P. Fox; second vice president, George B. Helmle; treasurer, Robert C. Ostergren; secretary, Walter A. McDougall, and financial secretary, H. L. Palmer; directors for three years, Emery Stanford Hall and Howard J. White. In addition the following were elected to the board of arbitration: Frank A. Carpenter of Rockford, N. Max Dunning, Elmer C. Jensen, Joseph C. Llewellyn, George C. Nimmons, Irving K. Pond, and Richard E. Schmidt.

GOLF CLUB WHICH FIRED MacDONALD WANTS HIM BACK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LOSSIEMOUTH, Scotland, June 25.—During the last thirteen years the Moray Golf club here has dispensed with Ramsay MacDonald's membership, but now that he has become prime minister of England once more with good chances for remaining in office for a fairly long time, the golfers are wondering if they weren't a little hasty in suggesting that they didn't want so radical a character as Mr. MacDonald around.

Anyway, a special meeting is called for July 11 to take back the rude suggestion that Mr. MacDonald's room was more valuable than his company.

When the club ruled Mr. MacDonald out of its ranks by a vote of 73 to 24, they had as an excuse feelings exacerbated by the war, which made utterances which otherwise would would not seem much more than a very pale shade of pink seem a brilliant vermilion.

ALDERMEN SEEK TO REVIVE OLD PLAN FOR HARBOR

Ask $900,000 to Start Nickel Plate Scheme.

BY CARL WARREN.

The Lake Calumet industrial harbor project, which for a dozen years has been a political and financial football, was tossed into the field once more yesterday by the city council's committee on finance.

Acting under powers restored to the city by the new harbor law, recently signed by Gov. Emmerson, the committee recommended to the council an appropriation of $900,000 to pay for dredging a ship basin in the center of the lake. The appropriation, if approved by the council, will be the first step toward revival of the so-called Nickel Plate ordinance, passed under the Dever administration, but later discarded by Mayor Thompson.

See Two Groups United.

Some surprise was occasioned by the fact that Thompson aldermen on the committee joined forces on the appropriation measure with the faction headed by Ald. Guy Guernsey [6th], chairman of the harbor committee and always an advocate of the Nickel Plate plan. This was interpreted that the two groups, which have been at loggerheads since 1927, now may work together toward making the harbor a reality.

Under the appropriation ordinance, which goes to the council at its meeting today, Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe is authorized to reopen negotiations with the Nickel Plate railroad and if an agreement is reached, to advertise for bids on the dredging contract.

The appropriation, according to Ald. Guernsey, will be merely a "paper" one, the plan being for the city to reimburse the corporate fund from the sale of factory sites. The old ordinance provides that the Nickel Plate shall buy 200 acres of land at $3,000 an acre, a total of $600,000, which, placed with the city's $900,000, would provide $1,500,000. This sum is expected to pay for dredging 6,000,000 cubic yards of dirt at 25 cents a yard.

Tax Plan Is Dropped.

In the legislature the new harbor law, known as the Schnackenberg bill, originally provided for a special citywide harbor tax. The Thompson plan then was to collect $1,000,000 a year tax revenue. But the tax feature was knocked out after a bitter fight in the lower house and, as enacted, the bill merely restored the city's land rights and reestablished the basis for the Nickel Plate ordinance which had been removed by the 1927 legislature.

"There is only one possible way to proceed now and that is under the Nickel Plate plan," Ald. Guernsey told the committee. "And if we don't make this appropriation before July 1—the last date when a corporate fund appropriation can be made—the whole thing is dead for another year.

"Mayor Thompson is supposed to be one of the big proponents of the deep waterway," Guernsey asserted. "In two years it will be ready with no harbor. If the administration lets this chance slip it's all through."

Ald. Oscar Nelson [46th], a Thompson spokesman, demurred, suggesting delay. In the middle of the discussion Assistant Corporation Counsel James Breen appeared, presumably with orders from the mayor's office, and said he could "see no harm" in making the appropriation. Nelson then withdrew his objections and the recommendation was adopted.

DEAN OF LAW SCHOOL TERMS PROHIBITION AN UTTER FAILURE

San Francisco, Cal., June 25.—(AP)—Dean Justin Miller of the University of Southern California law school declared in an address at the annual conference here on the national prohibition association that "failure of the national prohibition law is proof that legislation will not accomplish social reforms."

Dean Miller, nationally known criminologist, pleaded for control of the individual by social forces such as the home, the school and the church.

"We in America have a sublime belief that we can control human beings by law," he said. "We are just about to demonstrate the futility of that belief. Prohibition is one of the questions dealing with the individual that we have tried to solve by legislation.

"Prohibition penetrates a field that common law never used to reach, the question of morality, which formerly was treated by such agencies as the church and the home."

POINCARE ASKS AMNESTY FOR ALL ALSACE CAPTIVES

Would Let Autonomists Sit in Parliament.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 25.—The French government today came down off its high horse and took the longest step yet made towards concilating the Alsatians, whose discontent under French rule has been growing alarmingly in recent years.

In the name of the president of the republic, Premier Poincare introduced to the chamber of deputies a bill granting wholesale amnesty in Alsace and Lorraine to all persons convicted or under indictment for political offenses.

The measure will go into effect the moment it is voted by parliament, and in addition to pacifying the spirits of the stubborn Alsatians, who have been turning against France because of the harshness of the government's attitude towards the autonomists, who consider themselves perfectly loyal, it will have another sensational result.

Autonomists to Get Seats.

Dr. Eugene Ricklin and Joseph Rosse, two leaders of the autonomist movement, who were elected to seats in parliament at the last elections by an overwhelming number of votes but were invalidated because they previously had been convicted of treason, will be rehabilitated and undoubtedly reëlected to take their places in the French chamber.

It was the verdict of a jury at Besancon which, in releasing a third autonomist leader, Dr. Phillip Roos, held that to be an autonomist one did not necessarily become a traitor, that jogged the government to a realization of the gravity of the situation.

The release of Dr. Roos was hailed by great demonstrations all over Alsace, and the communist council of the city of Strasbourg, which was only elected through the collusion of the autonomists, issued a proclamation calling on the government to heed this expression of public opinion and reverse the verdict of the famous Colmar trial, where other so-called conspirators were convicted of treason on the same evidence.

Wording of Project Notable.

In view of the past declarations of Premier Poincare, who could find nothing too harsh to say to those who dared breathe a word about autonomy for Alsace and Lorraine, the government's project is notable in its wording. It speaks of the "manifestations of popular justice" in the verdict, and recalls that efforts for a conciliation with Alsace up to now have resulted more often than not in "a flaming Nationalist agitation."

"But," it continues, "it is our ardent desire to do our utmost to put an end to a misunderstanding which has been so painful to every French heart that the government takes the cue given it by the Besancon verdict. It is in this spirit, and in the hope of seeing the world at large realize that the love of France is one and indivisible for its children, even though they stray from the fold, is very strong, that this measure is brought forward."

POWERS TO MEET JULY 15 TO ACT ON YOUNG PLAN

Will Also Prepare for Freeing of Rhine.

PARIS, June 25.—(AP)—A conference of the powers interested in the reparations settlement probably will open some time about July 15, official French circles indicated. Switzerland would be chosen as the neutral ground for the negotiations which would have as their object substitution of the Young plan for the Dawes settlement, and evacuation of the Rhineland.

Probably also included on the agenda of the conference will be the question of disposal of the Saar coal basin and of the German mandate for some former German colonies. It was understood here these questions would come up despite official German statements to the contrary. It was recalled that neither the Saar basin nor the German colonies was mentioned in the agreement at Geneva from which the conference of experts on reparations proceeded.

Dr. Gustav Stresemann's remarks to the reichstag yesterday concerning the temporary character of the Young plan was interpreted in official circles as having been made for purely interior consumption. There were no apprehensions of difficulty in reaching an agreement for the application of of the experts' recommendations. As for a German mandate it was pointed out there were none vacant according to the terms of the treaty of Versailles, that nobody thus far was showing any desire to make them vacant and until they did there seemed no way to satisfy Germany's desire to recover her old colonies.

Germany Ready for Parley.

BERLIN, June 25.—(AP)—The German foreign office today declared authoritatively that the government would offer no objections to a conference of the powers interested in the reparations settlement by the Young plan. The foreign office would have no objections to London as a meeting place. Formal acceptance of the proposal, however, must be made by the cabinet, which will also name the German delegation and consider a suitable date.

There was widespread apprehension in German official circles today, particularly close to the foreign office lest references in yesterday's reichstag speech of Dr. Stresemann, inferring that Europe was a colony of America, would be construed as unfriendly to Washington.

His statement was in refutation to nationalist charges that Germany was being made a colony of the former allies. "We are neither an English nor a French colony," he said, "but it seems doubtful if all Europe is not in danger of becoming a colony of those who were luckier than we.

British Seek Bigger Share.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, is concentrating on preparation for the proposed conference on reparations. He intends to accept the sum fixed by the Young experts as the amount Germany must pay, but will demand a redistribution more favorable to Great Britain. He will especially attack the plan's arrangements for deliveries in kind, objecting principally to coal deliveries to Italy, which he considers a disloyal attack on British miners, as this reparations coal will enter Italy without paying any duties.

"Let me say that that phrase expresses my chief instruction received from the President of the United States as I left for London to take up duties as American ambassador and enter into official relations with two great English-speaking nations. That phrase expresses the intent of of the Kellogg treaty.

"It expresses the purpose in which your comrades of the American Legion may unite with you. It expresses the purpose in which ex-service men of all armies of the world war, whether they served with us or against us, may unite with you. It expresses the purpose which should unite all people of whatever nationality, country, creed, or race, and one in which all must unite if the kingdom of God is to reign on earth.

"To further the ideal of comradeship as opposed to force as the arbiter between nations is to further the hope for peace, progress, and happiness of all humanity."

Gen. Dawes will go to Oxford tomorrow to receive the honorary degree of doctor of civil law.

New Parliament Opens.

Cheering from the Labor benches greeted Prime Minister MacDonald when he entered the house of commons today at the opening session of the new parliament. Even some Conservatives and Liberals joined in the tribute.

Stanley Baldwin, former prime minister, who entered later, was also cheered by his followers, but there was not a sound when David Lloyd George, Liberal leader, entered the house and took a seat on the front bench on the opposition side.

The house only sat for an hour. Capt. E. A. Fitzroy, Conservative, was reëlected as speaker. The election was moved by G. M. Gillett, Laborite, and seconded by Lora Hugh Cecil, Conservative. The rest of the week will be occupied by the swearing in of members by the speaker, and the real work of the session begins next Tuesday with the king's speech.

McMillan of the Reel Cab company, Brisbane, Australia. The 200 delegates will be guests tonight of the Ohmer Fare Register company of Dayton, O., and the Pittsburgh Taximeter company.

Tomorrow's scheduled speakers are Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer of Chicago, and Dr. Robert P. Shepherd of Columbia university, an authority on finance and economics.

CHILD'S DEATH HELD ACCIDENTAL.

Accidental death was the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday at an inquest into the death of three year old Bernard Herzon, son of Mrs. Sylvia Herzon, 917 North Washtenaw avenue. The boy died on June 10 after Mrs. Ida Kahn, employed by a social service organization to aid Mrs. Herzon, plunged him in scalding water to bring him out of a convulsion.

PHYSICIAN IS HELD FOR MIND TEST ON WIFE'S PLEA

Dr. John M. Jacobs Jr., member of the Lake View hospital staff and counselor of the Chicago Medical society, was committed to the Psychopathic hospital for observation last night on complaint of his wife.

Mrs. Jacobs, with whom the physician lived at 2245 Irving Park boulevard, at a hearing before Judge I. L. Weaver, declared her husband suffered a nervous breakdown two years ago and had since shown mental aberrations which culminated Monday night in a threat by him to slay her. She asserted the court action was advised by Dr. William Hickson of the Psychopathic hospital.

Dr. Jacobs told attachés at the psychopathic hospital that his wife acted against him because he had upbraided her for extravagance. He is 52 years old and the couple have two sons, one a graduate of Northwestern university and the other a medical student at the University of Illinois. Dr. Jacobs' father, a member of the medical staff of the Augustana hospital, admitted Dr. Jacobs Jr. had suffered a breakdown, but doubted he is insane.

ILLINOIS TOWNS URGED TO SPEED WATERWAY WORK

Terminals Must Be Built, Denison Says.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Some suggestions pertaining to the Illinois waterway were forwarded to Gov. L. L. Emmerson of Illinois today by Representative E. E. Denison [Rep., Ill.].

The governor was advised that the Illinois members of congress intended to do everything possible toward obtaining federal appropriations for the completion of the state project, but that "it will require the coöperation of the state with the federal government to do this."

Mr. Denison amplified his letter by explaining that by "coöperation" he meant that the state should bear the expense of building bridges across the waterway, which Gov. Emmerson, on the basis of an opinion by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, had held that the state could not do under the constitutional provision prohibiting the expenditure of its ordinary revenues for waterways.

Mr. Denison does not believe the Carlstrom opinion is sound, citing appropriations by the state during the recent session of the legislature for two bridges across the Wabash river.

Advice to River Towns.

Representative Denison's letter was primarily designed to urge Gov. Emmerson to encourage municipalities along the Illinois river to construct terminals in anticipation of the extension of the Mississippi river barge line service. Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways corporation, Mr. Denison advised Gov. Emmerson, is preparing to make a trip along the Illinois river and the Hennepin canal early in July in connection with the survey recently ordered by Secretary of War Good under the Denison barge line extension act.

Within not to exceed two years, Representative Denison said, the part of the Illinois river from Grafton to Utica, which is being improved by the federal government, will be ready for barge traffic.

Traffic Is Available.

"I have no doubt that the survey soon to be made will disclose a heavy traffic in freight available for transportation on the Illinois river as soon as a channel has been completed and suitable transportation facilities provided," said Mr. Denison in his letter.

"I think it is important that this new form of cheap transportation be made available on the Illinois river as early as possible, not only in the interest of the shippers but in furtherance of that greater project of connecting the great lakes with the Gulf of Mexico for water transportation.

"Let me urge that you, as executive of our state, do what you reasonably can to give this project proper publicity, to the end that municipalities may be encouraged to build suitable terminals, and that the business interests of the state may be encouraged to begin preparations for utilizing the facilities that will be placed at their disposal on the Illinois river, and that private capital may be encouraged to invest in such facilities.

Barges in Two Years.

"If suitable terminals shall be provided the Inland Waterways corporation will have a system of barges and tow boats on the Illinois river within the next two years to demonstrate to the business interests of our state that such facilities can be operated safely, economically, and profitably, and that the shipping interests can be given transportation by water much cheaper than such transportation can be furnished by rail.

"And it would be inexcusable, I think, if anything should be allowed to happen that would prevent the early completion of the Illinois waterway project from Lockport to Utica so that commerce may be moving at an early day from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi river."

Representative Denison referred to the survey now in progress by the war department to determine the funds necessary for the completion of the waterway project.

"As soon as this information becomes available we here in Washington will endeavor to secure the full coöperation of the federal government toward completing the project," said Mr. Denison, "but it will require the coöperation of the state with the federal government to do this; and I want to urge that you, as chief executive, spare no effort to see that such coöperation is forthcoming."

CITY OFFICIALS DOUBT BOND ISSUES WHICH LACK REFERENDUM

City officials remained mum yesterday on the opinion rendered by Gotthard A. Dahlberg, attorney for the board of local improvements, that street widening bonds may be issued without a referendum under a new state law.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board, said that he spent "most of the night" studying the opinion. Although he described it as "very important" he said he was not yet prepared to say whether the city will try to take advantage of it.

Members of the city council expressed surprise. "I knew nothing about the new law until I read of Dahlberg's opinion in the papers," said John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee. "If it is upheld, we probably will be hearing soon from Mr. Faherty."

Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th] said he doubted whether the opinion would be sustained. The city administration will go cautiously before trying to sell bonds without submitting them to the voters, he predicted.

RAIDERS HALT UNION ASSESSING OF DEFENSE FUND

Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin and a squad of detectives from the prosecutor's office raided a special meeting of the Schochtem union, local 598, yesterday and broke up the collection of a defense fund being gathered in behalf of officials recently named in indictments for racketeering.

The books and documents of the organization of Jewish butchers, known as shechters, were seized and taken to the prosecutor's office.

When the prosecutor rushed into the hall he found the meeting just starting. The members were to pay one half of their weekly salary to the defense fund, it is charged. The sum of $285 had already been collected in behalf of some of the indicted officials of the union.

BRITISH TRACE POISON CLEW IN SINGER'S DEATH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—An unexpected drug secret was the surprise which developed at the inquest today into the death of Sir Mortimer Singer, millionaire yachtsman and American born son of the inventor of the sewing machine, who later became a naturalized British subject.

Sir Mortimer died in a nursing home yesterday where he had been undergoing treatment for intestinal trouble and sleeplessness. It was related at the inquest today how Sir Mortimer was found in a dying state with a glass stained with a white sediment on a table near him. A nurse testified the millonaire was holding a letter in his hand. The coroner read this letter, saying:

"Still wide awake nothwithstanding all the drugs I have taken. I cannot stand it any longer."

Terminals Must Be Built, Denison Says.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—Some suggestions pertaining to the Illinois waterway were forwarded to Gov. L. L. Emmerson of Illinois today by Representative E. E. Denison [Rep., Ill.].

The governor was advised that the Illinois members of congress intended to do everything possible toward obtaining federal appropriations for the completion of the state project, but that "it will require the coöperation of the state with the federal government to do this."

Mr. Denison amplified his letter by explaining that by "coöperation" he meant that the state should bear the expense of building bridges across the waterway, which Gov. Emmerson, on the basis of an opinion by Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom, had held that the state could not do under the constitutional provision prohibiting the expenditure of its ordinary revenues for waterways.

Mr. Denison does not believe the Carlstrom opinion is sound, citing appropriations by the state during the recent session of the legislature for two bridges across the Wabash river.

Advice to River Towns.

Representative Denison's letter was primarily designed to urge Gov. Emmerson to encourage municipalities along the Illinois river to construct terminals in anticipation of the extension of the Mississippi river barge line service. Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways corporation, Mr. Denison advised Gov. Emmerson, is preparing to make a trip along the Illinois river and the Hennepin canal early in July in connection with the survey recently ordered by Secretary of War Good under the Denison barge line extension act.

Within not to exceed two years, Representative Denison said, the part of the Illinois river from Grafton to Utica, which is being improved by the federal government, will be ready for barge traffic.

Traffic Is Available.

"I have no doubt that the survey soon to be made will disclose a heavy traffic in freight available for transportation on the Illinois river as soon as a channel has been completed and suitable transportation facilities provided," said Mr. Denison in his letter.

"I think it is important that this new form of cheap transportation be made available on the Illinois river as early as possible, not only in the interest of the shippers but in furtherance of that greater project of connecting the great lakes with the Gulf of Mexico for water transportation.

"Let me urge that you, as executive of our state, do what you reasonably can to give this project proper publicity, to the end that municipalities may be encouraged to build suitable terminals, and that the business interests of the state may be encouraged to begin preparations for utilizing the facilities that will be placed at their disposal on the Illinois river, and that private capital may be encouraged to invest in such facilities.

Barges in Two Years.

"If suitable terminals shall be provided the Inland Waterways corporation will have a system of barges and tow boats on the Illinois river within the next two years to demonstrate to the business interests of our state that such facilities can be operated safely, economically, and profitably, and that the shipping interests can be given transportation by water much cheaper than such transportation can be furnished by rail.

"And it would be inexcusable, I think, if anything should be allowed to happen that would prevent the early completion of the Illinois waterway project from Lockport to Utica so that commerce may be moving at an early day from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi river."

Representative Denison referred to the survey now in progress by the war department to determine the funds necessary for the completion of the waterway project.

"As soon as this information becomes available we here in Washington will endeavor to secure the full coöperation of the federal government toward completing the project," said Mr. Denison, "but it will require the coöperation of the state with the federal government to do this; and I want to urge that you, as chief executive, spare no effort to see that such coöperation is forthcoming."

CITY OFFICIALS DOUBT BOND ISSUES WHICH LACK REFERENDUM

City officials remained mum yesterday on the opinion rendered by Gotthard A. Dahlberg, attorney for the board of local improvements, that street widening bonds may be issued without a referendum under a new state law.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board, said that he spent "most of the night" studying the opinion. Although he described it as "very important" he said he was not yet prepared to say whether the city will try to take advantage of it.

Members of the city council expressed surprise. "I knew nothing about the new law until I read of Dahlberg's opinion in the papers," said John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee. "If it is upheld, we probably will be hearing soon from Mr. Faherty."

Ald. W. A. Rowan [10th] said he doubted whether the opinion would be sustained. The city administration will go cautiously before trying to sell bonds without submitting them to the voters, he predicted.

HOOVER MAKES BOULDER CANYON ACT EFFECTIVE

President Hopes Arizona Will Enter Compact.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—President Hoover today signed a proclamation putting into effect the Boulder canyon project under the compact which he, as secretary of commerce, negotiated six years ago between the states of Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

Though Arizona has not yet complied with all the conditions of the Boulder canyon project act, passed by congress in December, the terms of the act state that the project providing for the redistribution of the waters of the Colorado river in these states, shall be made effective upon the ratification of six of the seven states which has been accomplished.

Settlement Desired.

In a statement issued later in the day, President Hoover explained the status of the project, and voiced the hope that Arizona and California "may compose their mutual problems which have hitherto prevented Arizona from joining in the compact."

The Boulder canyon act authorized an outlay of $165,000,000 to dam the Colorado river for the purpose of flood control, water storage, irrigation and power development.

Old Disputes Ended.

At the press conference today Mr. Hoover said:

"The compact itself relates entirely to the distribution of water rights between the seven states in the basin. It has nothing per se to do with the Boulder canyon development except that it removes the barriers to such development. It has some points of very considerable interest.

"It is the final settlement of disputes that have extended over 25 years and which have stopped the development of the river. The difficulties over the respective water rights of the different states have served to prevent development in a large way for nearly a quarter of a century.

"There is only one point still left open, and that is the relation of Arizona to the compact. I am in hopes that Arizona and California may compose their mutual problems which have hitherto prevented Arizona from joining in the compact.

"With Arizona in, the whole basin will have settled their major question of water rights for all time."

SINGER'S SUIT AGAINST KAHN IS DISMISSED

New York, June 25.—(AP)—A $250,000 libel suit brought against Otto Kahn, banker and art patron, by Rosalina Morini, youthful singer, was dismissed today by Supreme Court Justice Peters.

The suit was based on a letter written by the banker to the Musical Courier in which he protested against the use of his name as endorsing Miss Morini's voice in an advertisement previously published in the magazine.

Justice Peters ruled the letter was not libelous of itself and could not be made so by innuendo.

CATCH TWO ROBBING SHOP.

Lieut. Harry Wilson of Oak Park and his squad captured two youthful burglars yesterday as they were robbing a butcher shop at 13 Harrison street, Oak Park. The youths are Joseph Murphy, 17 years old, 1222 South Turner avenue, and Robert Hannisch, 19 years old, 2417 Aubert avenue.

MATHILDE OSER COMES HOME TO VISIT HER FATHER

Mrs. Max Oser, the former Mathilde McCormick, came back to Chicago yesterday with her husband, a former Swiss cavalry officer, and their two children, Anita, four years old, and Peter Max, two and a half years old. It is her first visit here since she surprised the social world by marrying Mr. Oser in London in 1923. Her father, Harold McCormick, who became reconciled to her marriage at the birth of the first grandchild, met the Twentieth Century Limited yesterday to welcome them.

The reunion at the station was a joyous one, including kisses on cheeks in European custom between Mr. McCormick and his son-in-law and a triumphal march to the waiting automobile with young Peter perched high on his grandfather's shoulder. Mrs. Oser was plainly joyful at returning home, and smilingly assisted the nurse, a Swiss woman garbed in blue dress and long blue coif, and the maid to arrange the children's rumpled hair and clothing for the photographers.

Have No Program for Visit.

Mrs. Oser was dressed simply in a dark blue print ensemble and dark blue straw hat. Her husband, slightly shorter than she, stocky in build, was in gray. He returned warmly his father-in-law's greetings. The children were dressed in pale blue linen, with tan coats and hats. Each carried a new purse which they displayed proudly to their grandfather.

Neither Mrs. Oser nor her father had any plans to offer yesterday as to the program of their visit or even to the extent of it. The Osers went direct with Mr. McCormick to his home at 675 Rush street.

"I am just here with my father; that is quite enough," Mrs. Oser declared.

Mother Has Nothing to Say.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, mother of Mrs. Oser, was not available yesterday at her home at Michigan avenue and Oak street, and no mention was made by Mrs. Oser of a contemplated visit there. Mrs. McCormick's secretary announced merely that Mrs. McCormick had nothing to say about the arrival of her daughter and grandchildren.

Mr. McCormick's present wife, Ganna Walska, is now in Paris.

POISON AUTO GAS PERILS BIG CITIES, SCIENTIST FINDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., June 25.—"It looks as if the people resident in big, congested cities, where thousands upon thousands of automobiles are constantly pouring out carbon monoxide gas into the air, would in the very near future have to take to aviation as their principal means of passenger locomotion, to get away from the deadly effects of this gas."

Dr. O. R. Bonewitz, professor of intestinal surgery of New York Medical college and major in charge of aviation service in the New York police department, made the foregoing statement today at the annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy being held here.

Experiments Show Effects.

"Right now," the doctor said, "the people of New York, Chicago, and to an increasing extent Montreal and other cities where automobile congestion is rapidly becoming almost as bad as in the biggest cities of the United States, are steadily poisoning themselves by repeated daily doses of the poisonous monoxide gas, issued in invisible clouds at street intersections where there are jams and traffic holdups and clouds of gas pour out of the massed cars.

"Experiments have recently been made with guinea pigs, and it was found that three or four minutes of exposure in the atmosphere of a traffic jam were sufficient to produce visible signs of gas intoxication on them.

"Other experiments were made to see as to the height to which the gas rose, and it was found that not until 200 feet had been reached was the gas entirely dissipated.

Cause of Bad Nerves.

"There is much complaint of the excessive horn honking and general impatience among motorists when a jam occurs and they have to wait a while at an intersection or elsewhere. I do not doubt that much of this is really caused by the fact that the drivers are beginning to get headachy from slow monoxide poisoning, and in consequence cannot control their nervous irritation.

"The only solution I can see for it is for a great portion of the passenger traffic to get right up in the air, and with the cheapening of air craft and the steady improvement of airplanes and the introduction of new aviation safety devices I believe that consummation will be reached much sooner than most people think."

FREE WOMAN IN MURDER CASE.

MAYOR HAGUE FREE ON BAIL IN CONTEMPT CASE

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, close friend of former Gov. Al Smith, who was arrested last night in the state house at Trenton for contempt of the legislature, today was released in $1,000 bail by Vice Chancellor John J. Fallon in Jersey City.

At the same time, the vice chancellor refused a motion for a change of venue to Mercer county, made by Russell E. Watson, counsel for the McAllister legislative investigating committee.

The contempt proceedings grew out of the mayor's refusal to answer questions on a legislative graft inquiry.

1ST PHONE CALL OVER SEA FROM AIRPLANE MADE

Reporter Talks with a Girl in London.

BY W. W. CHAPLIN.

Hadley Field, N. J., June 25.—(AP)—Telephone conversations from an airplane over America to offices in Europe showed today that the boundaries of science are ever widening, but that human nature remains just about the same.

Three reporters in a plane above New Jersey talked with three reporters on the ground in London, the first public tests of such communication.

And what did the participants in this great experiment discuss with each other? To be perfectly frank, they talked largely about the weather. They did, to give them their due, make some attempts to dismount from this conversational beast of burden, but the attempts were largely unsuccessful, and the bulk of the talk had to do with atmospheric conditions "up here" in America and "down here" in London.

Static Interferes.

Some of the conversations were fairly satisfactory as two way communication, satisfactory enough certainly so that the experiment could be called a success as an experiment, but local static and a clouded crystal in the transmitting set on the plane played havoc with much of the talk.

The crystal "went haywire" very shortly after the Associated Press reporter in the plane had called "Hello, girl friend," across 3,000 miles of land and water to Martha Dalrymple of the A. P. London staff, and had heard her reply "Hello, Bill."

After that Miss Dalrymple's voice continued to come across the sea with some semblance of clarity, but she quite evidently could hear very little of what was said to her.

The conversation went something like this:

"How do you like working in London, Martha?"

"Oh, fine, but I miss you all over there."

"We're up 2,000 feet and doing about 90 miles an hour over a mist that looks like a London fog."

Static Crashes In.

"Crash," cut in a large load of static.

"To mark this occasion, Miss Dalrymple, haven't you some momentous remark to make? Or even an epic wisecrack?"

A noise like coal going down a broken chute was the answer to this.

As an experiment the talk was a success. But as conversation it was chiefly an argument for the folk who say the art is dead.

SCOUTS ACT TO SAVE BOY FROM POTTER'S FIELD

The body of an unidentified Boy Scout, found on June 10 on the Grand Trunk railroad tracks near Palos, will be given a burial in Mount Hope cemetery befitting a Scout unless his parents or relatives are located before next Tuesday.

To save his unknown comrade from the Potter's field, Second Class Scout Donald McKinlay Jr., after learning that the dead boy wore a Boy Scout emblem, went to his troop members of the Bethany Union church, Beverley Hills, and to his father, Judge McKinlay of the Municipal court, for help in making possible an honorable burial. Scoutmaster Henry Parrett, instructor at Morgan Park academy, and Ernest Lee, troop committeeman, pledged support as did others in Beverley Hills in raising a fund for the burial and a stone marker.

The funeral scheduled for yesterday was postponed, however, when Coroner Herman Bundesen recommended that another week be allowed to locating the boy's parents.

LUTHERANS TAKE STAND AGAINST SECRET ORDERS

The Missouri Lutheran synod yesterday reaffirmed its historic stand against secret fraternal orders. The matter arose in the triennial national convention of the synod at River Forest in connection with certain practical pastoral problems involved in the position. In the discussion, the Rev. K. Ketzschmar, Fort Smith, Ark., declared that the church was not against men because they were lodge members, but because they are "off in doctrine."

Prof. Theodore Graebner of Concordia Theological seminary, St. Louis, said that the church's position was not a negative one, but that responsibility of religious leadership required stalwart declarations on fundamental matters of worship.

"There are good, sincere Christians in every secret order," Prof. Graebner said, "but this does not permit us to lose sight of the fact that that figment of reason which the lodge adores as Supreme Being is not the God who has revealed himself as Father, Son, and Holy Ghost."

Combustioneer automatic coal burner automatically burns screenings and usually with less tonnage does the same heating job you're now doing regardless of what coal you're now using. We make the guarantee to cut fuel cost, eliminate smoke, maintain boiler pressure automatically. With screenings! You can't get all the heat from coal by hand firing regardless of how perfect a boiler system you have. Smoke and soot are proof of fuel wasted. Smoke is nothing but unburned fuel that is really super-fuel. But hand firing doesn't make fire hot enough to ignite it. So up goes good money in smoke. Up the stack goes good hard cash that stockholders would just as soon have in dividends.

CERMAK CHARGES EXTRAVAGANCE IN NURSES' SCHOOL

Objects to Deeding of Property to U. of C.

The board of directors of the Illinois Training School for Nurses was charged with gross inefficiency in the handling of county funds for the school's maintenance yesterday by Anton J. Cermak, president of the county board, speaking before a meeting of a subcommittee of a reorganized board of directors.

The Illinois training school was created in 1880 to train nurses for the county hospital. It recently deeded its property at 509 South Honore street to the University of Chicago, effective Dec. 1, and will officially cease to exist at that time. To carry on its function of training nurses for the county hospital, a new institution, named the Cook County School of Nursing, has been organized and was granted articles of incorporation by the secretary of state on June 10. The reorganized board is to govern this new school.

Urges Economy Program.

President Cermak said that the old directors failed to coöperate with the county board and that economy is impossible as long as they function. He urged the new directors to replace the old by July 15, instead of waiting until December, and to promote at once a vigorous retrenchment program.

"The old directors never submitted a budget to the board," Cermak said. "In 1920 they spent $310,753, and in 1928 $1,156,374. So far this year they have spent $66,000 more than for a similar period of last year. We have been paying the expenses of the building for 40 years, and for the last 15 years we have paid depreciation costs. Yet they give the building to the University of Chicago after it has virtually been paid for by the taxpayers."

Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, vice president of the old board, explained last night that the county paid for the maintenance of the school, but that the building, financed by popular subscription, was the property of the trustees. The trustees, she argued, therefore had the right to turn the property over to the university.

Ask $2,000,000 Bond Issue.

A bond issue of $2,000,000 is sought to finance the erection of a building for the Cook county school. This issue was defeated when last placed on the ballot, but a new vote is planned for this fall.

When asked what arrangements were contemplated before such a new building is available, Mrs. MacLeish said it was her belief that the new school would continue to occupy the old building, by arrangement with the university.

Dr. Frank S. Shaw, formerly of the Presbyterian hospital, is head of the new board.

Miss Laura Logan, superintendent of the Illinois Training school, denied President Cermak's charges of extravagance. She said the increased expenditures by the school were justified by the increased demands placed upon in by the growth of the county hospital.

ISSUE WRIT TO FORCE CITY TO LIFT BAN ON CENSORED TALKIE

A writ of mandamus to compel city officials to permit the showing of "So This Is Heaven," the first talkie to be banned by the police board of film censorship, was issued yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg. The writ was granted after a jury had viewed the picture and failed to find it objectionable.

The picture was refused a permit by the censorship board because of passages spoken by an actress taking the rôle of a woman maintained in an apartment by a wealthy admirer. The board suggested that a caption be introduced to marry the pair and that the objectionable passages be deleted. Attorney Elmer M. Leesman, representing the United Artists corporation, argued that the picture represents a triumph of good over evil, and that the introduction of such a caption would destroy the moral lesson.

At a conference between Mayor Thompson, Corporation Counsel Ettelson, and Police Commissioner Russell the ban of the censorship board on the film version of "The Trial of Mary Dugan" was lifted. The board had also banned this picture because of alleged immorality.

Robbed of $1,500; Names Willie Doody as Bandit

Morris Cooperman, 4942 Kimball avenue, a commission merchant, identified a photograph of Willie Doody, sought in connection with recent robberies and two murders, as the man who had robbed him yesterday of $1,500 in currency and several checks. Cooperman was taken to the detective bureau following the robbery, which occurred at 14th and Canal streets. He was shown several pictures and from among them picked out that of Doody.

ALDERMEN INSIST BOARD PAY SHARE OF SCHOOL CLINIC

Drop Dental Work Unless Funds Are Pledged.

Unless the board of education today agrees to appropriate $55,000 for continuation of the work after July 1, the dental hygiene clinic established in the public schools will be abandoned. This was indicated last night after a day's negotiations between school and city officials.

On Jan. 1 the city council appropriated $55,000 for the clinic, contingent upon the board's appropriating another $55,000 if a bill authorizing it to do so was enacted by the legislature. The bill passed, but because of the educational fund shortage the board takes the position it cannot raise the money.

City Insists on Pledge.

Before the council finance committee yesterday President H. Wallace Caldwell said he regretted the circumstances, but that he did not see how the appropriation could be made by the board. He pleaded for the city to furnish the second $55,000. The aldermen agreed to take the proposal before the council today, but with the understanding it will not be acted upon unless the board pledges reimbursement of the money.

Today's council meeting will be the last before July 1, the deadline for supplemental appropriations out of the corporate fund.

Members of the committee were irate over the board's refusal to produce its share of the cost of what they declared was legitimately a school expense. Ald. Jacob Arvey [24th] observed that "the only time the board comes to us is when it wants money," while Ald. John Clark [30th], chairman of the committee, asserted that so far as he is concerned "the board will have to pay."

Dentists Urge Appropriation.

Twenty-five dentists and fifteen women hygienists, employed in the clinic, at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman last night adopted a resolution urging that the appropriation be made. Dr. Lon W. Moirey, chief of the dental hygiene bureau, declared that the officials do not realize the extent and value of the clinic work.

"Seventy per cent of our school children have defects in their teeth," he said. "These children are examined by nurses and cared for by dentists who go from school to school and give them free treatment which many would never receive otherwise. We have treated 45,000 children since the clinic was established and it is imperative that we have funds to go ahead after July 1."

HAILSTONES BIG AS APPLES CRASH ROOFS IN AFRICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, June 25.—Durban, in southeastern Africa, was visited last night by the severest hailstorm in its history. The damage was estimated at about $2,420,000. The hailstones were as big and heavy as baseballs and roofs crashed down under the fierce bombardment, driving out the ocupants from thousands of houses. The windows of the tramcar and railway train were smashed and the hoods of automobiles ripped off, and their bodies dented.

Several women struck by the hailstones were stunned. The roof of the Addington hospital was pierced by the stones, which piled up in the wards. The patients were hastily brought out to safety. Telephone lines were destroyed. The glass roof of an art galery was smashed, as well as case containing priceless relics, many of which were destroyed.

HUNT QUICK CASH TO MEET NEEDS OF TAX SPENDERS

Swanson Tackles 32,000 Pending Realty Suits.

County and city officials, in a conference yesterday in the office of County Treasurer George F. Harding, adopted two measures designed to get quick revenue for the tax spenders. The officials are eager for cash, since the delay in 1928 tax collections, due to the realty reassessment, has brought about a compulsory curtailment of expenditures.

Following the meeting, which was an executive session, State's Attorney John A. Swanson assigned his assistant, James P. Clancy, to compile a report on the 32,000 pending tax suits that are tying up $10,000,000 in 1927 realty taxes. The object of this move is to try to settle some of the cases out of court and then to distribute the revenue among the financially pinched spending bodies.

Welcome Voluntary Payments.

The second development of the conference was an agreement that the county treasurer will accept deposits from property owners who waht to pay something on their 1928 taxes in advance of receiving their bills. The agreement went no further than this, but Mr. Harding declared he would try to distribute the money among the local governmental agencies should any substantial amount be received under the voluntary payment system.

In addition to the county treasurer and the state's attorney, others at the meeting included Corporation Counsel Samuel E. Ettelson, City Controller George K. Schmidt, and Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the council finance committee. The scheme for advance tax payments was first proposed in a resolution introduced by Ald. Charles Eaton [5th] and passed recently by the city council.

State's Attorney Swanson's tackling the realty tax problems follows his similar work with long pending litigation over personal property taxes against insurance companies operating within Illinois but incorporated outside the state. A settlement with the insurance companies is pending.

$10,000,000 Tied Up.

"These real estate tax law suits," said the state's attorney, "could not be tried in less than five years. That is too long to tie up $10,000,000 of public monies. The property owners filed the cases in protest against their respective bills under the 1927 assessment, which was declared by the state tax commission to be null and void because full of inequalities that amounted to fraud.

"I don't think the city, the county, the schools or any other tax spenders wants to assess any property in excess of its fair portion of cost of government. In the 32,000 cases, I'm going to try to reach an agreement between the tax spenders and the tax payers as to a fair assessment on the individual parcels and thereby dispose of expensive litigation and also bring in quick revenue."

None of the officials wanted to take a position publicly of throwing cold water on the voluntary tax collection plan, but privately they commented that they didn't expect any amounts to be turned in that would benefit the tax spenders who deal in millions. Since the publicity given to the plan in the last couple of weeks, Mr. Harding has received a half dozen checks, the largest for less than $300.

Mann act charges were placed yesterday against Jack McGurn, notorious machine gunner and beer warrior, and his pretty blonde girl friend, Louise Rolfe, after a day in court on other charges of living together as man and wife.

The couple were arrested in the Stevens hotel on Feb. 27. Police had sought McGurn after the north side massacre of Feb. 14 in which seven members of the Bugs Moran gang were killed, and eventually they learned he was living at the hotel with Miss Rolfe as Mr. and Mrs. J. Vincent D'Oro. McGurn was identified as one of the participants in the massacre and was indicted for the seven murders with John Scalisi, but after a month in jail they were freed on bail because the state was not ready to proceed with their trials.

When arrested McGurn and the girl were arraigned on the charges of living together in an open and notorious state, but their trial was postponed. Scalisi, on being released, was killed, but McGurn and his girl friend took a trip to Miami, Fla., where he is said to have conferred with Alphonse Capone prior to Capone's imprisonment in Philadelphia.

McGurn and Miss Rolfe were before Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday morning and Attorney Michael Ahern was interposing a technical defense.

Hotel employés and police testified to finding the two in the room, McGurn in underwear and a silk dressing gown and the girl fully clothed but without stockings. The hotel records showed they had lived there since Jan. 31. Two revolvers were found in the room.

Girl Refuses to Testify.

Miss Rolfe, who is depended upon by McGurn to furnish an alibi that he was in the hotel with her instead of at the north side garage at the time of the seven murders, was placed on the witness stand but on advice of Attorney Ahern refused to testify. Judge Borrelli took the case under advisement.

The government then took charge of the couple. Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson obtained a warrant from United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. The warrant alleged that McGurn transported Miss Rolfe from Florida to Chicago for immoral purposes and the girl was accused of conspiracy to violate the law.

Michael Carrozzo, head of the Street Sweepers union and once accused of the murder of Big Tim Murphy, put up a $10,000 Liberty bond as bail for the couple on the government charges.

Why Procrastinate With Deafness?

There's only one way to find hearing, and the health and happiness that go with it. And that's to look for it. Each day that you put off the search is only another lost day of nervous irritation and social embarrassment.

So why not look for hearing today? And why not start the quest in the private consultation rooms of the Acousticon?

We honestly believe that you will find it there, as so many others have, through the medium of the new and finer Acousticon—a scientific hearing aid with a tiny receiver or earpiece no larger than a silver dime.

TEN-DAY FREE TRIAL

Take the instrument home with you if you wish. Test it for ten days. Be sure that it's the sort of hearing aid you've always hoped to find. Learn how clearly, how distinctly it transmits sounds to subnormal ears. Probably you'll keep it, but if you don't, you may return it without charge or obligation.

If you find a call impossible, merely send your name and address to Dept. 73A for a free home test. Dictograph Products Co., Inc., 12th floor, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

VALUING THE ELEVATED LINES.

The city council's transportation committee has appointed three citizens—Col. A. A. Sprague, Joshua d'Esposito, the engineer, and George Woodruff, the banker—to place a valuation on the elevated lines. The figure arrived at will be used to guide the aldermen in drafting a franchise ordinance for a consolidated transportation company which will operate street cars, elevated lines and feeder buses.

It is generally assumed that the surface lines will go into the consolidated company at the purchase price fixed by the 1907 ordinance, or $164,000,000. There is no comparable ordinance governing the elevated lines. The citizens' traction commission has said that $97,000,000 is an outside figure for the elevated and the new committee is to refine that figure.

It is important, in this connection, to remember that much, and perhaps all, of the present elevated structure in Chicago is antiquated. The charge has been frequently made, and as frequently denied, that the steel in the structure has been weakened by time. Whether this is so or not, there can be little doubt that the structure as it stands at present is inhumanly noisy and unsuited to carrying the heavier, faster trains which are required by modern standards of comfort and service. In all probability, then, it will have to be replaced in large part within the next decade or two.

Under these circumstances it would be absurd to assume that the value of the elevated lines is the present cost of replacement less depreciation if by depreciation is meant merely the destruction wrought by time on the equipment and plant now in use. There is additional depreciation of even greater importance arising from the fact that the present structure is out of date and nearing the end of its usefulness. New money will be required to tear it down and rebuild to modern specifications. Therein lies one danger of making too liberal an estimate of the value of the existing plant. The heavier the present capitalization, the more difficult it will be to obtain the additional money required in the near future for capital improvements, and the more likely it becomes that fares must be raised if adequate transportation is ever to be had.

It need not be insisted that the elevated lines be given only the valuation based on their earnings, which are meager. The principle to be followed in the appraisal is to play fair not only with the present investors but also with the public and with future investors. A figure can and, indeed, must be arrived at which will be accepted by the holders of present securities and will at the same time not outrage the public, which must approve the ordinance in a referendum.

LOOSE IN THE CLOVER.

The opinion of the attorney for Mr. Faherty's board of improvements which holds that city bond issues may now be freely indulged in and enjoyed without painful recourse to public approval is fortunately not final. Its validity should be tested by the earliest practicable resort to the courts. That it colors the sky with rose for an administration which the public has shown repeatedly of late it has no confidence in is plain enough, but we trust the color will fade out. We are confident Gov. Emmerson, and at least a good many of the legislators who voted for the measure interpreted by Mr. Faherty's adviser, had no intention of turning the Thompson administration loose for another orgy of waste of public money, and certainly the taxpayers of Chicago have no intention of submitting to such an injury if they have any means of protecting themselves from it.

THE DECLINE OF ROWING.

Another Yale-Harvard race has been rowed. Probably most readers of the sporting pages have forgotten already that Yale won, for interest in the crews is confined pretty largely to a few thousand enthusiasts. Not many years ago rowing attracted much wider interest. That was because the shells were relatively faster. They moved at about 12 miles an hour, which was faster than most commercial sail and steam ships when the first Harvard-Yale race was held, in 1876, and faster than anything of shallow draft afloat.

Clippers had averaged 15 miles over long sea voyages with favorable winds and steam packets a little better. Even today freighters seldom average much better than 12 miles an hour, though the tendency is toward faster ships. The America's cup was won at 6 miles an hour and retained time and again at less than 10. It is not so many years since Harvard had the first coach's launch which could move faster than eight oars could push a shell. It furnished the Yale wisecrackers with plenty of opportunities.

Much of the interest in rowing has been transferred to the racing motor boats, which now are faster than anything else, sporting or commercial, which moves through the water. Rowing has been relegated to the class of fencing, sailing, horse racing, and archery. It survives into the present by force of tradition. Interest in it is no longer practical. A 10 year old boy in a rowboat with an outboard motor can cut circles around the fastest shell that ever won a race. If, when he grows up and goes to college, he happens to be tall enough, strong enough, and courageous enough to pull an oar for twenty minutes, he may develop an interest in rowing. Otherwise he will see in it little but a lot of exhausting toil.

GET STARTED.

Gov. Emmerson has given Chicago a voice in deciding how our share of gas tax revenue shall be spent. The governor appointed a committee of citizens in this neighborhood to plan a program of road building in the Chicago area to be financed by a third of the gas tax funds for the biennium. If the committee agrees on a program, and if the program is acceptable to the administration, Gov. Emmerson promised that work would start immediately.

Chicago has had reasonable objections to the gas tax arrangement in theory, for the law does not provide an adequate return to Chicago for the amount of our contribution. But we have hoped that the administration of the fuel tax might compensate to some extent for the injustice to Chicago of the law. Mr. Emmerson's statement of intention is, therefore, gratifying, and the appointment of the committee was an agreeable gesture of sincerity. If the committee has real authority; if the members display the intiative which their names indicate they possess; if they work without jealousy and if they have an appreciation of traffic problems in the vicinity, then Chicago may get a measure of satisfaction from the tax, during, at least, the next two years.

The chairman of the committee, Mr. F. F. Winans, stated that the ambition of the group is to plan highway improvements for completion in 1933. The proper objective is three years earlier. The governor made his appointments on June 24. The committee should have met and started to work on June 25, but it didn't, nor is there a meeting scheduled for today. Already there has been a delay of two days and if the members ignore present traffic needs for possible conditions four years hence, they will delay their meetings for days and months and years. If there is a committee meeting tomorrow and the members stay in session during summer and fall, there is no reason why a substantial start cannot be made the day of the first allocation of gas tax income.

REAL DEMOCRACY.

The German Supreme court has decided that the children of Nancy Leishman cannot inherit their father's estates under German law because they are low born. Their father was Carl, duke of Croy. Their mother was the daughter of the former American ambassador to Germany. The high court of republican Germany holds that the law of 1742 prevails in spite of constitutional changes, and that if a member of the high nobility marries a commoner the children cannot inherit the title or estates. The German republic retained the court system of the monarchy.

A people do not put on the full garb of democracy merely by adopting a republican form of government. Political equality in methods of self-government does not even imply a democratic form of society. That is not so easy to acquire. Without it republicanism may be effective in law, but it will not be in thought, manners or spirit. It will not be apparent in individual character or in the relation of one citizen to another. Without true democracy republicanism is merely an escape from the abuses of monarchical dictation. It has the legal, but misses the spiritual content.

For this reason the United States is the only democracy among the various self-governing countries. Great Britain cannot be one so long as it retains caste, aristocracy and position, dignity and privilege fixed by birth or by royal grant. Germany did not rid itself of the high born by changing to the republican form of government. The Tory opinion of the old court system carries into legal fact certain distinctions recognized in old monarchical law and in the common experiences of the people.

The United States attained real democracy because it did not have a titled aristocracy resident in the colonies which formed the republic. The Fairfaxes of Virginia were the only representatives of the English nobility who recognized America as their home. The colonists were commoners. When the Federalists tried to sustain an aristocracy even without titles, the Jeffersonians prevented it and America became a democracy in common usage as well as a republic in political form.

Editorial of the Day

[Buffalo Courier.]

Denouncing the "rank disloyalty of the wet press in referring to regularly commissioned government officials as snoopers, desperadoes and sneaks," the board of trustees of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league recently adopted resolutions demanding that heavy penalties be provided by law for those guilty of "such contempt of government."

"The wet press of our state," the resolution sets forth, "was never more openly defiant of all law restricting the liquor trade than at the present time. This is vividly indicated in their handling of the De King case at Aurora."

In selecting the De King case, involving the killing of a woman by a state dry agent making an illegal raid with a warrant obtained by the confessed perjury of a paid informer, the Anti-Saloon league trustees frankly admitted why they want to go back to seventeenth century methods of dealing with the press. Publication of the facts in the De King case undoubtedly aroused great public indignation against fanatical dry tyranny.

We wonder if the report of a special committee of the Illinois legislature urging that the state make a full investigation of the circumstances connected with the killing of Mrs. De King will likewise come under the condemnation of defenders of strong arm and quick trigger methods of enforcement.

The Illinois Anti-Saloon league trustees will have to reconcile themselves to the impossibility of turning the clock back 300 years in order to annihilate the "wet press" by recourse to prison cell, pillory and gallows. The fact that they went so far as to pass such a resolution at all may lead to some shaking of heads over F. Scott McBride's statement at the same Illinois meeting that "delirium tremens has practically disappeared from our country."

SUNSHINE AND RICKETS.

THE amount of exposure to good sunshine required to prevent a child from having rickets, or to cure one that has developed the disease, is not the same in any two places or at different seasons. Probably we may yet have reports from local health departments in which the local requirements of the home city are given by months.

While adults do not have rickets, they are interested, since the same quality of light which protects a child against rickets builds up the resistance of both adults and children to common colds, coughs, pneumonia and many other infectious diseases.

Tisdale and his associates have told us that twenty minutes a day of good midday sunshine is enough to protect Toronto children from rickets. In January two and a half hours of ideal midday sunshine are required for protection of Toronto children. On a practical basis this calls for three to four hours daily of January sunshine as it is in Toronto.

Janet Clark, working in Baltimore with the more modern methods and in the most scientific way, gives it as her conclusion that 16 minutes daily of high grade midday Baltimore sunshine is enough in August. The amount of the same article in March is about one hour.

Dr. Clark finds that in Baltimore the sunshine is richest and best in August. It is worst about the middle of January. While she does not consider the proof as full as it might be, she considers that the determining factor is the amount of ozone in the very high stretches of the earth's atmosphere. Of course, clouds, rains, smoke and air dust modify the effectiveness of sunshine. Dr. J. R. Earp compared the sunshine of Boulder, Colo., with that of Baltimore. The Boulder sunshine is about three times as rich in ultraviolet. The sunshine in Baltimore is of the best quality in late morning; in Boulder, in the early afternoon.

He also studied the sky shine of the two places comparatively. In Baltimore the sky shine was richest in August and poorest in January. The difference was great. In Boulder the sky shine was about of the same quality at all seasons of the year.

During November of one year the records showed sky shine of exceptionally good quality. However, that was due to several heavy falls of very clean snow in that month.

KNOWN BY MANY NAMES.

Mrs. A. G. writes: For the last 17 years I have peculiar sores between my toes. One doctor cured me and I stayed cured for three years. Now it is back and the doctors have lost their cunning. I wash my feet night and morning, but my toes look as if they had been boiled. The spaces between them are raw and painful.

REPLY.

Your complaint is hoary with age and many are those afflicted therewith. Among the names by which it goes are Mango toe and scald toe and pompholyx. The popular name now is ringworm of the feet.

Sulphur ointments are used for it. So is a solution of fuchsin. Most physicians use some form of Whitfield's paste.

When the parasite is about to be killed, out it sneaks into the nails or around them and there gets a turtlehold.

TREATMENT FOR RINGWORM.

Mrs. S. J. C. writes: Please advise the cure for ringworm. Can it be cured in the hair?

REPLY.

Ringworm on the scalp is another proposition. The parasites get in the hair shafts and are not easily dislodged. Physicians treat it by X-rays. In some cases thallium can be used.

NEITHER OF THEM HARMFUL.

Mrs. J. D. R. writes:

1. Is black tea in moderation harmful?

2. Are raw potatoes harmful for children?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No. I assume they are well cleaned and peeled.

HOW OWNED?

Chicago, June 21.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father has two lots. Of one of the lots my mother is joint owner. She died four years ago. Are any of the four sons left entitled to a share of this property? H. N.

If the instrument expressly provides for joint tenancy as distinguished from tenancy in common, the surviving joint tenant will take to the exclusion of the heirs or devisees of the one who dies first.

QUOTA IMMIGRANTS.

Chicago, June 21.—[Friend of the People.]—I would be glad of some information on the following subject: I have a friend, a young man, going to Scotland in July to get married. He has been a resident of Chicago for five years. He took out first papers shortly after he came here and intends getting his final papers when he comes back here in September. Can he bring his wife back here outside the quota?

H. G.

Wives of resident aliens, legally admitted for permanent residence, are quota immigrants, but are entitled to preference in the issuance of immigration visas.

After marriage abroad, the alien should execute form 575 "Declaration of Last Entry into the United States," for the information of the American consul abroad, to whom application for the necessary immigration visa may be made.

S. D. SMITH,

DEPRECIATION OF A HAT.

Chicago, June 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A few days ago I took three hats to a cleaners to be cleaned and blocked. When I went to get them one was lost. I paid $7 for it late last summer. The cleaners offered me $5. The hat was of good Panama straw. Do I have to take the $5 or can I make them pay me the full amount? E. W.

It does not seem likely that a hat which cost seven dollars last summer would be worth more than five dollars now. At any rate the difference would not be enough to make court proceedings worth while.

A GALLOP.

Galloping, galloping down the road,
Under an arch of trees,
Over a bridge (as the river flow'd Slowly 'neath gentle breeze),
Hoofbeats are pounding. A timid bird
Screams as he takes to wing . . .
Yonder a partridge was flush'd and whirred

Rein we at crest, to gaze
Down on the valley, so cool and still
Watching the sunset blaze . . .
Cantering down in the twilight, there,
Lengthening shadows glide . . .
Slower and slower our horses fare,
Sauntering side by side.

The Moss Covered Bucket Which Hung in the Well.

We are deeply pained each and every day to be forced to read in the public prints stories of the good Bishop Cannon's dealings with what is termed a "bucket shop." We do not know just what a bucket shop is, but it is said that this particular bucket shop at least is not a place where they make and sell buckets. For some reason the bucket shop with which it is said the good bishop is connected has been operating, or manufacturing, or whatever it does, contrary to the law of our country and that the government officials raided it on the charge of using the mail to lure and deceive those of a sweet and confiding disposition. In fact, this particular bucket shop seems, from what is said in the newspapers, to be as sinful and unholy as a rum runner's joint or a speakeasy. We cannot believe that Bishop Cannon, the militant leader of the Methodist Church South and the Napoleon Bonaparte of the Anti-Saloon League, who works while you sleep to bring about the drastic enforcement of all law, could be in any way concerned with a bucket shop that does not actually manufacture and sell buckets. We do hope that before this dreadful affair is over it will be clearly established that this bucket shop about which there is so much comment is a real bucket shop where cunning little buckets are made, which lovely young dairy maids carry brimful of sweet milk fresh from the gentle faced kine lowing softly in the vale. Or, perhaps, the buckets from the bucket shop with which good Bishop Cannon had dealings are the kind of which the poet told: ". . . . the old oaken bucket, the iron bound bucket, the moss covered bucket which hung in the well." Ah, yes, that's it! We cannot, we will not believe otherwise!

Mother, May I Go Out to Swim?

Saw an item in the papers yesterday that Evanston was considering a ban on the backless bathing suits. We always thought they made them go in swimming in Evanston fully dressed and wearing overcoats or heavy robes tied around the neck and reaching to the feet. And they had to be graduates of Northwestern or some other college of equal rank and have a letter from their pastor and three property owners who have resided in the community not less than fifteen years.

When Me and Antonio Crossed the Line.

RHL: Me an Antonio has hard time trying to be good citizen. All the time the law is after us. Sometimes me an Antonio gets tight—you know—we work hard an once in while we wanta get full and have peaceful soul like everybody else. Well when we go to get kinda drunk we try to be good citizen . . . so we cross the line at Nogales to a cantina we know and I says to Antonio, What will you have to drink? And Antonio is a fine gentleman because he says, Gracias amigo . . . and now it is Antonios turn to buy one drink. Well after we get so so—you know—Antonio says to me Did I give our burro some alfalfa hay yesterday? I always know me an Antonio is pretty full when he talks about our burro. So then I take Antonio by the arm an Antonio he takes me by the arm like good citizen an we go to united states . . . but shes a hard time to be good citizen an the law is always after us. Just yesterday when we come back across the line into the united states a policeman took us to jail because he says me an Antonio threw rocks at a mexican woman's olla. I guess we was in the jail all night an the next day the judge says we should pay twenty five dollars for disturbing the peace of nogales arizona. Well thats allright but me an Antonio thinks shes hard business to be good citizen in the estados unidos because the judge he say to us, Say, you two: all you come down her for is to cross tha line and get good and soaked—next time you two hombres come down here you better stay on this side of the line! ORACLE.

STRONGHEART, the famous dog hero of the movies, is dead. His owner took him to a talking film in which he had appeared and he listened to himself bark. He went straight out and died. "If that's what my bark sounds like," said Strongheart, quietly, "then here's the place I quit. Goodby all!"

DEAN JUSTIN MILLER of the University of Southern California says social reforms can never be accomplished by law and cites the failure of the eighteenth amendment as a bright and shining example. Probably the reformers know this as well as any one, but, anyhow, they like the fun of trying.

"DIE WACHT AM RHEIN" is still the most loved phrase in Germany, but what's agitating them very much right now, and for the last eleven years, is "Der Franzos am Rhein." If the Germans can get the Franzosen off they can put die wacht back.

THE NEW TARIFF puts a high duty on snake skins to protect the snakes, but where does the white collared, pay envelope guy get off? Oh, would we were a hoop snake so that we could roll around all day and enjoy the new tariff.

EVERYBODY who wants to excuse himself for anything nowadays says that William Doody, the baby faced bandit, held him up just as he was turning around the corner to come home. Well, sir, you know our last line, that we've got to have down here every day, rain or shine. Well, we had a lovely one for today, and that nasty, little snubnosed William Doody pointed a gun right at us and said, "Your last line or your life." And that's why there's no last line today. R. H. ANOTHER MATTER OF PRECEDENCE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

THE NEWS.—The news from Gen. Grant's army is up to the night of June 23, but no details of his movements are yet furnished with sufficient clearness to appreciate his plan. On the 22d the 2d corps took a position half way between the Norfolk and Petersburg and Weldon railroads. An unfortunate gap in our line gave A. P. Hill's rebel corps an advantage and resulted in exposing the 2d corps to a flank and rear fire, causing a temporary panic in our ranks. The corps finally fell back, but subsequently reformed and occupied the same ground.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Reports have arrived of Sherman's fight with Johnston on the 16th in front of Marietta, Ga. On the afternoon of the 15th Gen. McPherson on the left made a diversion, and the next day on Sherman's right Schofield's 23d corps stormed Pine mountain, while Hooker attacked Lost mountain. Both summits have been strongly fortified by the rebels. Schofield's men carried Pine mountain and Gen. Sherman surveyed Marietta from the top for an hour or more, but our forces finally retired to escape a galling fire. Gen. Hooker, who met with a terribly stubborn resistance, failed to dislodge the rebels from Lost mountain. Night closed in on the bloody field, leaving our boys masters of half of it. Our loss in the 23d corps is not large but Hooker suffered severely, losing at least 1,500 in killed and wounded. How many rebels bit the dust I cannot estimate, but the number was by no means small.

GALESBURG, Ill.—Editors, CHICAGO TRIBUNE: Your paper having the largest circulation in this county of any publication, not even excepting our home papers, we hope you will insert this item in reference to our two days' Sanitary fair, which has just closed, netting about $5,000. Yours truly, Patron.

PARIS.—The cruiser Sfax, bearing Capt. Dreyfus, the prisoner from Devil's island, arrived in French waters and is cruising along the shore with lights extinguished, seeking a place for him to land in secrecy. The commander of the Sfax telegraphed that Dreyfus is much fatigued by the voyage and the government has decided to give him ample time to rest before the beginning of his new trial.

NEWPORT, R. I.—Unless all indications are at fault, Nathaniel G. Herreshoff, yacht designer and naval architect, has produced in the cup defender Columbia the fastest sailing yacht ever put afloat. In a short test today it beat the old Defender so badly that there can be no doubt of its superiority over the champion of 1895.

LONDON.—The firm attitude of Great Britain appears to be having the desired effect in the Transvaal complications. Latest cablegrams from South Africa talk of various semiofficial missions for negotiations between Cape Town, Bloemfontein, and Pretoria, aiming to arrange a franchise compromise on a five or six years' residence basis.

BERLIN.—Streets of Berlin were scenes of rioting and plundering last night and this morning. Excited by speeches from agitators in Alexanderplatz, mobs attacked and robbed pedestrians and maltreated isolated soldiers. Troops sent to Alexanderplatz were fired on by crowds in the streets and from roofs of buildings.

LONDON.—President Ebert of Germany, Premier Bauer and all the ministers have issued a proclamation to the German people, a message from Berlin says, announcing the conclusion of peace and urging as the first pressing need the bending of all efforts toward its fulfillment. "As far as it is possible to carry it out, the treaty must be carried out," the proclamation says.

CHICAGO.—Miss Margaret Pullman, daughter of Mrs. William C. Pullman, became the bride of John Harmon McIlvaine, son of Mr. and Mrs. William D. McIlvaine, 112 Bellevue place, before one of the largest and most fashionable audiences ever assembled in the Fourth Presbyterian church. The service was read by the Rev. John Timothy Stone.

FROM A LUTHERAN MINISTER.

Chicago, June 22.—The clergy is being blamed for the present enforcement of the Volstead law. We hope that clergymen are against booze, but we also hope that they are against slaughtering of innocent people.

The great moral law is somewhat older than the Volstead act. Have never heard of its being repealed. Not even Uncle Sam is above this law. We read in scripture: "The blood of Abel crieth unto heaven." Any one shedding innocent blood will be held responsible, Uncle Sam included. Moreover, our constitution guarantees "life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness." Life comes first. It is the most precious. The lowest bum will fight for his life. The President has sworn to uphold this law. Does violation of the Volstead law call for immediate capital punishment?

Let us suppose a person is guilty of violating the law. Let us suppose he is transporting intoxicating liquor in his stomach, which certainly is worse than conveying it in his machine. Do we shoot him? We pity the bum, but we do not shoot him. It has been reported that members of congress cheered dry killings. If so, there is something rotten in Washington. We thought we detected some kind of an odor when the national origin law passed. The cheering proved it. But congress may decide to give Mrs. Virkula $25,000. It will hardly take the place of the dead husband and father. Let us demand common sense of all our public men.

Lake View Lutheran Church.

TENNIS COMPLAINT.

Chicago, June 24.—With the perfect tennis weather we have been having the west side tennis enthusiasts are becoming a bit impatient with the condition of the courts in Harrison park. No attempt has been made to put these courts in such condition that they could be used. Any one who really wants to play finds it necessary to travel to Oak Park or Garfield park in order to find a decent court. Why cannot the west park commissioners attend to these courts in Harrison park before the season is any more advanced?

WEST SIDE TENNIS FAN.

GOOD BUSINESS!

Chicago, June 24.—So the city appropriates $30,498 for salaries of movie censors and operators, "outside of the cost of material and supplies," and Chief Censor Mrs. Siger claims it's "a good enterprise for the city as we collect $80,000 yearly for permits." Who pays this $110,498—us poor movie patrons? J. FREDERICK MEAGHER.

TESTIMONIAL FOR THE CANUCKS.

Chicago, June 24.—As an American citizen spending a part of each summer in Canada, including Hamilton, the city from which "Mrs. L. T." writes in Sunday's issue, I must say her article seems strange to us as we have always been impressed with the unusual courtesy and consideration accorded us by the Canadian people. Nothing ever seems too much trouble for them to do for us and that without thought of being repaid. Also we have found the hotels giving splendid service and food at much less cost than our own.

There is one type of American hated everywhere, that is the overbearing, new rich American lacking culture in any degree, crashing his way everywhere and believing his money can buy him consideration anywhere. He deserves to have his dollars "wheedled" out of him. We have had occasion to be heartily ashamed of some of the American tourists we have met in Canada and if Canada comes to dislike the American tourist it can be laid to his own attitude and conduct.

M. L.

PLEASED WITH CHURCH STORY.

Chicago, June 18.—I am commissioned by the council of St. Paul's church to convey to you the assurances of our sincere appreciation and gratitude for the splendidly well written article on old St. Paul's, as contained in last Sunday's TRIBUNE. I have listened in upon many comments heard from many sources and in all parts of the city and all of them sounded most favorably. The article seemed to contain for many a bit of Chicago history from the early days on. Please be assured of our thanks.

HERBERT G. IMMENHAUSEN.

CLOSED TO TRAFFIC.

Chicago, June 21.—In Washington park, at 55th street, a number of roads lead to a refreshment and recreation house. These roads have been cut off from traffic for four or five years by wooden horses. Why do these ugly horses have to stay there? If these roads are never to be used again why not have grass and shrubbery planted? I drive through the park several times a day, and nearly every one with me speaks about it. R. G. CLARK.

TEST OF OWNERSHIP.

Chicago, June 22.—I note that some fellow at Lake Zurich claims he owns the bed of the lake. That is a real fast one. I wonder how he would like to receive a tax bill for same?

J. P. SMITH.

HOW CAN ANYBODY TELL?

PING!
PING!

Boy!

FIVE o'clock. Every desk in the local room is occupied, every typewriter tapping. The red-haired reporter yanks a sheet of paper from his machine and bellows "Boy!" A copy boy comes up and takes the paper off to the copy desk. "Boy" calls the girl cub who first looked on death today. "Boy" snarls the rewrite, rattling his keys like gunfire. "B-o-o-y" booms the gray-haired veteran at the city desk. And the man in the slot of the copy desk calls monotonously, regularly, low-voiced—"Boy." The picture editor tosses another scaled photo into the outgoing basket. "Boy!" And the spectacled reporter who has run out of copy paper shouts frantically—"Boy!"

Stories are written, heads devised, pictures placed, phones are answered, pages are filled. The desks empty, deadlines loom and pass, editions change, the tickers beat out broad ribbons of telegraph copy monotonously, sandwiches and coffee come in and the empty trays go out . . . but until the last page goes down for the last edition, the newsroom cracks and booms and echoes with the imperious monosyllable—Boy!

YOUTH is essential in a good newspaper.

Youth on the staff, and youth in the audience. Lack one and you lose the other. New readers come fast; old ones die off. Within the last ten years in New York City, more than a million people became twenty years old; but little more than a half-million passed fifty. The newspaper that fails to find and hold its share of the young is shrinking—in influence as well as circulation.

Youth is the ally of the advertiser, who is forever crying the new idea even about the old product. And today advertising addresses youth as never before. Paint a chair in fifteen minutes! Colored underwear. Sun tan. Modernistic furniture. Common stocks. Co-operative apartments. Airplane tested oils. Talking pictures. Investment trusts. Screen-grid radios. Light weight luggage. Speedier, brighter motor cars. Faster trains. Foreign travel. Sauerkraut juice . . . New products, new uses, new fashions, new habits and conveniences—all of which will sell only to the young idea, to the open mind, to the fresh viewpoint! What does your grandfather think of two-tone underwear, for instance, or aviation securities?

TEN YEARS ago, the young folks in New York discovered The News. They bought this new type newspaper by hundreds of thousands, giving it a growth unparalleled in newspaper history. They liked its small size and small page, its brevity, its newspictures, its features, its ease of handling and reading. They took it home and habituated older people to it. Today, with the largest circulation in America, it reaches seven-tenths of New York City families and one-fifth of the families in the New York suburbs. It is read by more families than any other New York newspaper. It has a majority circulation in all income groups but the poorest. It is the only newspaper that covers a majority of the New York market! The News is evidence of what happens to a product that young people like and push!

And those boys and girls of ten years ago are on somebody's payroll now! Sixty thousand marriages a year have made most of them staid family folk. Their new married market habits are jelling, getting set. They are doing the bulk of their lifetime buying right now, and their incomes are growing too. If you want to sell them, you can't wait much longer.

They spend billions of dollars, move mountains of merchandise each year. They have made The News the first medium in New York for furniture, musical instruments, radio sets, have broken records in real estate sales, have kept our department store linage growing this year while most New York papers show a decline. And they are only part of the whole News market!

Because it gets the selling story to the buying customer—more of them, more quickly, comprehensively, inexpensively, The News can do a better job for you in New York. Investigate!

FATAL HOUSETOP AIRPLANE CRASH BRINGS U. S. QUIZ

Why All Motors Fail at Same Time? Question.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—The fatal crash of a Northwest Airways Ford tri-motored transport on St. Paul, Minn., housetops yesterday, in which the pilot, Edwin H. Middage, was burned to death and seven passenger injured, is to be investigated by E. A. Cuttrell, the Chicago zone inspector for the department of commerce. That was the statement today of Maj. Edward B. Howard, chief of the air regulations division.

The accident, which was reported here to have resulted when all three engines of the plane failed while the plane was cruising at 700 feet over the city after taking off from St. Paul airport for Minneapolis, is to be investigated in the usual routine of accident studies from which the department has been culling data upon which to base its campaign to increase the safety of commercial aviation.

Seeks Cause of Engine Failure.

The accident, coming close upon the more tragic crash of the Imperial Airways twin-engined City of Ottawa in the English channel two weeks ago with a loss of seven lives, is expected to cause the government to inquire into the feasibility of operating heavily loaded tri-motored transport planes on passenger air lines.

While officials of the aeronautics branch of the commerce department decline to discuss the details of their accident prevent studies, it is no secret that a close scrutiny has been turned upon failures of multi-motored transport planes during the last two months. The study of the performance of this type of passenger carrying plane is believed to have started soon after the fatal crash of a Ford tri-motored sight seeing transport of the Colonial Airways at Newark, N. J., airport in which 14 lives were lost.

The Newark disaster was the most serious yet to occur in the operation of multimotored aircraft in the United States, but there have been numerous other crashes in which many lives have been lost.

Recent Crashes Take Toll.

Among these were the recent crash of a Pan-American Airways Ford plane at Santiago, Cuba, in which seven lives were lost; the failure of a Fokker army transport while taking off from the Middletown, Pa., air base, in which seven were killed; the crash of another Fokker transport at Hadley field, N. J., two years ago, in which seven also also were lost; the crash of another Ford transport near Spokane, Wash., in which several were killed, and other similar crashes in which the casualty lists were not so high.

The Pan-American accident at Santiago was attributed at the time to a soft field; the Middletown and Hadley field accidents to engine failures, while the Newark disaster has been supposed to have been due to the same cause. The Spokane crash occurred when the pilot was caught in a fog blanket from which he was unable to extricate himself.

Why All Fail, the Question.

The majority, however, of the big transport accidents are believed to have been due to engine failure, such as that at St. Paul yesterday. Aeronautics branch officials were unable to understand the report that all three motors of the plane had quit simultaneously, dropping the big plane into a dive upon the housetops.

Such an occurrence, they believed, could have been due only to the presence of foreign substances, perhaps water, in the fuel tanks. They agreed that if this proved to be the cause of the accident, the fault lay in improper inspection and maintenance of the plane and its power plant.

They said the report, which would be forwarded here by Inspector Cuttrell as soon as he had completed his inquiry, would reveal the cause. The rules of the department, however, bar the publication of the report or its details.

Cleveland Crash Averted.

Only a resourceful pilot prevented a similar crash only a week ago at Cleveland airport, when a large transport plane loaded with passengers took off for Washington. After rising several hundred feet the left motor of the plane failed. The pilot was able to edge the plane back into the field safely. Inspection after landing showed water in the gas lines and a considerable quantity of metal filings in the tanks. The plane was a new one recently delivered by the manufacturer.

FRANKIE POPE IS FREED.

Gambling charges against Frankie Pope and the manager of his Beau Monde gambling club were dismissed yesterday in the Municipal court by Judge Donald S. McKinlay when the state entered a motion to nolle pros.

AVIATION NOTES

Washington, June 25.—[Special.]—Two new twin engined army observation planes, for which contracts were recently awarded to the Fokker Aircraft corporation are to be in reality nothing more than "flying wings," it was revealed today. The new planes are still a closely guarded secret, but it is known that they will be the most radical departure from the conventional in aircraft design yet attempted. In flight the new planes will appear as a single wing, despite the fact that they will carry three flyers and their armament load. The new ships are expected to reach a speed of 180 miles an hour.

Washington, June 25.—[Special.]—Weather conditions permitting, Capt. Ross G. Hoyt, noted army flyer, will attempt a round trip flight from Mitchel Field, L. I., to San Francisco and return, a distance of 5,300 miles, on July 2-3, in a flying time of about 36 hours, the war department announced today. The round trip cross country dash was authorized to test the performance of motors in army pursuit planes and to demonstrate as well the mobility of army aircraft over great distances.

An Associated Press dispatch from New York yesterday told of the rumored merger between the Curtiss Airplane and Motor Company, Inc., and the Wright Aeronautical corporation, two of the largest concerns in the industry. Following the publication of the rumor, Richard F. Hoyt, chairman of the Wright company, admitted that such a merger was possible, but would not admit that actual negotiations were pending.

SAN JUAN, P. R., June 25.—(AP)—The twin motored amphibion, Washington, which is surveying a route for an Atlantic coast airline from New York to Buenos Aires, took off today for visits to Guadeloupe, Martinique and Trinidad. The plane will stop in these islands before touching South America.

DEATH OF 7 IN PLANE TRACED TO DEFECTS IN BOLTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—The disaster of the air liner City of Ottawa, which recently caused a loss of seven lives, was due to a fracture of a bolt holding No. 4 connecting rod of the engine. This fact was brought out today at the official inquiry of the air ministry.

First one bolt went, through fatigue of the metal, and this placed undue strain on the others, which also went, causing the connecting rod to go adrift, punching holes in the crank case and putting one of the two engines out of action.

It was testified that the pilot made a perfect landing, and that the passengers all had time to don lifebelts. The loss of life was inexplicable, as the roof was ripped and there was plenty of room for all to get out. No reason was assigned to the fracture of the bolt, and the court ordered a microscopic examination made.

Assollant will have an escort of three airplanes, piloted by military aviators, on their honeymoon flight from Havre. Former comrades of Assolant from the 34th Aviation regiment will man them.

Malmgren, Who Died with Nobile, Honored by Italy

ROME, June 25.—(AP)—The Italian government has conferred a gold medal for civic valor posthumously on Dr. Finn Malmgren, Swedish scientist with the Nobile expedition, and has bestowed a pension of about $520 annually on his mother. Dr. Malmgren was a member of the party of three which tried to reach land and bring help to their comrades stranded on an ice floe off Foyn Island. Malmgren died and his two companions, Capt. Zappi and Mariano, eventually were picked up by the Russian ice breaker Krassin.

MEXICAN CHURCH OUT OF POLITICS, ARCHBISHOP SAYS

Pope's Envoy Asks Full Obedience to Laws.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, June 25.—Magr. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan, in a pastoral letter today, throws light on the reasons which led the Roman Catholic church to come to an agreement with the Mexican government, and in so doing waived the demands which the church has steadily made since the opening of the Catholic trouble five years ago.

Magr. Ruiz says it was thought better by Pope Pius XI. himself and Magr. Pascual Diaz, new archbishop of Mexico, to reopen the church, thus avoiding greater evils. This was made possible when the government of President Emilio Portes Gil recognized the judicial personality of the church and the rights pertaining thereto, granting at the same time the liberty for a full exercise of functions and rights of the church.

Asks Obedience to Law.

Magr. Ruiz asks that Catholics obey the laws of the land, avoid mixing in politics, and aid by all means in their power the permanent satisfactory solution of the religious question. The fact that the pope has given his approval to the agreement with the Mexican government, he says, settles the matter once and for all for all Catholic prelates, priests, and people. The government has shown proof of its sincere good will in all the steps leading to the agreement which was entered into with the church, he added.

"This in itself is a harbinger of a coming era of conciliation leading to a true peace," he said.

Magr. Ruiz y Flores quotes President Portes Gil as saying:

"The Mexican laws will not be applied in a spirit of passion or sectarianism, but in a manner in every way compatible to the liberty and existence of the church. Now it remains for the prelates, priests, and faithful to take advantage of the president's declaration that every Mexican citizen has by law and constitution the right to petition congress for reforms deemed necessary."

For the first time in the history of the relations between the Mexican government and the Catholic church a representative of the pope has advised Mexican Catholics to obey Mexican laws and work with the government in an effort to find the solution of the troubles of the nation and rehabilitation of the Catholic church in Mexico.

Called Most Hopeful Sign.

Magr. Ruiz' letter to the Mexican people, therefore, is the most hopeful sign of the coming reconstruction of Mexico, which has yet appeared, and is taken as such by Mexicans and foreigners here alike. It shows, they state, that a representative of the pope has accepted the law and constitution of Mexico and agreed to advise Catholics to do the same in the interest of harmony and good will between the state and the church, through which alone the two bodies might march side by side, helping in the work of Mexican reconstruction and repairing the evils of almost two decades of revolutionary activities.

The letter of Magr. Ruiz also shows that the ultra-radicals, who shaped the political policies of Mexico for ten years, have been ignored in the agreement with Rome, and furthermore, seem likely to be completely ignored in the future.

FARMER IN JAIL FOR HOLDING BOY OVER A BONFIRE

Rochester, N. Y., June 25.—(AP)—Accused of torturing a 14 year old boy by holding him over a bonfire until his right leg and hip were seriously burned, Frank Cromwell, 56 year old farmer, was in jail today awaiting a hearing on an assault charge. He was arrested yesterday and held without bail.

The boy, George Foley, has been under the continuous care of a physician since he limped home last Thursday afternoon and told his mother that he had been tortured by the farmer.

Climax to Swimming Party.

According to his story, later repeated to an assistant district attorney by his mother, he had been swimming in company with several companions. They had lighted a fire to warm themselves. Cromwell appeared and demanded to know who had started the fire on his land.

All of the boys denied having started it, according to George. The farmer became angered, and, grabbing George, held him in the flames, the latter avers.

Worries About Cattle.

IDENTIFY BODY FOUND IN RIVER.

The body of a man taken from the Chicago river at North Franklin street last Thursday was identified yesterday as that of Edward Donahue, 30 years old, who disappeared last Christmas eve from his home at 706 North State street. Donahue had been a watchman for the Dilks Construction company.

Where It's Cool

Come to Canada

IT is cool and invigorating in Canada. Not cold in summer but bracing.

The famous old Province of Quebec—where you are heading—is swept its entire length by the broad St. Lawrence River, with waters blue as the Bay of Naples. Down this river ply our palatial ships.

You will scarcely believe you are but a short journey from your own stifling city. When the thermometer rises, rise too and be off—Canada is calling you!

IMPORTANT—Our ships sail from the head of the Great Lakes down the St. Lawrence River, through the Saguenay Canyon, nearly 2000 miles of beauty and grandeur. The river varies from roaring rapids to a vast expanse of blue water 18 miles wide. Steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or at Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

MAYWOOD DROPS "GAS STATION" AUTO TRAP CASE

Officials Deny Squeezing Money from Motorists.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

The village of Maywood, as personated by De Witt Cleland, village attorney and also an assistant attorney general, decided last night that it would not prosecute Irvin Berkmann, manufacturer, with offices at 625 Jackson boulevard, for "driving through a filling station."

In announcing that there would be no prosecution, Mr. Cleland complained that Maywood's way of handling traffic has been slandered by the publication of the facts in Mr. Berkmann's case.

"Maywood is not trying to make money out of motorists," he said.

Tries to Explain Case.

"Then in what way do you justify the 'invisible' no left turn signs and constant arrests of persons who do make left turns at Fifth avenue and Washington boulevard?" he was asked.

"We have a very large traffic there," was the reply.

"Do your officers have to arrest every driver who makes a left hand turn, especially if the driver has not seen the sign and has acted inadvertently?"

The dismissal of the Berkmann case was coincidental with another case which indicates that the Maywood speed cops pinch at sight and find out who the victim is afterwards. The second incident occurred Monday night.

Tells of His Case.

"With Paul McNett of the Burnham bond house and our wives," Robert Cantwell Jr. of River Forest said, "I turned east at Washington boulevard Monday night and proceeded toward the picture house in Maywood. I was overhauled in traffic by a Maywood officer who commanded us to go back to the police station. When we got there I asked the sergeant what I was charged with."

"'Turning to the left and the bond will be $50,' the officer said.

"'Fifty dollars?' I responded. 'I won't give it.'

"'You will or you'll all be locked up,' he declared in a businesslike tone.

"'I will not cough up $50 and I won't go to jail.' I told him.

"Well, the upshot was that he finally came down to $6 for bail and after he learned our indentity he cut it to nothing. I got in touch with Mr. Cleland and he said there would be no prosecution."

Mr. Cleland solemnly averred that Maywood does not operate a speed trap or use trickery to extort small sums from passing traffic.

"Our judge is Frank Lee, who ran on a platform that he would give to the village all costs assessed in his court above $250 a month, which he keeps. Doesn't that show that our judge wouldn't be interested in 'socking' the motorists?"

Investigation of "Gen." Lee's court brought to light the fact that the waiting officers and court hangers-on begin chanting, "You're in the army now," whenever a new victim is dragged in from the no left hand turn corner. The reason for this is that Judge Lee is an ex-army officer and conducts proceedings said to resemble a summary court or a court-martial more than a civilian court of justice.

Recently the magistrate is reported as imposing extra fines for "insubordination" when defendants deny or explain their errors. In one case he reprimanded an attorney for disputing the statement of a cop.

"You're guilty of insubordination," he is reported to have snapped. "They don't allow a thing like that to pass in the army and you're not going to get away with it here."

Called "a Bad Spot."

"Maywood is really a bad spot," Joseph H. Braun, general counsel for the Chicago Motor club, said. "We are not interested in the experiences of Mr. Berkmann or Mr. Cantwell excepting as they indicate that there must be many persons arrested there, hauled to the police station, tried at night and fined, whose cases never come to public notice. Apparently if the defendants have standing and are willing to make a fight, the village czars drop matters. How about the meek and subordinate? They just get 'socked.'

"There are too many arrests in Maywood to be justified by the assertion that all those who drive through are morons and nitwits. When arrests are occuring in this volume there is something the matter with the way traffic is being handled by the village authorities. Either the four cops and judge are wrong or 10,000 or 12,000 motorists a day are wrong. Draw your conclusions."

Jackson, Miss., June 25.—(AP)—Unreserved disapproval of the entertainment at White House of the wife of Oscar De Priest, Negro representative from Illinois, today was expressed by the Mississippi state senate in a resolution adopted unanimously.

The senate brushed aside two substitutes seeking to soften the language of the resolution, which was declared adopted by a unanimous vote after Senator H. W. Bradshaw of Rankin county, a Baptist minister, who voted against it in the first roll call had changed his vote.

"I changed my vote in order to make adoption of the resolution unanimous," said the minister. "I am opposed, however, to the matter being considered by us and being brought before us."

Senator J. C. Zeller of Yazoo City apologized for being born in Illinois, explaining that he would have been born in Louisiana if his father, a physician, had not taken his family to Illinois when he was called to fight an epidemic there.

HINT UNION O. K. ON TWO MACHINE KNITTING SYSTEM

Copy of New Agreement Reaches Kenosha.

Kenosha, Wis., June 25.—[Special.]—Advance reports that the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers was about to recognize the principle of the two machine system and authorize its gradual installation in union manufacturing plants, today were confirmed with the receipt here of a copy of the agreement presented Monday to the special convention of the union knitters in session in Philadelphia.

Emil Rieve, president of the hosiery workers' union, declared the two machine system is in the minority in the industry and that "it is a type which has become more or less obsolete in our industry."

Refers to Machine Cost.

Referring to the Allen A strike, Rieve said the union always has denied that the real issue in the fight was the two machine system.

"The real issue was the right to organize and bargain collectively," he said. "The Allen A company today is finding its operating cost on the two machine system higher than the operating cost of running those machines single."

When these statements were known to William Mewse, secretary and treasurer of the Allen A company, he said:

"The company—under its present manufacturing in the full fashioned department is operating more economically than under the former system; production is greater, wastes are less, and seconds are negligible."

Mewse added that seventy per cent of the machines used in the full fashioned industry at the present time are operated under the two machine system.

Vice President Quits.

Mr. Brine started as a department timekeeper at the plant 34 years ago, rising to the position of vice president.

His resignation includes a severance of his connection with the newly purchased Allen Brothers knitting mills at Hanover and Toronto, Canada, of which he was a member of the board of directors.

Svenheim, who was drunk at the time of his alleged offense, said in court yesterday that he could not remember making the threats.

Yellowstone Park!

Our great National Parks are sections of the old American wilderness preserved practically unchanged. They are as valuable, acre for acre, as the richest farm lands. They feed the spirit, the soul, the character of America.

Yellowstone, of all the National Parks, is the wildest and most universal in its appeal. There is more to see there—more different sorts of things, more natural wonders, more strange and curious things, more scope, more variety—a longer list of astonishing sights—than any half dozen of the other parks combined could offer. Daily new, always strange, ever full of change, it is Nature's wonder park. It is the most human and the most popular of all the parks.—Emerson Hough.

10,066 TO GET DIPLOMAS FROM PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Graduation Exercises to Extend Through Week.

With the conclusion this week of the scholastic year of 1928-1929, Chicago's public schools will grant diplomas in varying degrees of advancement to 10,066 pupils. This year's graduates exceed by 1,448 the number who finished a year ago, according to figures compiled at the offices of the Board of Education.

The Chicago Normal college, training school for teachers, will confer degrees on 378 candidates. Dr. Robert Morse Lovett of the University of Chicago will address the graduates on the south side campus on Friday night. Crane college, the city's other municipal institution of higher learning, will graduate 799 students from its two and four year courses in two sections, tonight and tomorrow night.

5,736 in Senior Schools.

In senior high schools 5,736 boys and girls will complete the four year academic course, with 2,905 graduating from the two year course. The five month's secretarial curriculum this year will add 169 graduates to the list, while 354 part-time students will conclude their training in prevocational schools.

A gain of nearly 800 over last year's mark will be recorded this year in junior high school students who advance to higher grades. In the elementary schools a decrease of 765 from last year is noted. This year 15,977 pupils in the lower grades will achieve promotion.

Prominent Men Speakers.

Prominent educators and professional men will address the long series of high school graduation exercises, which opened last night with Bowen's ceremonies and will continue through the week until Friday night, when the majority of the schools will climax their year's work. Dr. Albert Britt, president of Knox college, will be the speaker Friday evening at Austin. H. Wallace Caldwell, president of the board of education, is scheduled to address Crane College's grads.

Sullivan junior high school's exercises tomorrow night will be eventful in the family of William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Miss Katherine Bogan, 14, youngest child of the superintendent, will receive her junior high diploma from the hands of her father on the first anniversary of his elevation to the superintendency.

CHINA BALKS AT BRITISH NAVAL COALING STATION

Demands London Give Up Entire Base.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 25.—The Chinese-British negotiations for the retrocession of the naval base of Weihaiwei, on the northern coast of Shantung peninsula, became deadlocked today over the question of a coaling station on Liukungtao island, at the mouth of Weihaiwei harbor.

Both the British and Chinese authorities refuse to make a statement, but the local Chinese paper, Shunpao, reports that when the question was discussed between the British minister and the old Peking government, the Peking government granted the British the right to a permanent coaling station on Liukungtao Island and the agreement was initialed by Dr. Wellington Koo, who at that time was Chinese foreign minister.

The agreement, however, was not signed and the Nationalist government now refuses to concur with the Peking arrangement, declaring that allowing the British to have a naval coaling station would be tantamount to a continuance of Weihaiwei as a naval base.

The minutes of the Washington conference, when Lord Balfour announced the intention of Great Britain to return Weihaiwei, do not specify that any conditions are attached, but the British minister, Sir Miles Lampson, says Great Britain has a right to the coaling base, although willing to relinquish control of Weihaiwei harbor and surrounding territory, which the British have controlled since 1898.

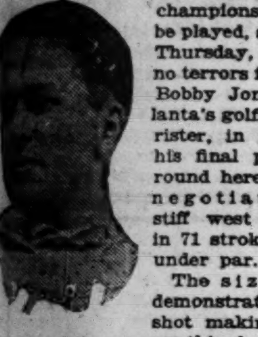
JONES BETTERS PAR IN DRILL FOR OPEN GOLF

Tours Mamaroneck with 71 Score.

Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 25.—[Special.]—Proving that the rigors of this course, where the national open golf championship will be played, starting Thursday, holds no terrors for him, Bobby Jones, Atlanta's golfing barrister, in playing his final practice round here today, negotiated the stiff west course in 71 strokes, one under par.



BOBBY JONES.

The sizzling demonstration of shot making was anythingh but reassuring to three outstanding stars who made the trip with Bobby. They were Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion; Gene Sarazen, former national title holder, and Wild Bill Mehlhorn.

Diegel Shoots 75.

Jones gave by far the neatest display of any of the illustrious foursome. Diegel with his 75 came closest, while Sarazen and Mehlhorn, experienced no end of difficulty.

This course today was teeming with excitement. Workmen were busy putting on the finishing touches for the gala opening day after tomorrow. The huge score board with its 153 names of hopeful linksmen occupies a space opposite to the press space. An air of eager expectancy pervades the place.

Mac Smith, one of the favorites, played around today and although he was playing his shots more to get acquainted with the layout than to try for a record score, managed to card a 79.

Brady Burns Up Course.

A pathetic note was added to the threesome in which Smith played. For his partners he had Henry Topping, famous amateur of yesteryear, and Mike Brady, Winged Foot professional who failed by a stroke to qualify for the open. Brady was red hot today and negotiated his home layout in the remarkable total of 68 strokes, equaling the course record.

Another foursome which collected quite a gallery and rewarded it with a better than fair demonstration of golf consisted of Walter Hagen, British open champion, Horton Smith and the two star amateurs Harrison Johnson of Minnekahda and George Von Elm.

Fields, Cooper Rest Knuckles; BoxTomorrow

Jackie Fields, Chicago ring star, and Farmer Joe Cooper, Illinois welterweight, windup principals in Promoter Jack Art's boxing show at the Mills stadium tomorrow night, both completed strenuous training yesterday. Each came through the final workouts without injury.

Fields has been made an 8 to 5 favorite. He generally is considered too clever and smart for Cooper, who is not a finished boxer. The winner will meet Joe Dundee for the world's welterweight title in Detroit next month. Floyd Fitzsimmons has signed both. Fields is recognized as champion by the National Boxing association and Dundee by states not affiliated with the organization.

Spug Myers of Idaho and Jackie Moore of Chicago, principals in the ten round semi-windup, also completed training without mishap.

WOMEN START PLAY TODAY IN ILLINOIS TENNIS

Women tennis stars from four states, comprising a record entry of fifty, go into action at the River Forest Tennis club today in quest of the title of Illinois state champion.

In yesterday's play for the men's and junior's singles title the seeded players came through victorious. The men's doubles teams will clash in first round matches today, and by tomorrow, when the starting field of 148 players will be cut in half, fans will see the beginning of championship competition.

Earl Mastro Wins Decision Over LaBarba in 10 Rounds

I. A. C. WILL ENTER SPEEDY ATHLETES IN N. A. A. U. MEET

Team Starts for Denver Monday Night.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

When the National A. A. U. track and field championships are held in the Denver university stadium on July 3, 4, and 5 the Illinois A. C. of Chicago will be represented by one of the best balanced teams which ever entered these games.

JOHNNY BEHR.

Coach Johnny Behr will be in charge of a squad of nineteen athletes which will entrain for Denver Monday night. Included in the aggregation are two record holders, Sabin Carr of Yale, who holds the world's mark in the pole vault at 14 feet 1 inch, and Harold Osborn, world's record holder in the running high jump at 6 feet 8¼ inches.

Conger to Run Mile.

Ray Conger, former Iowa State middle distance runner, will carry the tricolor in the mile. In the national championships held last year in the Harvard stadium Conger won the 1,500 meter run in 3:55. He will be hard to beat over his favorite distance. In addition to Conger Coach Behr will send Harry Grubb, Lombard college athlete, to the mark in the same event.

Melvin Shimek, formerly of Marquette, and John Zola, former Wisconsin distance runner, will be the club's aces in the six mile run. Dave Abbott of Illinois, winner of the two mile run in the western conference and National Collegiate A. A. meet, will run under I. A. C. colors in the two mile steeplechase.

Two other athletes developed by Coach Harry Gill of Illinois will compete for the Chicago club. Hal White, who has won many points for his school during his three years of competition, will be a starter in the half mile, while B. Orlovich will face the starter in the quarter mile.

H. Oestriech of Gustavus Adolphus college of Minnesota will be another starter in the quarter mile. He is capable of running a quarter mile in forty-eight seconds.

I. A. C. Is Favorite.

Herbert Schwarze, formerly of the University of Wisconsin, will be the club's ace in the shot put. Schwarze has hurled the lead ball close to 52 feet on several occasions. Don Gwinn of Pittsburgh, winner of the hammer throw in the National Collegiate A. A. championships on Stagg field, will carry the colors of the local club in this event. Morgan Taylor, a former Olympic winner, and his brother, Warner, will compete in the 440 yard three foot hurdles.

W. Portmess, the Northwestern athlete, will represent the I. A. C. in the running broad jump, while H. Frieda, formerly of Chicago, will compete in the javelin throw and decathlon. Jim Shanahan, who has been a consistent point winner for his club for a number of years, has been entered in the 56 pound weight for distance and the hammer throw. E. Hawley will represent the club in the walk.

Indications are the battle for team honors will rest between the I. A. C., New York A. C., Olympic club and the Los Angeles A. C. The Illinois A. C., however, will go into the games a favorite because of the known ability of its entrants.

Lane Meets Englewood for City Championship Today

Lane Tech, north section titleholder, and Englewood, runnerup in the south division, will meet for the City league championship at 3 p. m. today on Wrigley field. It will be the Techs' ninth appearance within the last ten years in a championship game.

RARIN' TO BOUND

Max, Paulino Box Tomorrow for Selves, Managers and Milk

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The competition for the heavyweight championship of the world, which Gene Tunney abandoned with gestures of elegant hauteur, will reach the semi-final round Thursday evening with two foreign athletes, Maxie Schmeling, the German, and Paulino Uzcudun, the Spaniard, fighting for the benefit of themselves, their numerous groups of managers, and the fund to buy milk for the poor children of New York.

The advance sale to date has been announced as about $400,000 and the Madison Square Garden corporation, which is kindly lending the prize fighters to charity, and conducting the spectacle at the Yankee Stadium, anticipates a gross business of about $700,000. The tournament has now narrowed down to Schmeling and Uzcudun with Jack Sharkey of Boston held in reserve to meet the winner, either in New York late in the summer season, or in Miami, Fla., next winter.

Dempsey May Be Finalist.

If Jack Dempsey comes to the conclusion that a purse of $300,000 will fit in with his financial plans, he also will be declared into the tournament, as another finalist. This would give him a second chance to regain the business asset which he relinquished in 1926 with gestures which were interpreted as indicating senile decay.

It is generally supposed that the prize fight of Thursday evening will be the semi-final of the competition, but there is no way of telling positively just what round of the elimination is proceeding at any given time, as the entire business is a house monopoly of the Madison Square Garden corporation. The corporation hires the prize fighters on retainers and pairs them and cross pairs them, according to the enthusiasm of the customers. All heavyweights of any charm whatever may be regarded as fellow-employes of the corporation, being hired as rapidly as they develop.

They receive a modest retainer and the major incentive is a commission on the business which they attract to the turnstiles. The heavyweight championship is not, as some persons believe, a public honor, but a sort of house-award for the employe who does most to stimulate the business of the firm.

Of course, if Dempsey should be declared in as an added finalist later on, the tournament might confuse any one who is accustomed to following the orderly progress of tennis and golf tournaments. But heavyweight tournaments are quite unconventional and the late Mr. Rickard often reinstated employés who had been publicly eliminated, on the sound theory that the customers would derive further pleasure from seeing the same thing done an indefinite number of times. Jack Delaney made a fine, steady income being eliminated periodically from the quarter-finals of Mr. Rickard's tournament to find an opponent for Mr. Tunney.

Schmeling was selected as a semi-finalist because he knocked out Johnny Risko in the Garden last winter. The German prize fighter displayed great dash and style in this performance but Risko was declining rapidly at the time. Mr. Leo P. Flynn, one of the few managers owning no share of Maxie, sounded a warning when he said:

"I would like to see what he does when somebody hits him on the whiskers."

Max Is Difficult Copy.

There may have been something in what Mr. Flynn said. Risko did not hit Maxie on the whiskers or anywhere else, and probably would not have disturbed him much if he had done so. Johnny never had been a very stout hitter and he was a little less than half of that on this occasion.

It has been rather hard to make news about Schmeling's physical training because he is a young, slim athlete who needs only to keep in shape. Therefore, he has boxed intermittently and addressed himself to golf, yachting and other sports of a polite nature between times.

This has irritated old Mr. Muldoon, of the prize fight commission, who insists that a prize fighter in training should train whether he needs it or not.

Mr. Muldoon's irritation was just a passing squall, though he scolded Schmeling for indulging in refined pursuits, including the perusal of non-picture books, hitherto regarded as the

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 25.—The White Sox conducted themselves in orderly fashion for six rounds this afternoon. Then a brainstorm struck them in the seventh. They fumbled, they tossed the ball blindly, young Ed Walsh suddenly became a terrible pitcher, and Rescuer Tommy Thomas, the invalid, was even worse. Before the Tigers consented to end the inning eleven of them had worn a path over the plate, and this cluster of eleven, along with a few other things, led to a 14 to 2 trimming for the futile Chicagoans.

Until the terrifying seventh came along it looked as if Vic Sorrell might not reach number 7 in his winning streak. The Sox, up to this point, had him 2 to 1. Then out of a clear sky in the seventh came four hits and an error off Walsh with only one out. Switching to Thomas brought on the nightmare. Cissell made two boots in succession behind him. Kamm made a bad peg to the plate. Shires fumbled a grounder for the fifth blunder of the laughable chapter, and the Tigers continued to hit until satisfied.

Fothergill Hits Homer.

Due to the robust manner in which Fothergill swings his bat, the Sox were put in arrears at the start, and remained in that predicament for a large portion of the show. Fothergill clouted the ball over the left field barrier in the first inning. Walsh tried to sneak over his first pitch, and the big fellow happened to be awake.

The lone opportunity put before the Sox in the first three cantos was a single and steal by Reynolds in the first round. It availed nothing. The fourth brought an excellent chance for the Chicagoans, but they gummed it up. Reynolds survived on an error, and Shires singled. Reynolds was called out trying to steal third. Then Watwood hit a ball in front of the plate and sat down rubbing his right hand. He claimed the ball had hit his paw and not the bat. Meanwhile Shea picked up the ball and pegged it to Schuble, forcing Shires at second, and Schuble relayed it to first to retire Watwood. Harry Geisel refused to consider Watwood's argument.

Sox Score Pair.

Three hits were concentrated into the Sox sixth and they scored their only pair of runs, giving them a temporary lead. Berg started the inning with a single and Walsh fanned.

A classy running catch by Johnson robbed Cissell of a safe clout. Reynolds then hit the center field fence for two bases and Berg scored when Shea dropped the return throw at the plate. Shires then nicked the score board for a double and Reynolds counted, but the rally subsided with Watwood grounding out.

The bombardment of Walsh in the seventh opened with a single by Alexander. Shea popped out, Schuble tripled and Alex scored. Kerr fumbled Sorrell's hopper and Schuble tallied. Johnson sent Sorrell home with a single. Fothergill tripled and Johnson tallied, whereupon Thomas was summoned to determine whether he had recovered from his injured side. As soon as Thomas started to work the Sox defense crumbled and four hits and a pass added to the hilarity. By way of keeping the Sox interested the Tigers hung up two more runs in the eighth off Blankenship. The contributing factors in this attack were Heilman's homer and a double by McManus.

COLLEGE AMATEURISM.

DEAR HARVE: Colleges still are, or should be, institutions of learning primarily. Sports are a side issue. A boy should choose his school by the course of study he wishes to follow, not for the athletic course he wishes to follow. Why should a boy wanting engineering go to a college with no engineering course, and so forth?

The Western conference has certain rules of eligibility. The fact that a coach or alumni do not approve the rules does not excuse them. A school should obey these rules or leave the conference. Otherwise it is a CHEAT, and "cheats" are not good sports.

I entered college [a long time ago] with just a small sum of money. I waited table and all the other things that can be done. It is perfectly possible for a boy to do it today. I wasn't "good" enough to have anyone bidding for my services so I went where I could get by the cheapest and where there was a course of study I wished to pursue.

If an alumnus wishes to help a local boy go to college FOR AN EDUCATION, there certainly can be no criticism. If he donates to a fund to support athletes whom he never saw for no other reason than because they have athletic ability, that again is poor sportsmanship. Frank D.

Salesmanship.

A chap called up and wanted to sell our friend some bonds. Our friend explained he had no cash because of his flair for improving the breed of thoroughbreds, and that although he had no bonds he didn't like 'em anyway. "But," continued the salesman with convincing persuasiveness, "these bonds were brought out at 96 two years ago and NOW they're 91." "Fine," our friend replied, "and do you guarantee the same retrogression for the next two years?" And the salesman hung up the receiver.

Explaining the Razz.

Dear Wake: I was moved to attend a Cub game through a personal friend who everlastingly praised and raved about Hack Wilson and Rogers Hornsby. Imagine my surprise when at their first time at bat, he started that booing business which always gets under my skin. "So that's the way you treat your heroes," I remarked. "Yes," said my friend, "that's how the fans work them. Hack is at his best when we give him the razz. Now watch him sock it." And Hack did. Can you beat it? Charles J. Tessar.

CUBS TO LEAVE TONIGHT; PLAY CARDS 5 TIMES

Pitchers Appreciate Two Day Rest.

Our Cubs tonight will set sail for tropical St. Louis, where for five days they will fight off the danger of being punished for the merciless way they treated the Cardinals here a week ago. You will recall that after losing the opener, 13 to 3, to old Clarence Mitchell, they bounced back and whipped the Cards for four straight.

The boys rested yesterday and today also is a day of relaxation, a most welcome two day respite for Mr. McCarthy's shattered pitching staff. The Cards likewise will have had the same two days off, but it is hard to imagine their needing it as badly as did the Cubs.

When the extended series opens at Sportman's field at 4 o'clock [Chicago time] tomorrow, they will be in far different shape than they were for the rather disappointing Pirate series which closed the long home stay. Bush, Malone, Nehf and Root should be ready for maximum service in the first four games and either Bush or Malone probably will draw two games in the set.

FT. SHERIDAN POLO TEAM BEATS ONWENTSIA, 14-8

Led by Lieuts. Smith and Reed, the Fort Sheridan four yesterday opened competition in the current Chicago ten goal handicap polo tournament by scoring a decisive 14 to 8 triumph over a weak Onwentsia team. Barney Balding and Ken Fitzpatrick, ordinarily members of the Onwentsia personnel, have switched allegiance for the time being, and are now playing with the Rovers, a group of nomads, who today tackle North Shore in the second match of the meet at Lake Forest.

BRUGNON WHIPS YOUTHFUL STAR IN FOUR SETS

U. S. Veteran Falls Before Austin.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WIMBLEDON, June 25.—Two of America's brightest contenders, Francis Hunter and John Van Ryn, faded out of the Wimbledon tennis tournament this afternoon.

JACQUES BRUGNON.

Under the spell of Wimbledon's famed center court, Bunny Austin, upon whom Great Britain has pinned its hopes for retrieving some of its former tennis glory, gave Hunter one of the most decisive lacings in his long career. Austin won, 6-3, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. As the score indicates, Hunter never had a chance.

Jacques Brugnon, who always had strokes but lacked temperament to put himself on an exact level with the other three French musketeers, Lacoste, Cochet, and Borotra, today found himself as he has never done before, and though the youthful Van Ryn countered with a brilliant repertoire of strokes, Brugnon's dazzling all around game enabled him to triumph, 1-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Other Americans Advance.

These two matches easily dominated in interest the day's play, which saw five other Americans, Tilden, George Lott, John Hennessey, Wilmer Allison, and Wilbur Coen, racing through an easy second round of victories, while their women compatriots, with the exception of Edith Cross, were doing the same in their respective matches.

F. T. HUNTER.

Miss Cross, who for some reason was unable to attain the form in Europe which made her rank No. 3 in the United States, was defeated by an unknown English girl, Miss Clarke, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5.

It will not be a stockingless Wimbledon this year, and the English proprieties come out on top again as usual. Though there was much speculation this morning whether Helen Wills would dare to show bare legs to the Victorian gaze of the Wimbledon multitude, the question was settled when Helen appeared in No. 1 court early this afternoon attired in white stockings.

Miss Wills Wins Easily.

Her fellow Californian, Helen Jacobs, who prefers to play sans hose, followed suit, as did all the others, including Billy Tapscott, South African star, who introduced the idea to England last year.

Helen Wills lost no time in running through Miss Tomlin, 6—0, 6—0, requiring 19 minutes to do it and failing to get enough exercise to induce her to take off her wool sweater.

Helen Jacobs also finished in record time, beating Mrs. Neave, second ranking South African, 6—0, 6—3, as did Miss Betty Ryan, who defeated Miss Anderson, Great Britain, 6—1, 6—1, and Marjorie Morrill, who triumphed over Miss Munro, also British, 6—0, 6—1.

Mrs. Mallory had a more difficult time, but finally downed Miss Desmidt of South Africa, 6—3, 3—6, 7—5.

George Lott, one of the eight seeded players, was given the honor of opening the day's play in the big center court, but got little opportunity to show his wares against De Borman, Belgian champion. Lott won, 6-1, 6-1, 6-2, before the spectators had hardly time to settle in their seats.

Tilden Toys with Campbell.

In the side court Tilden toyed with a middle aged gentleman named C. H. Campbell, winning, 6-1, 6-2, 6-0. His next round's opponent is Wilbur Coen, who came through nicely today, defeating C. J. Robbins, South African Davis cup star, 6-1, 6-1, 7-9, 6-1.

Hennessey meandered through a victory over Worthington of England, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

Cochet beat K. C. Gandardower, 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, and Borotra defeated W. A. R. Collins, 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

Gov. Kohler Signs Bill to Curb Badger Dog Tracks

Madison, Wis., June 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Walter J. Kohler today announced that he had signed the Davies bill expected to curb dog racing in the state by prohibiting the contribution and refund system that has been used at these tracks. The bill provides that buildings and places where such gambling operations are conducted may be padlocked by court action and imposes on the attorney general the duty of prosecuting such actions.

ATHLETICS TRIM RED SOX TWICE; INCREASE LEAD

Triumph, 7-1 and 8-2, as Yanks Loaf.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 25.—(AP)—The pennant bound Athletics stretched their lead over the idle Yankees to ten full games today by taking a double header from the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 1, and 8 to 2. Bob Grove held Boston to six scattered hits to hang up his twelfth victory of the season in the opener, while Connie Mack's wrecking crew was slamming Danny MacFayden and Edgar Carroll for thirteen safeties. Bill Shores, apprentice right hander from Texas, pitched his first full game of the season in the nightcap, allowing just eight hits, as his mates got eighteen.

exclusive prerogative of Mr. Tunney. He scolded Paulino for riding in an aeroplane, likewise a privilege of the retired champion. At one word from Mr. Muldoon, Schmeling continued to indulge in refined pursuits and Paulino chartered a ship to fly him down from his training camp at Hoosick Falls, commonly known as Whoosit Falls.

Paulino was eliminated several times during the last two years of Mr. Rickard's life, but he is a man of much optimism and perseverance. Therefore, when Schmeling developed a strong customer appeal, Paulino was the only staff heavyweight who could be assigned to the task of hitting Maxie on the whiskers. Thomas Heeney had been seriously cut up by Tunney and the languid performance that Sharkey put forth in the match with William Stribling, the dry tank barracuda, was still too fresh a wound on the public memory to permit of his selection.

The Boy's Talents.

Schmeling has two principal knacks or talents. He hits well with his right hand and is very good at blocking left hooks with the right arm. Paulino's fighting stance strongly resembles that of a beleagured armadillo. He twines his arms about his head and can be hit in a vulnerable spot only when he believes his opponent has moved off. Then he lashes out quickly with a left hook and the scientific theory is that Schmeling will pretend to go away, draw the left hook, block it, and hit him on the chin with his right.

MURRAY WINS LAWYERS' GOLF AT MIDLOTHIAN

Charles F. Murray of Evanston won the anual Chicago Patent Lawyers' championship yesterday at Midlothian with a score of 157. Going out in 80, the Evanston golfer, although he took a 6 on the tenth hole, cut three strokes off his morning round for a 77.

F. M. Warden, president of the home club, came second, shooting 80—85—165, despite a couple of three putt greens. T. H. Sheridan of Exmoor had the lowest 36 hole net score with 70—69—139, one stroke ahead of C. A. Soans. J. G. Roberts of New York turned in the best card among the visitors with 84—86—170.

BARONS WIN AGAIN.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Newton E. Tarble of Ridgemoor, known to his friends as "Major Bluepoint," picked the opening day of Bob o' Links' eighth annual Hullabaloo yesterday to shoot the golf game of his life. The lowest score of the five on his handicap card at Ridgemoor is 90, yet he played Bob o' Links 6,800 yard 18 holes in 40—46—86.

With a handicap of 17, due to his unusual game in the 90s Tarble won low net for the first 18 holes with a score of 69. He started in the way most golfers dream about for he was only two over a stiff par on the first eight holes, but a trap cost him two shots on the ninth.

Coming home he cooled off a little, yet went more than one over par on only two holes. An approach over the green on the 13th after he had been dropping most of them close enough for one putt was one, while the other, the 17th, was more spectacular.

Kills Flying Bird.

H. A. Moore of the home club took second low net with 90—19—71, a net of one under par which means both Tarble and Moore will have their handicaps cut for the final 18 hole stake race today. Four tied with net scores of par for third—R. S. Morris, 97—25—72, and R. L. Williams, 98—26—72, both of Bob o' Link; W. J. Burghart of Calumet 79—7—72, and Walter Gregory, of Olympia Fields 92—20—72.

Sixty-four foursomes teed off in the annual two day party. Two hundred and fifty-six golfers who played their tournament round and then played an extra nine sat around bridge tables or putted on the practice green

Aged T. S. Jordan Takes Secondary Feature.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Chicago, hero of many turf crowds a few years back, became the hero of some 7,000 race goers at Washington Park yesterday when he ran like the Chicago of old and tied the track record as he won the Birchcliffe handicap.

"Here comes Chicago."

It was a famous shout just two short seasons ago. But turf crowds are quick to forget their idols and when the brown son of Granite started his drive at the head of the stretch in the Birchcliffe hardly a cheer went up for him.

Catches Jack Higgins.

The favorite players were lending their moral support but they were not doing any loud yelling. The cheers were for Jack Higgins, sent to the front soon after the start by Jockey Tolton, and which was being beaten by Chicago in the hard stretch duel.

After Jack Higgins had made the pace throughout Chicago pulled up on even terms with him a sixteenth of a mile from the line of finish. Chicago was as game as ever. He galloped on to the front and was leading by better than half a length as the race ended.

In the betting Chicago was the favorite. He had not been running in this kind of company for some time and the word got out that he was going to run a good race. He did that and a little bit more. He ran the mile and a furlong in 1:51, which tied the track record held by Mrs. John D. Hertz's Fair Wind. He had to have all his old courage to do it, as he was well back in the early stages, while Jack Higgins and Longridge were threatening to make a runaway of the struggle.

Frances Milward Threatens.

When Longridge started to quit, Frances Milward moved up on the inside. For just an instant she threatened to go on and give Chicago a last minute tussle, but she was soon whipped and dropped back to land in third place.

T. S. Jordan, racing in Stuyvesant Peabody's silks, staged a notable comeback in the Hinsdale purse when he won handily by a length from the fast finishing Gracious Gift, with Blessefield third.

It was the first victory the 8 year old son of Luke McLuke had scored this year, yet he was as popular as ever among the small players, and came in for a noisy reception when Jockey Chiavetta brought him back to be unsaddled.

The so-called smart money had all been wagered on Crofton, the California flyer, but Crofton didn't have a chance against old T. S. Jordan and added to his helplessness was a weak ride by Jockey Douglas, who had him in trouble throughout the early stages.

Jordan raced to the front as the barrier lifted and it was very evident the old boy was in a running mood. He tore right out into two lengths' lead and made the pace from there until the finish. Gracious Gift closed with a rush and was gaining in the last sixteenth, but hardly menaced Jordan's right to dominate all the way. Blessefield also finished fast and got third money.

Jordan Pays $11.76.

Jordan paid $11.76 in the $2 mutuels and he stepped the 6 furlongs in 1:12 3-5. He ran coupled with Flat Iron, but after Jordan showed his great burst of early speed Jockey McDermott made no effort to keep pace and finished far back with Flat Iron. The only horse he beat in the field of eight was Aleader.

Patricia Marian, the 5 year old daughter of Sir John Johnson, which runs in the silks of J. C. McGill of Denver, became a five times winner at Washington Park when she won the mile and 70 yards sixth race, beating Maxiva by a length, with Mally Jane third. She was the favorite and paid $5.88 to win as her jockey pleased.

Police to Hold Meet at Soldiers' Field Aug. 24, 25

The eighth annual field meet of the Chicago police department will be held on Soldiers' field Aug. 24 and 25. E. C. Delaporte of the Chicago High schools athletic department will be in charge of track and field events. Commissioner of Police William F. Russell has issued orders to all members of his force to start training. The event, one of the most interesting in Chicago's athletic history, probably will draw at least 80,000 to Soldiers' field on both days. All proceeds go to the Policemen's Benevolent association, which provides for families of policemen killed while on duty.

GRIMES' 145 LEADS OMAHA GOLF TRIALS

Omaha, Neb., June 25.—(AP)—The scramble for medalist honors in the twenty-ninth trans-Mississippi championship ended in a triumph for "kid" golf today, the prize falling to Nathan Grimes, Denver stripling, who stroked the hazardous 36 hole journey in 145, one less than par.

Gaining a big margin over the large and fast field with a brilliant opening round of 67 yesterday, the pint sized Denver youth loafed in with a 78 in the finale today and his total was good by a single stroke.

Another "kid" shot maker and a rank outsider in medalist reckoning, Marshall Becker of Topeka, Kas., turned in 146, shooting the soundest two rounds of the qualifying test, 72 and 74.

Hertz Entries Reach Stables at Arlington

Stablemates of Reigh Count arrived at Arlington Park yesterday for the American National Jockey club's season starting Monday afternoon. The horses owned by Mrs. John D. Hertz came from Belmont Park and have been campaigned on the Metropolitan circuit for the last month. Most of them are the product of Mrs. Hertz' Leona farm. They include Luke's Crown, Guide Right, Naylor, Ostend, Nettie Stone, Shepherdess, Protection and Vanish. Reigh Count and several horses Mrs. Hertz purchased in England are due to reach Arlington Park July 17.

Horses arrived at the Arlington track in large numbers yesterday. The Coldstream stable owned by C. B. Shaffer of Chicago came from Kentucky and included Barbara, Negodale, Mole Hill, Laundryman and Call Play, along with several speedy 3 year olds. Clyde Van Dusen, the Kentucky Derby winner, arrived at Arlington from Latonia to be prepared for the American classic. E. B. McLean's Silverdale was an arrival from Kentucky and will start in the American National handicap, the stake feature on opening day.

It became virtually certain yesterday that two of the east's leading 2 year olds, Crazy Coot, owned by Harry Payne Whitney, and Sarazen II, the property of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt, will be here for the Post and Paddock stakes, a race worth $10,000, to be run at Arlington July 6. Tannery, All Upset, High Foot and Caruso, are some of the stars that have been racing in the west they will go up against.

N. W. Church, Elgin sportsman, yesterday offered former Senator J. N. Camden $50,000 for the Illinois Oaks winner, Rose of Sharon. The bid was turned down by Mr. Camden.

Officials of the Hawthorne track yesterday announced the purchase of the Behr Stall starting gate with all of its patent rights for the United States and Canada.

Sold as Plow Horse for $70; Wins $10,000 Derby

BUDAPEST, June 25.—(AP)—Condemned and sold a few months ago by his former owner for $70 because he considered him "fit only for the plow," a 3 year old horse named Rabalo today won the Hungarian national Derby and a $10,000 prize against a field of 21 of the country's thoroughbreds.

When Rabalo's old master consigned him to the farm he was bought by a local tavern keeper who found him too short to hitch to a cart. He turned him over to a friend who after a few months' training prepared him to race again.

GIANTS BOW TO DODGERS, 12-10, FOR THIRD TIME

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Brooklyn continued its winning streak against the Giants today, defeating the Clan McGraw, 12 to 10, in ten innings, for the third successive afternoon. The Robins now have taken nine out of fourteen from the Giants this season. Brooklyn launched a terrific ninth-inning assault against Larry Benton for five runs to tie the score. The Robins carried their attack over into the tenth round against Dutch Henry, scoring the two runs to win as Johnny Morrison again saved the game for Brooklyn. Picinich's homer in the ninth and Hendrick's triple in the tenth were the high spots. Melvin Ott hit his twenty-first homer in the second. Score:

Lovers of beer

there is now a Malt-and-Hop brew better than the best of old

The best malt-and-hop brew we ever created is at your command today. It is called Atlas Special Brew.

Brewed from the finest barley malt and Bohemian hops. Sterilized by hours of boiling. Cooled in filtered air. Aged four months, as in the old days. Pasteurized after bottling.

Most of the alcohol is removed by evaporation. But the esters and aldehydes remain—the prime invigorating factors.

The zest is there, the sparkle and foam, the flavor and aroma. The digestive helps are in it, and the aids to sleep. The tonic qualities, the soothing factors, the delights are there.

Not a Makeshift

Atlas Special Brew is not a "near-beer," not an imitation. Never was a malt-and-hop brew made with more care and skill.

There was never a purer brew. Even the water we use is specially treated to match the brews of England. Each bottle is certified.

Less alcohol, of course, but that you will not miss. Were you told that this was an old reserve, you could not discover the difference.

A Night-Cap—A Tonic

Atlas Special Brew has the old soothing effects. Drink it at bedtime as an aid to sleep.

It has the diastase and peptase. Drink it at mealtime as a help to digestion. It has the esters and aldehydes—invigorators. It has the hops. Drink it as a tonic. It has all you loved of flavor and sparkle in the old-time brews.

Taste this Atlas Special Brew. It costs only $2.20 a case of 24 bottles (plus deposit), delivered to your door. Just ask your dealer or phone us. Over 8000 neighborhood stores supply it at 15c a bottle.

FOLKING, 4 TO 1, WINS DONNACONA BY SIX LENGTHS

Comstockery Finishes in Second Place.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—H. Teller Archibald's Folking won the Donnacona handicap at Aqueduct this afternoon, flying past the finish line six lengths ahead of Comstockery.

The ride of Laverne Fator on Folking in the horse's previous out, caused the jockey to be set down and he is still under suspension. There was greater interest than usual in the showing of Archibald's horse because of this, but even the most ardent admirers of the son of Negofol hardly expected him to win by six lengths at the end of the mile and an eighth of the Donnacona.

But that's what he did and as good a colt as Comstockery was taking the dust in second place. He led Chicatie by a length while Grey Coat, the favorite, brought up in fifth place.

Folking was a 4 to 1 shot in the Donnacona and won by waiting off the pace until the bend, then going up with a rush that left all the others staggering.

POWER STATION BUILDERS WILL 'OPEN' COMPANY

Stone & Webster to Offer Shares.

BY O. A. MATHER.

And now another big company has decided to change over from a privately owned to an "open" corporation. Stone & Webster, one of the large public utility engineering and financing concerns, last night announced that 400,000 of its shares will be offered publicly, while at the same time present stockholders will increase their interest by $17,500,000 by subscribing for 175,000 new shares.

The authorized capital is 1,500,000 shares and the sale of new stock will produce $57,500,000. The company has been a privately owned organization for 40 years and has developed world-wide activities in engineering, construction, financing, and operation of public utilities and industrial properties. The company started as a partnership in 1889 between Charles A. Stone and Edwin S. Webster, who are chairman and president respectively. It became a Massachusetts corporation in 1920 and now is reincorporating in Delaware.

Stone & Webster have built power stations representing about ten per cent of the installed central station capacity of the United States. Under its operation or supervision are sixty public utility properties in this country, Canada and the West Indies. The market value of its securities exceeds $500,000,000 and the properties have been appraised at $6,800,000,000.

Will Own Stock.

The company will own a majority of all of the stock of the Stone & Webster Engineering corporation, Stone & Webster and Blodget, Stone & Webster Service corporation, Stone & Webster Associates corporation, Stone & Webster Investment corporation, and Stone & Webster Realty corporation. The business, amounting to $100,000,000 annually, will remain under the present management, but the directorate will be enlarged to include W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines, Joseph P. Grace, chairman of W. R. Grace & Co., Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New York, Eliot Wadsworth, former assistant secretary of the treasury, and Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase National bank, New York.

Details of the recently announced absorption of Allied Packers by the Hygrade Food Products corporation will not be completed until late next month. This was announced yesterday in Chicago by Samuel Slotkin, president of the Hygrade company. Allied Packers bond and stock holders will receive stock of the Hygrade company according to terms already announced. The merger plan was declared operative in April.

The Hygrade corporation will take over and operate the five Allied Packers plants in Chicago, Detroit, Topeka, Kas., Buffalo and Wheeling, W. Va. Allied Packers was formed in 1919 as a merger of several packing concerns. It was reorganized in 1922 and went into receivership last December. Its total assets on Sept. 8, 1928, were $11,588,140.

Fresh Trade Evidence.

Fresh evidence of the unusually high level of trade and industrial activity this summer was given yesterday in the railroads' weekly report on the movement of commodities. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended June 15 totaled 1,069,089 cars, an increase of 14,297 over the preceding week and also a gain of 66,276 cars over a year ago.

News of the steel and oil industries was less favorable. Steel ingot production now is rated slightly below 95 per cent of mill capacity, compared with 96 per cent a week ago and 96½ per cent a fortnight ago. Some recession is customary in summer, but the industry is still abnormally active, as shown by the fact that output a year ago was only 72½ per cent of capacity. The United States Steel corporation now is around 99 per cent and independents are about 92 per cent.

Crude oil production went up again last week. Daily average gross output totaled 2,764,500 barrels, an increase of 21,250 barrels a day over the previous week, according to the American Petroleum institute. Practically all of the increase was in California.

New York Central, Pennsy Roads Order Equipment

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—The New York Central railroad has ordered 25 heavy type eight-wheel switch engines from the Lima Locomotive works for use on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie. The Pennsylvania railroad has placed orders for 4,000 steel box car bodies to cost approximately $6,400,000. The orders were distributed among the following companies: Pressed Steel Car company, McKees Rocks, Pa.; American Car and Foundry company, Berwick, Pa.; Ralston Steel Car company, Columbus, O.; Pullman Car and Manufacturing corporation, Pullman, Ill., or Michigan City, Ind., and Standard Steel Car company, Butler, Pa.

Approve Formation of Utility Voting Trust

New York, June 25.—(AP)—Directors of the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light and Power company of Baltimore have approved the formation of a voting trust for the purpose of promoting concerted action to insure continuance of the present management. Another reason for the existence of the trust, it was announced, will be avoidance of any risk of change in management through the manipulation of small minority stock interests to the injury of the unorganized and inactive majority stockholders.

Road Building Termed Boon to Prosperity

BY SCRUTATOR.

It is difficult to evaluate the changes that have been made in American life by the automobile. They are too vast. It probably is fair to estimate that 10 per cent of the national income of some ninety billion dollars goes to keep this form of transportation running.

The motor car has made work for millions of men in manufacture, distribution, financing and servicing activities. All this is well known. The labors of another army of men, those who build the roads on which run the automobiles in which practically the entire population could ride at one time, have received less attention.

Road building is one of the greatest industries in the country today. The annual amount spent for such construction is about a billion and a half dollars, and since 1921 the mileage of improved highways has increased something like 55 per cent. At the same time the traffic on the roads has grown still faster, and a publication of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York estimates that in the next fifteen years it will be necessary to spend at the rate of three billions a year to relieve the congestion.

Reconstruction Is Problem.

Twenty-five years ago there were but 150,000 miles of surfaced roads in the United States. Now the total is four times as much, but there still are three times that amount of miles designated as roads which are nothing but trails.

Even the improved roads are in most cases poor. The greater part are of gravel or waterbound macadam, unsatisfactory in unfavorable weather and expensive to maintain. Finding a financially feasible program of reconstructing these highways is one of the outstanding problems of all governing bodies.

It is the opinion of seasoned economists that much of the prosperity of late years has been due to a high level of construction activity. The road building industry now represents nearly a quarter of all building. There has been noted a tendency toward a slowing down of the rate of building houses and office structures. If the road work increases to double its present cost it may soon be found that half of the men in the construction industries are spending their efforts on the highways.

The interest manifest in road building—witness the steps taken toward spending nineteen million dollars of state taxes near Chicago—proves that there will be no slowing down of such projects. This is important, not only to the motorist but to the laborer and the skilled artisan as well.

Special Levies.

In the earlier days the roads were financed from the regular revenues, which come almost exclusively from real estate. Because of the joint pressure exerted by the motorists who wanted good driving and the real estate owners who wanted low taxes, the states and the counties built a large part of their roads with the proceeds of bond issues. This method has been declining in popularity.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has determined that in 1921 the percentage of bond issue money spent was 38.1, while in 1927 this had shrunk to 18.6. Meanwhile the money derived from special levies like gasoline and license taxes grew from 10.6 per cent to 35.2 per cent of the total. In 1914 the special taxes produced only 5 per cent of all that was expended by the federal government, states, and their subdivisions.

The beauty of this pay as you go policy is that it builds more revenues year by year. There are still many persons who would own cars they do not have now if there were better driving conditions. It is more than a guess to say that automobile sales are pretty well limited by the highways, and gasoline sales are limited by the cars and their travel radius.

HOUSE PROBLEM SEEN SOLVED IN MASS OUTPUT

Proposes Machine Made Dwellings.

BY AL CHASE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 25.—Edward A. Filene, Boston millionaire merchant, philanthropist and city planner, suggested today to visiting American and Canadian realtors that flivver homes, built by machinery in standard sizes and shapes would solve the housing problem.

Mr. Filene also predicted an increase in home ownership through wider application of the plan of corporate ownership to residential real estate. He thinks large groups of persons unable to own their own dwellings might be able, through real estate trusts, to become fractional owners in other peoples' residences including, possibly, their own.

Mass Production Necessary.

"The same problem faces the real estate business today that Henry Ford faced when he first set up business in Detroit," said Mr. Filene. "He knew people wanted to own automobiles just as people want to own their own houses but they couldn't afford to buy them at the price it cost to make them.

"Mass production cannot, of course, ever be applied to the more unique creations in the field of real estate, any more than Ford methods are used in the production of the individual custom built car or to any object in the field of artistic creation."

Mr. Filene, who is chairman of the metropolitan plan commission of Boston, also paid his respects to modern city development.

"American business is engaged in a vast crusade against waste," he said, "but it would be difficult to find a more striking illustration of planless or hit-or-miss wasteful development than the modern city.

Riddled with Waste.

"And the average block of city homes, a row of twenty or thirty separate individual buildings, each one owned by a separate individual and operated as a separate unit, is riddled with waste and duplicate effort. Each of these twenty houses has a separate heating plant tended by a separate furnace man. Think of the amount of fuel necessary to keep twenty boilers warm when one boiler would suffice."

Mark Levy, of Chicago, stated that Marshall Field & Co. are holders of a 99 year lease which calls for the greatest amount of annual rent of any lease in the United States. The rents are graduated, but by the end of the 99 years, Field will have paid for ground occupied by the main department store and annex a total of $104,200,000 or more than a million dollars annually.

Report Pennsy May Acquire Ford Railway

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 25.—Officials of the Pennsylvania railroad declined to day to comment on reports that the company is negotiating through a subsidiary, for the acquisition of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, the railroad of Henry Ford.

The negotiations will be concluded this week, it is asserted in railway circles. Stock of the D. T. & I. will be transferred to a nominee of the Pennsylvania railroad according to reports, and subsequently will be deposited in the treasury of the Pennsylvania railroad corporation, if satisfactory trems are agreed on.

The Detroit, Toledo and Ironton runs in a southeasterly direction from Detroit to Ironton, O., a distance of 343 miles. It has a number of branches also. The system serves as an initial outlet for a large part of the productions of the Ford Motor company. Substantially all of the preferred and comon stock and income bonds of the D. T. & I. were purchased in 1920 by Henry Ford.

The capitalization consists of $6,500,000 common stock, $5,900,000 in 4 per cent participating preferred stock, $4,000,000 in bonds and $600,000 in equipment trust certificates and notes.

Ford's railroad was one of those which the Van Sweringer controlled Baltimore and Ohio sought last February, when the interstate commerce commission was asked to assign the Reading, Jersey Central, Wabash, and several other eastern carriers for consolidation with the B. & O.

"They will acquire from the American Bond and Mortgage company its business in general comporation securities. The American Bond and Mortgage company will continue to specialize in real estate financing."

RAILWAYS MAKE LARGE GAINS IN MAY REVENUE

Norfolk & Western Surplus Grows.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Substantial gains over the figures for similar periods last year were shown today in the reports of railroads on the operating results for May and the first five months of 1929. Among the outstanding increases were those of the Norfolk and Western, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Maine Central, and the Chicago and North Western.

For the fifth successive month the Norfolk and Western in May had a surplus after charges that was in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 increase over 1928. The surplus in May this year was $3,682,898, compared with $2,554,111 in May last year, an increase of a little more than $1,000,000. For the five months period the surplus this year is $14,162,773, compared with $9,204,886, a gain of almost $5,000,000, or an average increase of about $1,000,000 per month.

Southern Pacific Income.

The Southern Pacific had net operating income of $4,892,741 in May, an increase of $595,351 over the month last year, while for the five months the net operating income showed an increase of $4,138,489 to a total of $21,048,788.

Net operating income of the Union Pacific for the first five months was $13,459,697, compared with $10,408,700 in the period in 1928. In May the net was $2,431,491 this year, against $2,003,082 last year.

May earnings of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé will show a good gain over a year ago, according to W. B. Storey, president. June loadings continue ahead of a year ago and Mr. Storey feels that net showing for the last half of 1929 may equal the excellent results of that period recorded in 1928. Indications are that gross and net incomes for the first six months this year may be at least $8,500,000 ahead of 1928, net operating income thus setting a new high record.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Unterrified bullish forces stepped out today and hurled more than a score of assorted stocks, including many old line favorites, to new record high price levels in the face of the tightening month-end money stringency.

While a number of recent favorites continued to slide off and a group of others merely see-sawed back and forth, gains—some of them of a really substantial character—were sufficiently in the majority in the final quotations to give the market a good, strong appearance. Transactions fell to around 2,925,100 shares, but there was enough business to go around, and brokers generally were satisfied.

Handicaps Operations.

Operations for the rise were handicapped as on yesterday by the cramped conditions of the money market. Banks withdrew another $30,000,000 out of the market channels, and for a time it appeared as though the call rate, which had renewed at 10 per cent, might be boosted a few notches higher. Sufficient new funds flowed in, however, during the early afternoon to forestall the advance.

Well informed observers expect the present money flurries to continue until after the Fourth of July holiday. Traders committed to the upside of things, however, are much encouraged over the way the selling brought on by the sudden stringency is being absorbed.

Market Trend.

Even during the forenoon today when various groups on which bull traders have been building their hopes were inclined to drift, the market had a good undertone and no serious weakness developed. Stocks, in fact, have

WHEAT MARKET REACTS; PRICES WIND UP LOWER

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

While the greater part of the news on the wheat crop of North America was of a bullish character yesterday and further deterioration was claimed in the American and Canadian northwest, the market developed a reactionary tendency due to the forecast for scattered showers in Alberta and Saskatchewan, and prices dropped 2⅛@2⅝c from the early high. The finish was at net losses of 1⅜@1½c, with July, $1.13⅝@1.13¾; September, 1.18½@1.18⅝, and December, 1.23⅛@1.23⅝.

Aggressive buying of September corn lifted that delivery to a new high on the crop, 91⅞c, while liquidation by scattered longs was on in the July. The latter closed ⅛c lower at 92½@92⅝c, with the distant futures ⅜@1⅜c higher. September being 93⅞@94c, and December, 91⅜@91½c. Oats were ¼@⅜c lower, with July, 44⅝c; September, 44⅛c, and December, 46⅝c, while rye was ⅜@1c lower, July finishing at 87⅞c; September, 91⅜c, and December, 96¼c.

Weather Market in Wheat.

Houses with southwestern and eastern connections were good sellers of wheat futures here at times, as were many local operators. The weakness at Winnipeg had considerable influence, and that market closed 2⅛@2⅝c lower, a shower toward the last being a factor. Buying on the way down was by commission houses and by shorts. Frost was reported from Calgary to Edmonton, Canada, with temperatures as low as 28, and had a little effect early. The wheat market, however, is a weather affair, and responds quickly to any change in general conditions.

Crop damage reports from the southwest were as insistent as ever, but weather there was more favorable, and it is expected that harvesting will be resumed immediately, with the forecast for generally fair and warmer. Crop comments from Europe were favorable, and buyers there showed little disposition to take cash grain, and no sales were reported at the seaboard. Liverpool closed ¼d lower to ¼d higher.

Corn Market Shows Strength.

Corn prices were slightly lower early on selling induced by favorable weather conditions over the belt, but later a good class of buying developed, with commission houses taking the December, and the market advanced sharply, reports of shipping sales of 207,000 bu with a marked decrease in country offerings to arrive having some effect. Cash interests bought July and sold September, but the spread widened out to 1⅝c at the last, and the December was within 1c of the July at the close.

Commission houses were fair sellers of September and December oats, and cash interests sold the July. A few unfavorable crop comments were received from Indiana, but had little effect. Trade in rye was only fair, with buying less aggressive than of late, and commission house selling carried prices downward.

HEAVY COTTON DELIVERIES

Heavy deliveries of cotton on July contracts caused a moderate decline in futures early yesterday, but the liquidation quickly ran its course and a strong rally followed, with the close well toward the top. Net gains here were 11@26 points, with New Orleans up 19@23 points and New York 16@23 points. There were 150,000 bales delivered at New York out of a total certified stock of 165,000 bales, while local deliveries were 2,750 bales.

Unfavorable weather reports from the south, with rains over a considerable area, were partly responsible for the rally after the early decline, as the trade fear that weevil will develop more rapidly. Prices follow:

Hogs sold steady to 10c higher yesterday, but finished dull and about in line with the general selling the previous day. Extreme top advanced 10c while the late weakness held the general average steady at $10.80.

With fresh pork meeting slow sale and several other leading centers reporting lower hog prices, larger houses balked at the show of strength, resulting in practically a deadlock at the close, with 9,000 still in the pens. According to the June 1 survey the pig crop in the United States is 8 per cent smaller than a year ago. The corn belt shows a 6 per cent decrease.

The third smallest cattle receipts of the year for Tuesday encouraged sellers to boost asking prices at the opening yesterday and top kinds were moved up a notch on first rounds. However, with the demand limited, a lull followed and inbetween classes were even considered a shade below the previous day with the bulk of sales covering the widest range of the season.

Choice 1,028 lb yearlings sold at $15.50, with 1,436 lb beeves at $15.45. Bulk sold at $13.25@15.00, against $13.75@14.90 the previous Tuesday. Butcher stock sold slowly but in line with Monday's quotations. Calves advanced 25@50c. Stockers and feeders were scarce, but met narrow demand and ruled weak to slightly lower.

Sheep Receipts Dwindle.

Again a meager supply failed to stabilize the market for lambs. Arrivals yesterday at 4,000 were smallest for any day since Tuesday, Nov. 6, barring Saturdays. Buyers held the upper hand and forced some classes down 15@25c to new low levels for the season, top natives holding steady at $14.50.

Aged sheep and yearlings sold steady. Feeder lambs were scarce and steady. Sheep receipts at Chicago this month are among the smallest for June on record. Only two June totals have been smaller since 1894.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter prices were ¼c higher and fresh eggs unchanged. Live hens advanced 1@1½c with heavyweight broilers up 1c. Receipts by freight, 3 cars. New potatoes in good demand and market higher. Little attention is being paid to old potatoes, as the season is nearing its close. Receipts of new, 39 cars; old, 8 cars; on team track, new, 170 cars; old, 48 cars.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Trend of the wheat market during the next few days is expected to be determined largely by whether the Canadian provinces receive showers, as forecasted. Numerous decidedly unfavorable crop reports have been received during the last few days, and in Alberta irreparable damage has already occurred. Some estimates suggest half a crop in parts of that province.

An analysis of fall, winter and spring precipitation and temperatures made by the department of agriculture suggests a yield of 15 to 16 bu per acre in Canada this year, compared with 22 bu last year, indicating a yield of 400,000,000 bu or 134,000,000 bu less than harvested in 1928. In the past these estimates have been surprisingly correct.

A decrease of 8 per cent in the spring pig crop this year, as estimated by the department of agriculture, was construed as somewhat bearish by corn traders, indicating that farm consumption of corn later in the season would be reduced. However, there was rather persistent commission house buying of the December, which sold at a new high on the crop. Scattered liquidation was in evidence in the July at times.

"Our preliminary reports indicate a substantial reduction in wheat prospects with too wet in the southwest and too dry in the northwest and Canada," said Allen M. Clement of Clement, Curtis & Co. "The spring wheat section must have relief soon or much higher prices are ahead."

Weather conditions in Europe of late have been much more favorable for the new grain crops, and the latter have improved. Harvesting is under way in Italy.

EGG MARKET UNSETTLED

A bearish construction on stocks of eggs in cold storage at 26 points of accumulation had a depressing effect on November refrigerators on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, and the close was ⅛c lower at 35½c. June storage packed firsts, however, were unchanged at 30⅝c. Sales were 64 cars and receipts 25,102 cases. An advance of ¼c in spot butter more than offset a bearish storage report and June finished ¼c higher at 42½c, while December was unchanged at 44c. Sales were 16 cars and receipts 25,590 tubs.

SPRING PIG CROP SMALLER

A decrease of about 8 per cent in the total spring pig crop of the country as compared with 1928 is shown by the department of agriculture's annual report. The decrease for the country is equal to about 4,300,000 head, of which 2,500,000 head are in the corn belt states. The decrease would indicate that the spring pig crop in the corn belt is the smallest since 1925. The reduction was somewhat larger than the trade anticipated.

Provisions were slightly easier early yesterday on scattered selling, but the offerings were absorbed by commission houses on resting orders, and toward the last houses with eastern connections bought October lard and caused an upturn, with the close unchanged to 5c higher. Hedging sales, and liquidation by July longs furnished the bulk of the offerings. Interest in bellies was limited, and they closed 2½@7c lower, while ribs were nominally 32½c higher. Cash trade was quiet. Liverpool spot lard and futures closed unchanged. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Cotton goods markets were quiet and steady. Gray goods, particularly print cloths, were in light demand and there was more inquiry for wide sheetings for mechanical use and for some export numbers. Prices were unchanged. Fine cotton goods were quiet with an easier tendency. Calcutta burlap markets were cabled unchanged. Spots and afloats were selling lightly here at easy prices. Buyers showed interest in tropical worsteds for the southern trade beginning November. Quieter designs and darker colors were favored in some fall silk lines. Spot raws were firmer here and in Japan and quiet.

OMAHA RECEIPTS

Omaha, Neb., June 25.—(AP)—Omaha led the nation in live stock receipts today when a total of 34,577 head of all kinds were reported. Chicago, the nearest competitor of Omaha, reported an estimated run of 29,500 head, while Kansas City had 22,000 head. Not only was Omaha the leader in point of receipts, but, additional hauling charge and shrinkage considered, the local market was well above Chicago price.

SQUEEZE GAINS OUT OF CHICAGO STOCK PRICES

Issues Hold Firm Against High Money Rate.

Chicago stock prices held their own against high money yesterday and several issues succeeded in squeezing out gains. Auburn Auto, with apparent disregard for what the rest of the market was doing, again took a spurt and landed 13½ points further up the scale.

Electric Household Utilities netted 2½ points, following announcement that the board of directors had declared an extra stock dividend of 1¼ per cent in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, both payable July 20 to shareholders of record July 5. Joseph H. Briggs, vice president of H. M. Byllesby & Co., was elected a director of the corporation to fill the position held by the late Edward F. Carry.

Boosts Dividend Rate.

Lincoln Printing common was up a fraction. An increase in the annual dividend rate on common stock from $1.40 to $1.60 a share was made when the directors declared a quarterly payment of 40 cents, compared with 35 cents formerly.

Prices in the automotive group showed little net change but were generally better. Perfect Circle was fractionally better. After the close of the market the company reported that net income for the first five months of 1929 was $404,562, compared with $253,859 in the same period of 1928. The increase amounts to about 60 per cent, according to C. N. Teetor, president, who made the earnings announcement. In the month of May net income after all charges was $102,377.

Allied Motor Industries confirmed the report of the day before that it would presently acquire American Cirrus Engines, Inc., manufacturers of airplane engines. Common and preferred stockholders of Allied Motor and class A shareholders of its subsidiary companies, Great Lakes Aircraft and Van Sicklen corporation, will be given the privilege to subscribe to one share of class A and one-quarter share of class B stock of American Cirrus for each four shares now held in Allied and associated firms. Allied Motor was off fractionally yesterday before confirmation of the acquisition.

Assures Merger.

General Spring Bumper A and B were up 2 and 2¼ respectively with the news that sufficient stock of the company had been deposited to assure the merger of that company with the Houdaille Hershey corporation. Houdaille B was better by 1⅜ points and the A stock was up a fraction.

Winton Engine closed 2⅜ higher. The company reports net income of $100,000 after all charges for the five months ended May 31. This is equal after preferred dividend requirements to $4.04 a share on the common stock.

Gains and losses were about evenly distributed in the radio group. Atlas Stores responded with a gain of 1½ to announcement of President M. L. Cohn that the annual dividend requirements of $2.50 a share had been earned in the first five months of the year. Polymet Manufacturing was up one point. Earnings of the company for May before depreciation and federal taxes were $79,098. Zenith and All American Mohawk were down 1½ and 1¼ respectievly.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money in Chicago firm at 6½@7 per cent on collateral. Commercial paper, 6@6½ per cent, 6@7 per cent over the counter. Bankers' acceptances, 5¼@5½ per cent. Chicago clearings yesterday were $106,700,000, compared with $124,900,000 a week ago, and $111,900,000 a year ago. New York clearings were $1,659,000,000.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Call money firmer; 10 per cent all day. Time loans firmer; 30 days, 8%; 60-90 days, 8%; 4-6 months, 7¾@8%. Prime commercial paper, 6 per cent. Bankers acceptances unchanged; bar silver, 52⅝c; Mexican dollars, 39⅝c.

CAPITALIZING EFFICIENCY

Due largely to manufacturing efficiency and aggressive merchandising methods, E. J. Brach & Sons has attained the position of one of the largest manufacturers of popular priced candies in the world.

The plant of this Company, covering 6 acres of floor space, is in reality a sunlight factory—a model for efficient and low cost production. The important economies effected in production, purchasing and selling together with the company's progressive and able management, have enabled Brach to make a quality candy which can be sold at popular prices.

The increased operating efficiency of the Company is reflected in the fact that both gross and net profit margins last year showed a sizable increase over the preceding year. The financial statement at the close of 1928 showed E. J. Brach & Sons in an exceptionally strong financial position. Current assets amounted to nearly 13 times current liabilities. Cash and marketable securities alone amounted to over $1,180,000 as against total liabilities of less than $190,000.

The Company's present position in the industry, its increasing volume of business, and its excellent prospects for the future, make the common stock of E. J. Brach & Sons a choice investment.

Brach has no funded debt or preferred stock outstanding. Earnings on the common stock last year equaled $3.05 per share. At present prices, this stock is selling approximately 8.5 times earnings and yields almost 8%.

ANACONDA PUTS NEW SHARES ON $7 YEARLY BASIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Directors of the Anaconda Copper Mining company today placed the company's new capital stock on a $7 annual cash dividend basis by the declaration of a regular quarterly dividend of $1.75. There are 7,572,500 capital shares now outstanding. This is the same rate that was declared in February, when the dividend was increased from the $6 annual rate. At that time only about 3,700,000 shares were outstanding.

The increase in the outstanding shares is principally due to the offering in April of two new shares to stockholders for each five held. While no official announcement has been made, it was learned on excellent authority that the new issue of 2,165,010 shares of Anaconda capital stock offered to the stockholders at $55 was 100 per cent subscribed.

Approve Increase.

Directors of the Libbey Owens Sheet Glass company have approved a plan to increase the annual dividend on the present stock to $4 from $2, to split the stock 4 for 1, and change it to no par from $25 par. It is also proposed to change the name of the company to Libbey Owens Glass company. Stockholders will meet early in July to approve the plans.

Foremost Fabrics declared an initial quarterly dividend of 50 cents, placing the stock on a $2 yearly basis. Neisner Bros. declared a stock dividend of 60 per cent on the common.

Directors of Hill, Joiner & Co. declared a dividend of $3 a share on the common. The last dividend on the common was the semi-annual payment of July 1, 1928. The dividend due Jan. 1, 1929, was omitted.

West Coast Oil company, 60 per cent owned by Associated Oil, declared a $3 extra dividend and a regular dividend of $1.50 quarterly on the preferred, which is the only capital stock. There are outstanding 10,408 shares. Lynnbrook National Bank and Trust company declared an extra dividend of $4 a share, and the regular semi-annual dividend of $3 a share. The bank increased its capital a year ago by a 200 per cent stock dividend to $250,000 and since then has declared three extras. Previous to increase of capital the rate was $12 annually. Employés also will share in the profits by a payment of six per cent of their annual salaries.

Wineries' Initial.

Anglo-National corporation declared an initial dividend of $1 semi-annually on the class A stock. Canadian Wineries, Ltd., has declared an initial dividend of 12½ cents. Union Metal Manufacturing company declared an extra dividend of 25 cents a share on the no par common. Gilmore Oil company resumed dividends with a quarterly of 30 cents a share. Sabin Robbins Paper passed its dividend, the last previous payment being 2½ per cent April 1.

The American Depositor corporation has announced the declaration of a regular distribution of 35 cents a share and an extra of 80 cents a share on corporate trust shares against the June 30, 1929, coupon, which covers the first six months of 1929.

Mandel Omission.

Directors of Mandel Bros. voted to omit the quarterly payment of 62½ cents a share on the stock due at this time. In the preceding quarter the dividend was declared out of surplus.

B. J. Altheimer, secretary, issued the following statement: "Despite the favorable showing of Mandel Bros., Inc., for the spring season of 1929, which has so far exceeded the anticipation of the management, the board of directors deemed it advisable at this time to pass the quarterly dividend. This is being done in order to build up the surplus of the company, and it is felt by the directors that the interest of the stockholders will be best served in this manner."

MONEY BOGEY RESTRICTS BOND MARKET DEMAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Demand on the bond market today was chiefly for issues with speculative possibilities due to the fact that fears over the immediate future of money rates kept support for the standard investment list at a distance. A marked decrease in sales volume from yesterday's figure took place.

Aside from the telephone favorites, the American and International convertibles which again dominated the market, the broadest inquiry appeared in Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit 6s. This New York City traction bond advanced 1⅛ points to 94, continuing its rise of Monday. Seaboard Air Line 6s and Ulster and Delaware 5s made moderate gains, while St. Paul 5s moved up fractionally to nearly 91. Florida East Coast 5s and Mississippi Central 5s changed hands a point below the previous sale.

DENIES MOTION IN TAPLIN RY. CONTROL FIGHT

Cleveland, O., June 25.—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge George P. Baer today denied the motion of the Taplin interests to dissolve an injunction preventing them from placing their own set of officers in control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad. The injunction was obtained by the Van Sweringen interests after the Taplin directors elected a new proposed slate of officers during a rump session following the annual meeting of the road's directors.

Judge Baer, however, gave the Taplin group permission to institute quo warranto proceedings to determine whether their officers were legally elected. Attorneys for the Taplins announced the proceedings would be filed soon either with the Appellate or Supreme court, at which time it will be decided whether the present Van Sweringen elected officers or the Taplin group will assume control of the Wheeling and Lake Erie.

WARNS AGAINST EXTENSION OF BRANCH BANKING

Des Moines, Ia., June 25.—Poorly managed banks must go but the unit bank system should not be supplanted by branch banking. This double warning was delivered today by Craig B. Hazelwood, president of the American Bankers' association and vice president of the First National bank, Chicago, in an address before the Iowa Bankers' association.

"The great majority of our unit banks are successful institutions and there is no reason why they will not continue their worthy and independent existence," Mr. Hazelwood said. "But the inadequately managed bank, the marginal institution, the unsoundly located, unsoundly directed and unprofitable institution must rapidly become the extreme exception.

"Apparently there is an increasing number of advocates for country-wide branch banking in the United States. I cannot bring myself to the belief that the mal-administration of a few unit bankers is sufficient reason for throwing over the banking system that contributed a large part to the prosperity of this country and substitute in its place a system under which bank policies are set up in a book of rules, without opportunity for broad judgment and business building liberality."

Extend $3,000,000 Credit to Ruhr Chemical Corp.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Dillon, Read and company announced today that they have completed arrangements for extending a credit of $3,000,000 to the Ruhr Chemical corporation which will run for six years and will bear interest at the rate of 8 per cent. This is the second German credit arrangement by Dillon, Read and company since the signing of the reperations agreement. The first was that of $50,000,000 to the German government which involved no public financing.

PLAN 30 STORY SKYSCRAPER AT 112 SOUTH CLARK

Sale of the fee of the property at 112-18 South Clark street brings to light plans for the replacement of old improvements on the site with a thirty story skyscraper to cost approximately $1,700,000. The fee, 40x90 feet, was sold by Mrs. Elizabeth Ingals Meadowcroft of Guilford, Conn., to George S. and Edgar Crilly, owners of the Crilly building, for a reported $320,000.

The sale was made subject to a seventy-seven year lease which was made with Ben I. Greenebaum on April 20, 1911. Mr. Greenebaum later sold the leasehold to the Denford building corporation which now controls the entire frontage on the west side of Clark between the alley and Monroe street, including the Nixon building.

The lease made with Mr. Greenebaum calls for an annual rental of $16,000 for the first fifty-three years and $17,000 for the rest of the term. It also provides that a fireproof building be erected at a cost not under $100,000 by May, 1936.

Pays $300 for Holding.

It is stated that the present owners of the leasehold contemplate erecting a skyscraper within the next few years, on eighty feet of their Clark street frontage. Leases made with tenants carry sixty day cancellation clauses.

The present four story structure at 112 South Clark was erected by the grandfather of Mrs. Meadowcroft immediately after the great fire which destroyed the original building. The grandfather bought the property in 1844 for the sum of $300.

Th Denford Building corporation holding it across the alley to the north from the Marshall Field Estate property situated on the north side of Adams street from Clark to La Salle. An important improvement in contemplated for this property in the future.

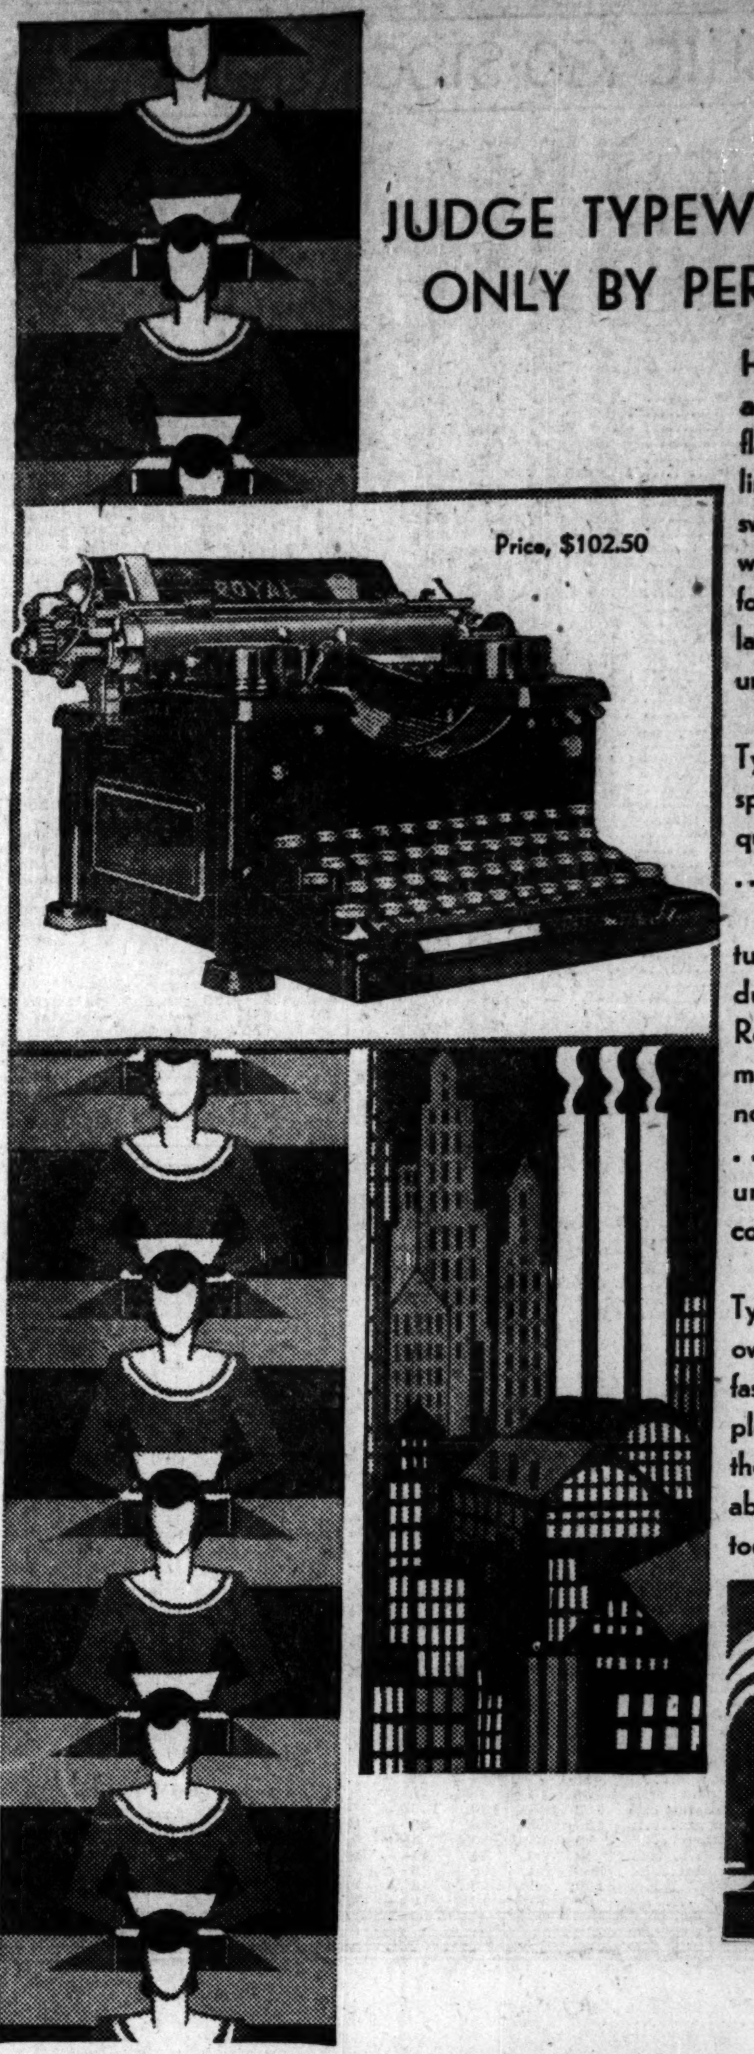
Lake Street Apartment.

Construction has started at 5235-47 West Lake street on a three story and English basement apartment building which will constitute the east unit of a project begun last fall by A. Bondi, a building contractor. The structure will occupy a site 133x123 feet. There will be twenty-six apartments of two, three and four rooms and four ground floor shops. Of brick and stone, the structure will be a duplicate of the unit put up last fall. The east unit will cost a reported $200,000 and it is stated the entire investment will be $430,000. John L. Koster is architect.

Thomas Kelly & Bros., manufacturers of plumbing supplies, have leased the second floor, 75x125, at 4442 West Roosevelt road, from Jacob Ribaysen for a term of years through E. N. Duerlein & Co.



Price, $102.50

Investment Counselors for a Quarter Century

What Are You Doing to Assure Investment Success?

Since the setback in security prices only a few weeks ago, we have had a market where almost daily a number of stocks registered new high prices for the year. Simultaneously a number of other established new lows. This has proved two things.

1—To the investor working in co-operation with such an organization as Brookmire it has shown the outstanding value of sound investment counsel, especially in a selective market where there is no definite trend.

2—To the investor using his funds to buy securities on a basis more or less of random advices, it has shown the growing difficulty of achieving success.

We have said before and we now say again—

"Never in our 25 year history has there been a time when skilled investment counsel can be of more value."

They secure advice from a staff which is supervising the investment of more than $1,000,000,000.

They know every recommendation made to them is unbiased, for Brookmire does not buy or sell securities.

To learn what Brookmire Service is and how you can use it, simply mail the coupon. It is too important a subject to neglect.

CONFIDENCE OF BULL TRADERS BOOSTS PRICES

had no general setback lasting for an entire session, for more than three weeks. While professionals apparently are still eager to shift with the market breezes, the public is insufficiently committed to be much of a factor and strong interests are continual, if moderate, buyers.

Railroad stocks assumed the leadership of the list in the late trading today following the publication of a batch of highly favorable operating statements for May, and Atchison, New York Central, Norfolk and Western and a number of others forged ahead from 3 to 8 points. Buying of New York Central was also stimulated by rumors that something "special" is in store for share holders in the near future.

Renew Scattered Selling.

The scattered selling which developed in Fleischmann yesterday was renewed today and the stock dipped below 80, but recovered later on renewed talk of the expansion program of the company believed to be foreshadowed by its merger with Royal Baking Powder. There was some activity in other food stocks.

Merger report specialists were also busy today with revived reports of a supposed consolidation of independent steel companies with Republic Iron and Steel as the nucleus. The talk influenced some buying of the stocks affected, Republic going ahead for a net gain of nearly 2 points.

The action of the directors of the Anaconda Copper company in placing the new stock on a $7 annual basis as forecast, inspired brisk demand for the shares of this corporation for a while during the afternoon, but it later fell back. Other coppers just about held their own.

Prices Erratic.

Price movements in some of the more active stock were somewhat bewildering. American Metals dipped from 65 to 60 only to rebound to 63¾. Bethlehem Steel rallied from 105 to 107⅞ and closed at 107⅝ with a net gain of 2¼ points. Continental Can advanced from 72¼ to 76½ in the last two hours, closing at the top. The Du Pont shares came to life with a bang and moved up from 176 to 183, and after losing 2 points of the advance, closed with a net gain of 6 points. North American swung within an arc of 8 points and ended the day at its high of 138½ with a net gain of 8½ points.

Talk of a merger of Wright and Curtiss persisted in spite of the apparently authentic denials that have been issued and both stocks were able to show progress at the close of the session. Motors share were inclined to lag. The oils accomplished little.

LUMBER SHIPMENTS.

CURB TRADERS MARK TIME IN IRREGULAR DAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 25.—Traders on the curb exchange today marked time as they waited for the month end credit stringency to pass before resuming aggressive operations for the advance.

Reactionary tendencies appeared in the early dealings when a 10 per cent call money renewal rate, the highest since the middle of May, gave the bears an argument for a decline and caused some profit taking in recent risers among the utilities specialties. However, the selling dried up and nothing more than irregularity developed.

After the early selling was out of the way such leaders as Electric Bond and Share and American Superpower started up at a moderate pace, although the bulges brought out some stock.

The utilities most of the day seesawed between narrow limits. The forenoon realizing sales depressed middle west utilities and American Cities Power and Light. However, Utilities Power and Light, Central States Electric, and Columbus Electric Power continued to improve.

The 47 point rise and subsequent fall of Consolidated Gas of Baltimore last week had its sequel today in news from Baltimore that the majority interests had formed a voting trust to safeguard the company against machinations of minority interests. The action was held to foreshadow a merger deal talked of in the street, possibly a closer alignment with Pennsylvania's Water and Power. Consolidated Gas remained firm on the news of the voting trust but Pennsylvania Water displayed strength, rising 4¼ points.

THIS is the experience of another New York Herald Tribune advertiser. He had houses to sell in a development called Sunshine City, at Woodridge, New Jersey.* He advertised in New York newspapers. This is what happened.

The third and fourth papers, combined sold 11 houses.

Here indeed is another New York Herald Tribune RESULT story. More than four times as effective as the second paper; more than five times as productive as the third and fourth papers combined.

Results, results, results. Increased sales, increased profits. Action. The Herald Tribune is producing for its advertisers every day. This time it was moderately priced houses. Tomorrow it will be results for a Fifth Avenue store. Next day a ten cent food. Then a fine automobile.

If you will remember that New York Herald Tribune coverage in the city and suburbs is more than 20 times as great in the better districts as it is in the poorer, you will understand why its circulation is known as "A City Without Slums." A huge city—more families than Cleveland or Pittsburgh (more than 320,000 weekdays; over 430,000 Sundays.) And growing rapidly.

That's why Herald Tribune advertisers get RESULTS. That's why the Herald Tribune in 1929 is carrying more advertising of Kellogg food products than any other New York newspaper. That's why Tiffany uses it regularly. And why Revillon Fréres, Fifth Avenue furriers, placed 93% of their morning newspaper advertising in the New York Herald Tribune in 1928.

No single example is necessarily conclusive, but together they are positive evidence that the New York Herald Tribune is so powerful, so productive of RESULTS that it should be put to work on every selling job in the New York market. Read it yourself and you will see why it produces exceptional results for its advertisers.

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.

Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is crushed by a letter from her fiance, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble, she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled, too. Towards the end of the day he tells Joy that he has just lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a comfortable villa in the south of France, which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post, Rex turns a deaf ear.

Joy, who has been listening to the doctors' colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape for her, and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The doctor is stunned by her suggestion, and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey told of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young nephew and ward, Percival Arthur Fitzroy. Finally he decides to take Joy at her word, and they enter into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis. Immediately after the ceremony, Rex, Joy, and Percival Arthur go to the south of France. Joy enjoys keeping house, and Percival Arthur has the time of his life. Joy and Rex become interested in each other. Then the Fords, Geoffrey and his mother, appear on the scene.

INSTALLMENT LI.

MADDENING SYMPTOMS.

Presently the trio encountered a group of other visitors, including little Mrs. Ford, escorted by the Anglo-Indian colonel. Geoffrey joined them. They had iced gin fizzes together in a gay cocktail hour setting of oleander planted terrace, little tables under parasols of orange and cream; a lilt of dance music, animated faces and bustling waiters—visible ones, these.

"Not in any hurry to get home, Mrs. Travers, are you?" twinkled Col. Guy Molyneux, who had observed her white shoe tapping as if on tiptoe for a flight. "When d'you dine—O! He'll let you off lightly this once."

"During the first six weeks of any marriage," added the Baroness Alberte demurely, "any wife can do what she please with any husband."

Joy was late for dinner, but was not without hope that this day of reckoning might now include the discount of five minutes of satisfaction when she retailed its doings (especially that cocktail with the Fords) to that stranger in a dinner jacket who sat in a husband's place.

Rex Travers, behind the big green bowl of fruit at the other end of the table (and of the world!), merely said, "O, did you?" and Joy remembered how once, while she was still at school, she had confided to her chum, "How I hope I don't ever get an O-Did-You-Husband; I'd rather have a man who beat me, much! Wouldn't you?"

Rex Travers observed (still from the other end of the world) that he was glad that Joy had had such a good day.

Ah, but the curtain was well down. Behind it a man, fumingly in love, set his teeth over this unseen bill handed to him in his turn by that hovering, ominous, invisible waiter. . . .

For Rex Travers was required to pay for his recent delight in having made so teasingly sure of Joy, in having taken her surrender for granted, by now living in this Hades of uncertainty.

Not to be sure of anything!

Nothing had he been allowed to hear of Joy's previous engagement, except that she had been engaged and to a man whose name he knew.

Ford. Dilletante bloke; spindly, thought Rex, who had the Englishman's ability to one adjective if that one seems to fit. Here was this Ford turning up; and Rex not able to make out if this had been by chance or not. Certainly half of leisured London was now beginning to pour by blue train or car across France and into these newly fashionable southern summer resorts where they all continued to do, wear, say the same things; but had this spindly bloke come on purpose to meet Joy? True, when he was up here at Mon Plaisir, the fellow had talked glibly enough about wanting to look out for a villa or a mas for himself out here on the Riviera like the rest of the British novelists. But was he here for Joy?

Had Joy known he was coming?

And Joy's manner in the presence of that young poseur Ford. Joy's flutterings, her rather strained gaiety, her sudden flash of childish defiance when she said, "Nothing romantic about my arrangement with my husband!" How was a man to read these signs?

If he had been absolutely certain that Joy had returned to her first attachment, and was bitterly regretting the step she had taken over this nominal marriage, well! then Rex would have known where he was. He would not at once be clear what was the next step, but at least he would know where he was.

He did not know where he was.

"I was telling Roy to stay with me," explained "Miss Harrison's" voice. "You don't want him in your study, do you?"

"Just as you like," said Doctor Travers from the door—from the other end of the universe.

He thought, after one swift glance towards her as she bent to caress the big dog's noble head, that there was still a gleam of hope that Joy might have come to prefer himself, Rex, to that spindly writing fellow?

She might be playing him, Rex? If so, little devil——

Or she might not?

The symptoms pointed either way. Could anything be more maddening?

The only thing—he thought as he closed his study door—the only thing to be done was to wait and see, keeping a straight bat and one's temper.

Rex did so successfully until the morning of that Wednesday when the party—Ford's party!—had been arranged to go and dance at the Casino.

This Wednesday morning was to mark the first occasion since their marriage that the Traverses were to discuss that marriage. It happened without intention, thus——

Joy, instead of joining Percival Arthur and friends in a bathing expedition to those rocks where bars, rings, ladders and trapezes swung invitingly over crystal depths, chose to spend the sunny morning within doors (where Travers had also shut himself up with his writing) and to busy herself with duties that could as well have been deputed to the maids.

The family washing, borne in an immense French laundry basket between two almost invisibly small French boys, had just staggered back to Mon Plaisir.

Joy proceeded to put it away. First her own things. In an apotheosis of crispiest blue tissue paper, fragile wooden hangers, and French laundry work, they had come home looking like a trousseau order straight out of one of the more exclusive shops on the Croisette.

Trousseau, indeed. . . . Firmly Joy closed cupboard doors upon all this wasted prettiness; and run up to Percival Arthur's recurrently sandy hurrah's nest on the upper story. Here she neatly stacked clean flannels, vests, some colored socks in the refinement of the worst Italian taste, a blazer, and a couple of coarse white handkerchiefs, which were apparently all that remained of the three dozen (many of them bearing names of different men at Newborough) which had come to France with Percival Arthur Fitzroy.

"Men may come and men may go, but housekeeping goes on forever," philosophized the villa's sore-hearted little mistress with girlish cynicism. "Perhaps that's why marriage lasts, in spite of Geoffrey's theories. Women used to put up with almost any husband for the sake of living in a nice house, just as they put up with anybody now for the sake of a seat in a good car. . . . Perhaps there would be fewer miserable wives if more women liked domestic jobs—look at this?" She disentangled the braces from the heap of fishing line on the floor. "Will the boy, by the time he's thirty-three, have got like Rex with all his belongings pigeonholed and listed? Or is it, because Rex keeps his clothes like an ant or a bee, that in other ways he's such an inhuman brute?"

She had kept Rex's washing to the last. Embracing a pile of it she went into that inhuman brute's bedroom.

This was, actually, the dressing room, simply furnished (now that a clean sweep had been made of Madame Jeanne's laceries and ornaments) with a single bed, wardrobe, chairs, two small tables and chest of drawers, all dazzlingly Ripolined. Its pleasantly astringent masculine atmosphere of pigskin leather, cigaret tobacco, bay rum, and lavender shaving stick, had drowned the last of pervading waft of "Dans la Nuit." The place was about half the size of that cupid aviary which was now "Mme. Travers' room," and with which it communicated by those white folding doors.

Good morning!

The general impression carried away after viewing "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" is that of chaos, from which have shone outstandingly, a brilliant performance of Lily Damita; the sonorous, sympathetic voice of Henry B. Walthall; some exquisite photography that has given a rare and mellow beauty to many of the scenes portrayed, and the reproduction of the bridge—of San Luis Rey—a swaying link built by the Incas to span the ravine between Lima and Cuzco. These excellencies, plus the costumes of the people and the general atmosphere of the picture, which seem to be as they would have been in the year of 1714 when the story is dated, make worth your while a photoplay which otherwise would prove tiresome.

The film is the screenization of Thornton Wilder's book, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey."

This bridge, built in honor of St. Louis and regarded by the inhabitants of Peru as something sacred, and as everlasting as the hills, collapses one day, hurling five people into the rushing waters of the ravine.

Great terror descends on the simple, superstitious folk of the country. God is angry with them, they fear, and complete destruction is about to be visited upon them. They rush to the cathedral and their beloved priest, Father Juniper.

He, standing in his pulpit, a shaft of golden sunlight making his white robes and inspired face luminous, quiets their fears and gives a history of the lives of those who have gone down with the bridge, explaining—as he sees it—the wisdom and kindness of the Almighty in calling these five away. It is his narrative that is pictured.

Mr. Walthall's voice as it resounds through the great cathedral, his face and the rapt, fearful, seeking ones of the kneeling throng who hear, through him, the voice of God, create an unforgettable effect.

You'll never know what an actress Lily Damita is till you see her in this picture! She portrays a wild, beautiful and vicious dancer, and—let Clara Bow go sit at her feet and take lessons, for, compared to Lily, Clara hasn't done anything yet.

Emily Fitzroy is fine as the selfish, tyrannical Marquessa; Raquel Torres is sweet and convincing as the chaste and childlike Pepita; Ernest Torrence pleases as Uncle Pio, and the twin brothers Esteban and Manuel are well played by Don Alvarado and Duncan Rinaldo. The entire cast is satisfactory.

Much intelligent thought has been lavished on detail and, as I said, "The Bridge of San Luis Rey" is, pictorially, a lovely thing.

Sven Hedin Declares U. S. Dry Law Bad as Ethical Method

A prohibition law that is a mistake, too much business and too little soul, no leading literature and too much sensationalism were some of the criticisms of America gleaned by Dr. Sven Hedin. He is an author, discoverer of many of the secrets of Tibet, and is on his second visit to Chicago.

"One of the things in America that I see is the terrible mistake of your prohibition law," Dr. Hedin declared. "For myself, I don't like to have people tell me what I should or should not drink. I like my freedom. At home in Stockholm I may drink what I please, but I do not even drink beer. When people begin to sin against the prohibition law, respect for law is repressed. Respect for law can't be had with laws like the prohibition law, which is against the liberty of man."

Dr. Hedin, a member of the Academy of Sciences and the Swedish academy, expressed disappointment that no American to his knowledge had been awarded the Nobel prize for literature. American motion pictures have a low standard, he averred, while American newspapers devote their columns to sensationalism, leaving almost no room for other news which contributes to the education of an important nation.

For the last two years he has headed the Hedin expedition into the province of Sinkiang, China, backed by the Swedish government, to seek treasures of the natural sciences. Already tools and pottery of the stone age and relics of thirty full grown dinosaurs have been found by the party of twelve Swedish, two German and six Chinese scholars. At least two more years will be spent searching. The explorer will return to Stockholm, then by the Siberian railway to Tibet, where for 44 years he has carried on his explorations.

VATICAN CITY, June 25.—(AP)—Pope Pius today received in formal audience the first ambassador from a king of united Italy, Devecchi di Val Cismon, one of the leaders in the Fascist march to Rome in 1922. His reception was made possible by the Lateran treaties of Feb. 11, which established the Vatican state as a recognized entity within the territory governed from the Quirinal.

The epoch making exchange of diplomatic courtesies was marked by all due ceremony outwardly, but once the formality of Count Devecchi's presentation of his credentials was concluded cordiality reigned and the pontiff and the ambassador chatted with each other in his holiness' private library.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. The $5 award for today's question was donated to the Camp Algonquin fund.

The Question.

The Answers.

Lloyd Benson, 729 Briar place, toolmaker—It is a crime that they haven't been banned long time ago. They are not modern, not at all in keeping with the spirit and freedom of the times. The trouble is, a breach of promise suit is too often for a mercenary purpose.

Mrs. Gertrude Perlin, 7011 Jeffery avenue, housewife — I believe breach of promise suits should be brought to court as in any other case in which an individual has cause for calling in the aid of the law in a question to be decided by outsiders. With some men it is true that their word is as good as their bond. With others, their word is even less than a scrap of paper.

John R. Crawford, 4546 North Racine avenue, salesman — Yes, because most breach of promise suits are brought into court for financial gain, because a man has money. Marriage itself is a serious step. Better have a breakup before than after. But with a breach of promise plaintiff, it is a good thing that the man did not marry her. The suit may be the cheapest way out of it.

Miss Ida M. Saule, Maywood, Ill., stenographer — They should not be banned from the courts. A woman has a better chance of winning her case before a court. The courts are friendly to women, and in so many of these cases it is the woman who needs a friend.

E. W. Drew, 1841 Pittsburg building, branch manager—Doubtless these cases should not be tried by the ordinary courts but by a special tribunal. It would save many a prominent man from embarrassment, save his from publicity, in instances of false accusation, and possibly add somewhat to the morals of our people.

1,000 Employes Share Cochran Carpet Wealth

With Nephew, 26, as His Principal Heir.

New York, June 25.—[Special.]—The residuary estate of Alexander Smith Cochran, wealthy carpet manufacturer and one time husband of Ganna Walska, will go to his 26 year old nephew, Thomas Ewing Jr., according to the terms of his will, which was filed for probate today in White Plains. The value of the residue is estimated at about $10,000,000. The total value of the estate is estimated at about $35,000,000.

Among the other beneficiaries are five brothers and sisters, who receive $1,000,000 each, and a large number of employés. All the employés who served Mr. Cochran for twenty years or more will receive $1,000, it is understood. About 1,000 employés will share in the estate.

The five brothers and sisters are William R. Cochran of Baltimore; Gifford A. Cochran, Mrs. Anna C. Ewing, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cochran Bowers of Yonkers and Mrs. Elinor C. Stewart of Plainfield, N. J.

Other bequests include $500,000 to the St. John's Riverside hospital of Yonkers, $1,000,000 to the chapter of the national cathedral in Washington as an endowment fund for the College of Preachers, $250,000 to St. Paul's school, Concord, N. H., and $25,000 to the American Scenic and Historic Preservation society of Yonkers, which also is to receive a collection of American portraits and early American furniture.

Thomas Ewing Jr., William F. Cochran, and Maitland F. Griggs, an attorney, are named executors. It was said at the surrogate's office that the inheritance tax would be between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Mr. Cochran died recently at Saranac Lake. He was widely known as a sportsman and philanthropist.

CANADIAN KIWANIS GROUP OPPOSES "NEXT WAR" TALK

Milwaukee, Wis., June 25.—(AP)—Deploring what they say is the practice of many public men of various countries to talk about "the next great war," a group of Canadian delegates to the 31th annual convention of Kiwanis International will offer a resolution of condemnation.

The resolution is to be introduced by Harold M. Diggon, chairman of the public affairs commission of the Dominion of Canada. It says among other things that "whereas the peoples of the English-speaking nations, as well as those belonging to the other civilized nations of the world, are overwhelmingly opposed to war and in favor of peaceful settlement of all international disputes, be it resolved we deplore the practice of many public men to give utterance to what they term 'the next great war' and that Kiwanis clubs everywhere be exhorted to voice their disapproval and condemnation of the foresaid pernicious practices."

Honest men in business form the new aristocracy, the largest civilization ever has known, declared John B. Kennedy, an associated editor of Colliers weekly, in an address today.

Obviously, he said, the great majority of business men are honest. Otherwise, there could not possibly be a huge and smoothly functioning system of business such as exists today; instead, there would be a roughly functioning system of legalized burglary.

Tribune Free Ice Service Is Started for City's Needy

Tickets for ice furnished by THE TRIBUNE'S free ice fund have been distributed to sixteen social service agencies in the city, who will redistribute them to needy families in tenement areas, the central headquarters of the United Charities reported yesterday.

Each ticket, carrying seven coupons for twenty-five pounds each, will start this week the summer's emergency relief to families who hope to keep babies from becoming sickly and the older children in good health. For the families who stay in Chicago all summer long with never a chance at vacations in cooler climates the ice fund is indispensable. But only so long as TRIBUNE readers come to the aid of the fund will the wagons make their regular visitations to tenement back doors.

Those agencies to whom tickets have been allotted for distribution include the Central Charity bureau, Children's Memorial hospital, Henry Booth house, Infant Welfare society, Jewish Social Service bureau, Juvenile court, Madonna center, Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, St. Ann's Day nursery, St. Mary's Settlement and Day nursery, St. Paul's Settlement and Day nursery, American Legion auxiliary, Margaret Etter creche, St. Rose's Day nursery, St. Elizabeth's Day nursery, United Charities.

These contributions to both TRIBUNE funds have been received:

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In an obituary for Dr. Clarence McClellan yesterday, THE TRIBUNE erroneously stated that the funeral services would be held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. today at a chapel at 4542 Ravenswood avenue. Burial will be in Graceland cemetery.

An item about a gambling raid last Saturday at 1365 Hyde Park boulevard, as carried in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, listed one of those arrested as Miss Helen Martin, who gave police her address as 8104 South Laflin street. A. A. Lipke, residing at the Laflin street address, says no person named Martin lives or is known there. Hyde Park police admitted several of the women arrested gave false names and addresses.

"Louise," Opera of French Poor, Wins Applause

Ravinia's Singing Actors Give Fine Show.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Another page unfolded in the Ravinia répertoire disclosed "Louise" last night, a work of the comparatively modern French school, a compound of homespun philosophy, simple melodies, and the joys and tragedies of the poor.

For such a work there was call for another fine Ravinia cast, Yvonne Gall in the name part, Edward Johnson making his first appearance of the summer as Julien, Julia Claussen and Leon Rothier as the mother and father, and a half dozen others in rôles of less length.

Conductor Louis Hasselmans, having done "Marouf" two nights before, followed up his success by an uncommonly good performance of this score. He is a highly able conductor, with special sympathy for works of a modern trend, and with this cast and the golden tone of the Chicago Symphony orchestra as his interpreting mediums, he put across a performance of high merit.

In fact, there are many agreeable things to be said of this rendition. The only thing against it was that the time limit under which Ravinia programs necessarily operate did not permit the Montmartre scene to be given, because that is the finest bit of music in the whole opera. But Mr. Johnson was in splendid voice and romantic manner as the young poet. Miss Gall, also singing superbly, was a pretty and altogether human young girl in her rôle, and Mme. Claussen and Mr. Rothier are two singing actors of great distinction.

During the scene representing the crowning of the Muse, a carnival was staged that showed both resourcefulness and imagination. It was lively and full of color, and it built up to an impressive and exciting climax of music and dance, the latter brilliantly led by Ruth Page. There is a fine bit of drama at this point, piling wave on wave of festival spirit, then separating it all to disclose the drab mother in the middle. No comment is made. None is necessary. The hush that falls on orchestra and singers is one of the most dramatic moments of the piece.

A new summer series of recitals was begun at the Central theater yesterday afternoon when Rudolph Ganz appeared in a piano program. Beginning with a Chopin group, passing to one of the earlier Beethoven sonatas, and continuing with some selected shorter numbers which included a brief group of his own, Mr. Ganz displayed all the ripened musicianship, the brilliant technique, the warm intelligence of interpretation which for a quarter century has made him one of the best liked and most applauded pianists of America.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 25.—A crowded distiguished audience greeted the opera "Judith" composed by Eugene Goossens, conductor of the Rochester Symphony orchestra, with the libretto by Arnold Bennett, English novelist, at its initial performance at Covent Garden tonight.

The Wise Parent Knows Who Her Child's Friends Are

Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Mrs. Bevans has prepared two booklets, one on "Prayers and Graces for Children" and another called "Books to Be Read to the Children or by Them," which will be sent free on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

The lioness sat majestically in the corner of her big cage. She had three cubs, perhaps two or three months old. They lay asleep near her. The crowd stood patiently looking at them, hoping something would happen soon.

At last one of the babies woke up, wobbled to his feet, and went on a tour of the cage, sniffing at this, biting at that, and lingering in a corner, followed by the quiet gaze of his mother.

Then back he came and walked up between her front paws. Of course, nothing happened to him in that little pilgrimage. But did his mother let it go at that? Did she take a chance? She did not.

She smelled that cub over, every inch of him. From his head to his tail and back, giving him an occasional lick with her big tongue. Then satisfied, when she saw him settled at her side, she went to sleep again.

I wonder how many of us do as much? O, well, physically, yes. But how many of us parents try to find out whether all is well with our children when they've been away? How many of us know where our children are and with whom they are when they're not with us? Not just as far as the little children are concerned—it's easier to keep track of them. But not so simple when they're older.

We can't always govern every influence that will play upon our children. But we should know what those influences are and do our best to make the most of the best ones, and to neutralize the others.

Such an idea might be thought, by some people with a "survival of the fittest" philosophy, to be the notion of theorists or coddling mothers. But it isn't. It's the practical experience of all those who deal with average children, as well as the firm belief of those men who have delinquent boys come under their notice, that mothers and fathers should know where their children are, with whom they are, and what are their activities. For instance, during Boys' week in Chicago, Judge Francis Allegretti, who has had 20,000 delinquent youths appear before him, said: "Another deterrent to misbehavior is the careful observation of a boy's companions and the places he frequents."

And I'd like to add another remark he made, though it isn't relevant to this subject, except as it helps in every dealing with children: "Boys detest being driven, but they are always eager to follow a capable leader. Therefore, the boy's supervision must take the form of suggestion, play and leadership, presented in such a way that the boy coöperates in his own welfare."

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Potato Pancakes.

The potato pancake is a favorite of masculine palates. Tons of these pancakes were served on the old free lunch counters and the recipe, which probably was German in the first place, got widely distributed and the product was praised as something delicious and unequaled. During the late war hundreds and hundreds of different recipes for this delicacy as a conservation product came to me, and brought the realization of how numerous were the ways of making potato pancakes. Probably the general and best way is to grate the raw potato which, however, so soon turns pink if the work is at all delayed. The grated potato is exceedingly wet, therefore something has to be added to make it dry, and egg, as it stiffens in cooking, will do that, but if too many are used the pancake is too dry.

Of many recipes this was the one we thought about average, and which produced an excellent pancake: Six large raw potatoes, two eggs, one onion, salt and pepper to taste. Grate the potatoes and onion, add the eggs and seasoning and beat them all together. If it seems likely to be too wet a little flour may be added and some people always add it whether or no, but a superior cake can be made without it.

Have the griddle brought to the right heat slowly, and be sure it is exceedingly smooth. An old way of smoothing a griddle was to rub it with salt. Grease it lightly and then put the mixture on it in the shape of little cakes. The little cakes are less likely to be soggy than larger ones, and they are prettier and daintier, also. Cook the cake slowly until it is browned on one side, then turn and cook on the other.

This is excellent with gravy or with various types of sauces. It may be served as an accompaniment, or it may be accompanied by a little broiled bacon or small sausages. It is served with fried pork chops, fried ham and also with pot roast.

Just the other day I saw an account of a man who opened a plain restaurant and had exceedingly plain food, but succeeded.

Sally Asking More Letters in Contest for White City Trip

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

It's nearly time now, girls and boys, to see who'll be my hundred guests, when we start our summer's fun with our big party at White City, Friday, July 5.

I'll choose the winners tomorrow, you know, and give their names in next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE. So if you write and mail your letter now, telling why you'd like to come, it will reach me in time to be considered.

All you have to do is tell why you'd like to come to this particular party and what you like best in an amusement park and what could be easier than that, when you think of the glorious afternoon we'll have!

Just imagine how it will be, a nice July day, and all White City at our disposal. We'll forget the heat immediately for we'll begin on a cool ride through Venice. Then we'll be zipping through the air, high above the buildings, on the Pep, the Coaster, Shooting the Chutes, and all the other stunts. There'll be a nice surprise, too, awaiting in the picnic grove. When you think of all that, can't you write a letter that will let me know you'll be among the hundred girls and boys, who will enjoy the party most.

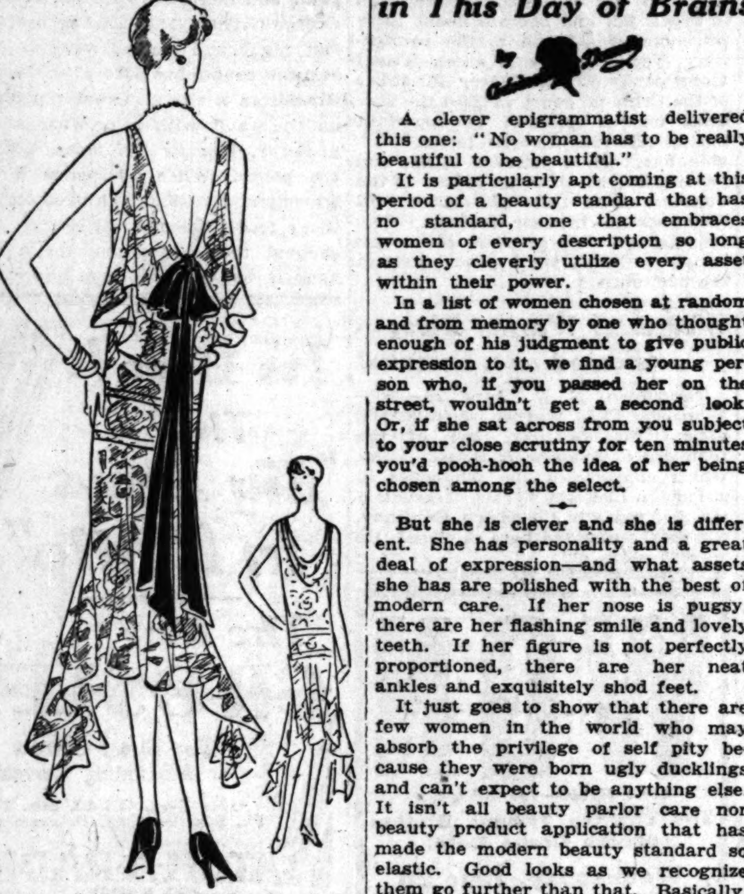
"You've Seen That Dog."

I am a rural school teacher. As I was walking to school one morning a little dog followed me. Several times he pleased the children very much by looking in through the open school door. About 10 a. m., as I was busy at my desk correcting papers I could hear the children turning in their seats and without glancing up from my work I said in an irritated voice, "Get busy. You've seen that dog before." I heard giggles, looked up to see the county superintendent standing in the door. Surely that was my most embarrassing moment. L. C.

Bow and Streamer Give Color Contrast



BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special correspondence.]—It never reins but it pours—thus we might be tempted to remark in regarding some of these new big bows in the back with their reinlike streamers that flow 'way down sometimes below the hem of the garment.

It is an exceedingly graceful style and one which keeps within the general spirit of our summer finery. These long streamers are part and parcel of the dipping hem lines, the feminine capes and boleros, the exquisite materials exploited by today's clothes. In the creation of the frock of printed fabric the bow often assumes responsibility for color contrast.

In the above charming dinner dance gown of green and yellow chiffon we find the bow and streamers taking upon themselves this duty just mentioned, for the material used is black velvet. The draped front, the dipping sides, the two bands that give one a choice of waist lines are all smart features of our summer mode.

The afternoon hats for summer have, so it seems, combined chic and beauty in a manner never before realized. Much of the chic is contributed by adroit plaitings of wide side brims and by foreshortened fronts. This latter treatment is found often in the hair models and in those combinations of lace and hair which are being shown. The cutout back is another novelty of the big hat mode. By this is meant that a V incision is made at the back brim, a manipulation which requires one of those border trimmings which, in lace or fabric or fanciful forms of the straw itself, are now so much to the fore among formal models.

It's the Clever Woman Who Is Really Lovely in This Day of Brains

by Antoinette Donnelly

It is particularly apt coming at this period of a beauty standard that has no standard, one that embraces women of every description so long as they cleverly utilize every asset within their power.

In a list of women chosen at random and from memory by one who thought enough of his judgment to give public expression to it, we find a young person who, if you passed her on the street, wouldn't get a second look. Or, if she sat across from you subject to your close scrutiny for ten minutes you'd pooh-hooh the idea of her being chosen among the select.

But she is clever and she is different. She has personality and a great deal of expression—and what assets she has are polished with the best of modern care. If her nose is pugsy, there are her flashing smile and lovely teeth. If her figure is not perfectly proportioned, there are her neat ankles and exquisitely shod feet.

It just goes to show that there are few women in the world who may absorb the privilege of self pity because they were born ugly ducklings and can't expect to be anything else. It isn't all beauty parlor care nor beauty product application that has made the modern beauty standard so elastic. Good looks as we recognize them go further than that. Basically, yes, care, professional or home done, must be apparent. Features aren't so important, providing they are reasonably good. They do not have to be perfect. Things, however, that may be improved, like complexion, hair, figure and so on, must be or a girl puts herself out of the popular running.

But we go farther than that still. There are graces of mind and body that set up a personality which is entitled to enter a good looks contest. There's carriage of beauty. We don't usually speak of carriage of the mind, but why not? There are minds that slump, sag, cave in, and minds that are erect, pliant and perennially young.

Merlyn has two pairs of shoes. I had taken one of each pair to the shoe shop near our home to be repaired. She didn't want to stay at home alone when I went to get them, so she put on the remaining two shoes and came with me.

Why Dig Up the Ashes of His Past? It Gets You Nowhere

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If you're young and newly wed or any age, for that matter, and newly wed, start out from your wedding day. Don't go prying back into that misty past of your mate, hoping you won't find trouble—but looking for it just the same.

You're married. The course lies straight ahead. Except in case of some revelation that might exert a harmful influence on the future, keep the eyes and heart focussed forward front.

The reason for the caution is that brides are notorious for stirring up misery for themselves by prying too deeply into the past lives of their husbands. The prying should have been done before marriage; otherwise, it should be judged just a bit beneath one's curiosity. It isn't to serious disclosures such as criminal doings or harmful escapades we refer. Curiously, women seem to be able to bear up better under these than under the disclosures about early companions of their own sex.

FARM and GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

An argument can be started almost any time among vegetable gardeners if the question of staking and pruning tomatoes is brought up. Some stake, others refuse to support their tomato vines in any way. Growers who raise tomatoes on sandy soil claim that it is best to let the vines sprawl over the ground to prevent the soil from drying out. Other growers who strive to get quality in tomatoes claim that it pays to stake them.

Horticulturists at the state experimentation station at Urbana, Ill. decided to make some careful tests to see whether staking and pruning were worthwhile. L. H. Strubinger's report of the tests says that experiments do not show enough evidence of increased yields, superior quality of fruit or earliness of ripening to justify the staking and pruning of tomatoes.

This investigator finds that many gardeners continue to support the practice of staking and pruning. They attempt to justify the practice because of the continued cultivation that is made possible and that may be very advantageous during periods of dry weather. Supporting the vines also keeps the fruit off the ground so that less damage is caused by contact with moist earth during hot weather. Such practices also facilitate harvesting and preparing for market, since the fruits are more easily seen and need very little, if any, cleaning and wiping, says Mr. Strubinger.

It is pointed out that pruning and staking tomatoes is expensive for material and labor involved. It also is very likely to open up the vines so that the fruits are exposed to a great deal of injury from sun-scalding, the tests showed.

Strubinger finds that systems used vary all the way from the most highly specialized practice of pruning to a single stem so that growth is very limited, to the practice of simply supporting the vine without limiting its growth. The former method is used commercially in some regions, while the latter is used by the home garden in order to keep the fruit off the soil without cutting the yield through reduction of the bearing area. Barrel hoops often are used for this latter purpose or cylinders made from wire fencing may be placed over the plants, he says.

Now be safe always from offence to those who come close
ONCE a person realizes the truth about innocent body odors this perplexing question need never trouble again.
You have been told you may give offence and not know it. And to use soaps, baths or lotions to guard against it. And when you were done you knew as much as before.
So we say find out whether you may be troubled, by an easy home test and then if necessary use the method science knows gives protection.

The cause of body odors is acid perspiration. Every chemist knows it. Every doctor knows it. Perspiration contains certain acids which unfortunately are offensive. Whether you are troubled can be shown by a simple test which will be sent you free. It is scientific. Well known to all chemists. It is conclusive. It will put the evidence before your own eyes.
Then if the test is positive in your case, simply use SPIC. It just unfailingly and instantly changes the offensive acids, if they are present to harmless salt. It gives perfect protection for an average of 14 hours with each application. No guess work about this. It is patented. So there is nothing else like it.
To use SPIC, simply dust and rub it on the body, under the arms, on the feet. It cannot irritate. It cannot harm. It does not stop perspiration. But it does absorb moisture and neutralize the acids. This soothing, splendid preparation stops chafing. And prickly heat.

WOMAN WRITER FACES U. S. QUIZ; BLAMES BRITAIN

Agnes Smedley Denies She Wed Hindu.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 25.—Agnes Smedley, American woman author of the recent novel, "Daughter of the Earth," who has been traveling in China for several weeks, was requested to call at the local American consulate today to make an affidavit stating whether or not she ever married a Hindu citizen of India.

The consulate also examined Miss Smedley's passport, but upon her making an affidavit for the purpose of sending it to Washington that she had never married a Hindu, the consulate permitted her to retain her passport.

Suspects British Agents.

In an interview Miss Smedley said the consulate had not informed her of the reason for the affidavit pertaining to her alleged marriage to a Hindu and said she had obtained her passport from the American embassy in Berlin. She said she strongly suspects the request for an investigation of her actions originated in the British-Indian secret service, which she alleged has been trailing her about the world due to her writings on behalf of the Indian nationalist movement.

Miss Smedley said that while living in Berlin she was closely associated with an Indian revolutionist named Chattapadhyaya, who was wanted by the British authorities on sedition charges. Chattapadhyaya is a brother of the Indian woman poetess, Mrs. Naidu, who recently lectured before women's organizations in America, but later went to England. Miss Smedley said she never was married to Chattapadhyaya, but believed such an allegation might have been made in order to cause the American consular authorities to withdraw her passport.

Kept Out of India.

A perusal of Miss Smedley's book discloses that the heroine married a Hindu, but Miss Smedley said that while three-fourths of her book is a narrative of her personal life it is not true that she ever married a Hindu.

Miss Smedley said her purpose in coming to China was to investigate the nationalist movement here.

Miss Smedley was born in the town of Osgood, Sullivan county, Missouri, lived in New Mexico and Arizona. She lived in New Mexico and Alizona. She attended the University of California and then studied at New York university, where she became interested in the Indian nationalist movement.

BUTTON BATTLE RAGES AT SENATE TARIFF HEARING

And Straw Hat Has Its Innings.

Washington, D. C., June 25.—[Special.]—A battle of buttons raged today before a subcommittee of the senate finance committee dealing with the sundries schedule of the tariff bill.

F. C. Vetter of Muscatine, Ia., representing manufacturers of fresh water pearl buttons, many of whom are located along the Mississippi river, asked the committee to approve increased duties on agate buttons provided in the house bill. Mr. Vetter said that since the house committee approved a higher rate large quantities of agate buttons have been imported with a view to the accumulation of stocks before the tariff law becomes effective. He ruged prompt action on the tariff bill. Importers of agate buttons opposed the increased rates.

Other commodities involved in conflicting testimony before the subcommittee included brushes, straw hats, sponges, asbestos, and braids for millinery. Manufacturers favored higher rates, while importers sought retention of the provisions of the present law.

A. J. Roth, president of James H. Rhodes & Co. of Chicago, opposed an increase in the duty on certain types of sponges favored by Senators Duncan Fletcher and Park Trammell [Dem., Fla.].

President Hoover today issued a proclamation increasing the duty on linseed oil from 3.3 cents per pound to 3.7 cents per pound. The house bill increases the rate to 4.16 cents. The controversy over linseed oil has occupied the attention of the tariff commission for several years.

SUPREME COURT O.K.'S CONVICTION OF 2 RACKETEERS

Gust Stavrakas and Peter Voulgaris, president and business agent of the Bootblacks' Protective union of Illinois, who are among the few who have been convicted of racketeering in Cook county, were refused new trials yesterday by the Supreme court. The reviewing court upheld the sentences for conspiracy, along with the fines of $1,000 each and costs. The prison sentences are indeterminate terms of one to five years.

The two union leaders were convicted in 1927 of a conspiracy to deface and injure the building of Samuel Levine, 262 North Crawford avenue, a shoe shop owner, who refused to accede to their demands.

OFFICIALS CAN'T AGREE IF SALTIS FILES ARE LOST

Search for the missing government files in the Joe Saltis booze case became more confused yesterday by conflicting statements from officials both affirming and denying that the papers are missing. The bootlegger pleaded guilty to transporting a carload of beer from Pennsylvania to Chicago before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward Monday and was given a thirty day sentence. Later in the day it was claimed the evidence against him had disappeared.

Before departing for Washington yesterday United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson asked the cooperation of the department of justice in locating the files and said a thorough investigation would be launched. But in the afternoon Chief Investigator Patrick T. Roche of the state's attorney's office, who as a government intelligence agent made the case against Saltis four years ago, went to the Federal building and announced that the complete files of the case are now in a vault in the First National Bank building where they have reposed for months.

Assistant United States District Attorney Daniel Anderson, who obtained the thirty day sentence for Saltis after it appeared that a jury trial would not be successful, still maintained, however, that the district attorney's files were missing.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 25.—In response to protests from Manila against the possible discontinuance of the radio circuit established several months ago through a contract between the Radio Corporation of America and the Chinese National Construction commission, Chwang Chi-hui, director of the radio department in the ministry of communications, stated today that "the radio circuit between Shanghai, Manila, and San Francisco, will be retained pending completion of a new station here which has been contracted for by the construction commission, following which communication between Shanghai and San Francisco will be direct. The possibility exists, however, that the present rates will be investigated and reconsidered."

Ask Writ to Stop City's Ban on Beverage Sales

A petition for an injunction to restrain the city from prohibiting the sale of malt and cereal beverages in restaurants and grocery stores was filed yesterday in the Superior court by the Atlas Brewing company, the Schoenhofen company, the Prima company, and the United States Brewing company. The bill charges that the brewing companies' business has been injured as a result of threats to arrest store and restaurant owners for selling the beverages without a license. The bill states that such retailers need not be licensed, holding that the law applies only to those who deal exclusively in beverages.

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday celebrated his impending departure for Europe to study divorce conditions by revoking memberships in his alimony club. Ten alimony debtors, jailed for failure to make payments to their divorced wives, were released on their promises to find work and meet payments. The judge leaves the bench today at noon for a two month's tour of European capitals.

SCOUTS RUMORS HILLMAN IS TO WED FILM STAR

If Edward Hillman Jr. is engaged to Marion Nixon, movie actress at Hollywood, his first cousin and best friend, Lee J. Strauss, who was best man at his marriage in 1924 to Dorothy Martin, Evanston society girl, does not know it.

"If he were engaged to Miss Nixon I believe I would know it," Mr. Strauss said yesterday afternoon at his realty office. "He has the habit of calling me every ten days or so from California and we chat over business and all sorts of confidential things. If the engagement were true, or if it were pending, he would have spoken of it."

Mr. Strauss is the son-in-law of Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel for the city of Chicago, who was Edward Hillman's attorney at the time the young heir's wife brought divorce action on a charge of cruelty. The story of Hillman's pursuit of his bride, who ran away from him after four days of their honeymoon, afforded snappy reading for many weeks.

EQUITY FIGHT BRINGS RIOT OF MOVIE LEADERS

Hollywood, Cal., June 25.—[Special.]—Hostility between movie stars and New York stage players broke tonight when scores of members of the Actors' Equity association stormed a meeting at the Beverly-Wilshire hotel and turned it into a riot.

Conrad Nagel, chairman of the meeting and leading spirit among film actors opposed to the invasion of Equity, was heckled by members of Equity, who accused him of treason.

Lois Wilson brought on the storm when she demanded to know, "What right has an actor from the New York stage to come out here and tell me what to do?"

Clarke Silvernail, New York dramatist and author, leaped up and said, "We're out here because the movie producers brought us here. We didn't ask to come. They needed us to make their talkies."

Two armed men walked into the paint and interior decorating store of George Grenier, 1440 East 55th street, last night and carried away a cash register containing $300 after locking Grenier in a vault. Grenier pounded on the vault with a crowbar and a passerby, hearing the noise, notified the police. When Policemen Frank Murphy and William Whitwell arrived they freed Grenier after he had shouted the combination for a half hour through the door of the vault.

We are not deceiving ourselves and we're not trying to deceive you into believing this is one of those miraculously wonderful opportunities where all you have to do is to rake in big money! We do have an opportunity for men who recognize a worth while tie-up with one of the really substantial real estate operators of Chicago whose men have gone along steadily with him and made money by their willingness to work for it.

Arthur T. McIntosh & Co., over the period of the last twenty years have been a successful concern—our men have capitalized on the soundness of our two decades of experience. They've worked and stuck to their guns because it has paid them well.

Consequently we have not had to lure salesmen to us by promising them "the greatest," "best paying," and similar superlatively phrased opportunities. The men we want are not influenced by such extravagant claims. They know that when the set-up is right they can apply themselves diligently, and—make money.

The set-up we have planned for the balance of this year opens the opportunity for a number of salesmanagers and salesmen who know and appreciate the advantage of tying up with a successful house. That type of men will be granted interviews between 4.30 p. m. and 8:00 p. m. today and tomorrow. Call for Mr. Stelle.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

FIRST RATE 2D MORTGAGE LOANS

Second mortgage loans are cut to order, so to speak, just like a suit of clothes. They may be first rate, second rate, or tenth rate.

The rate applied by the Chicago Morris Plan Bank as agent is first rate, because it is the lowest rate.

And it is the only rate which we apply to any second mortgage loan which is made by this institution.

If you do not get this distinction, just make a few inquiries as to what a second mortgage loan will cost you and see how they compare with our rate of 6% interest and commissions as follows:
